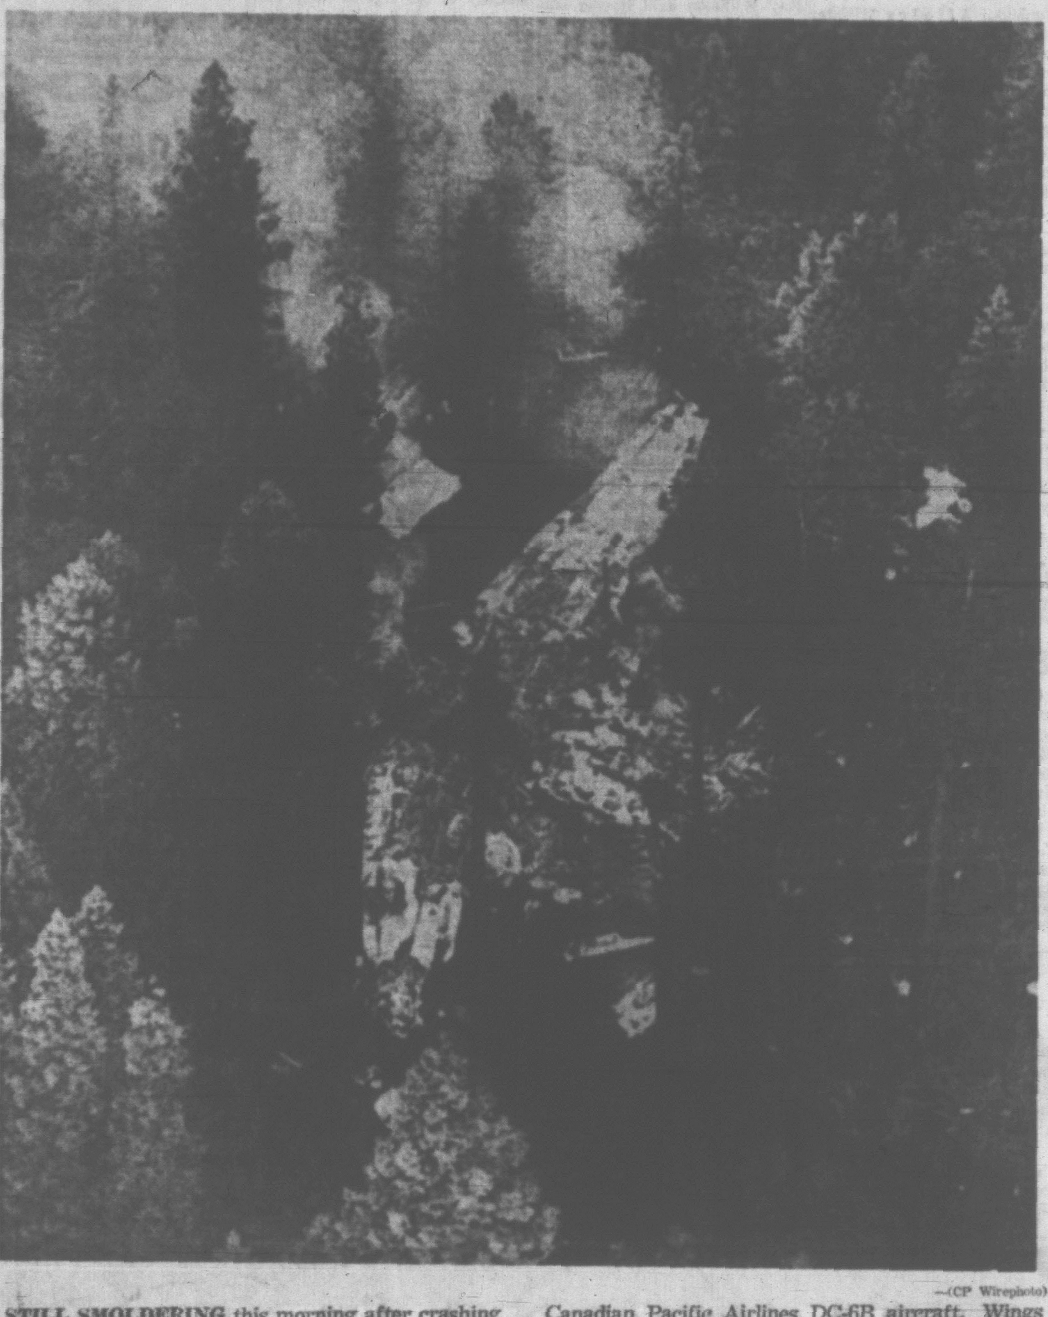
Bomb Blast Feared in Air Crash



—(CP Wirephoto)

STILL SMOLDERING this morning after crashing Thursday night killing all 52 aboard is remains of Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B aircraft. Wings of plane fell into trees after tail section fell off.

City Mother, Prospector Among Victims

Two Victoria families today mourn the loss of close relatives killed when a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane exploded and crashed near 100-Mile House Thursday afternoon.

They are:

Victoria architect Charles E. Craig, 46, and Mrs. Craig, 2524 Queenswood, whose son David, 21, was flying north on a prospecting trip.

Oyster farmer W. K. Quayle, 390 Quayle Road, whose wife, Alsace Lorraine, was flying to Watson Lake to be with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Johnson-Watson, now expecting her sixth child.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig were informed of the tragedy by Canadian Pacific Airlines Thursday night.

David Craig was a field prospector with the firm of Rodstrom Yellowknife Mines Ltd., 556 Johnson Street. Born in Winnipeg, he was educated at Glenlyon School, Victoria, and at the University of Victoria where he studied arts and science.

"ALL-ROUND MAN"

"I couldn't say enough for him," said H. E. Fowler, manager of Rodstrom Mines. "He was a good all-round man who got along with everyone. I would say he had great promise."

Mr. Craig was flying to the company's Bullion Creek Mines in northern B.C. when the plane crashed.

"He was up there before last December in 70-below zero temperatures," Mr. Fowler said, "and he was keen to go back this week."

Mr. Craig joined the firm last November. He was unmarried and devoted much of his leisure time to the study of mining. His brother, James, also attended Glenlyon School, and both were keen cricketers.

ARCHITECT

Their father, a well-known city architect before retirement, received a National Design Award in 1962 for his design of a multiple - dwelling villa at 960 Humboldt for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. Quayle had originally planned to leave on the weekend for Watson Lake, but changed her mind and left Thursday so she would be in Watson Lake for the weekend.

She left Victoria at 1:20 p.m. Thursday.

FRANCE SHUNS N-COMMITTEE

PARIS (Reuters) — France has informed the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that it is not interested in an American proposal for the creation of a NATO nuclear committee, French officials said today.

The proposal was made by U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara at a meeting here of NATO defence ministers at the end of May.

Sen. Kennedy Softens Punch Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today that U.S. military action in South Viet Nam is "essential" to allow the Saigon government to carry out its political functions.

He inserted the comment in a speech that had been interpreted in some quarters before he delivered it as criticism of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policy.

Kennedy's prepared text had said that "victory in a revolutionary war is won not by escalation but by de-escalation." Many observers took this as a veiled slap at the stepped-up U.S. involvement in South Viet Nam. The New York Democrat dropped this line when he actually delivered the speech, however. (See earlier story, Page 3.)

He then softened the speech further with two other additions, saying:

"At the moment, our most prominent problem is in Viet Nam. We must realize, however, that Viet Nam has become more and more an open military conflict as well, in which military action on our part is essential just to allow the government to act politically."

Tail Section Fell Off Plane: All 52 Killed

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—RCMP investigators are working on a "bomb theory" today in the crash of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane Thursday that killed all 52 persons on board.

A senior RCMP officer, who refused to be identified, said a logger who saw the crash told police he saw the plane blow apart in the air.

The 46 passengers, including four children, and crew of six, died when the DC-6B airliner plunged into woods 30 miles southwest of this Cariboo community.

Other reports from searchers at the scene of the worst crash in CPA's history lent credence to the theory that the four-engine plane exploded in flight.

Searchers found the main cabin virtually intact and the tail section about a half-mile away. They reported both sections appeared to have plummetted straight to the ground.

A stand of 50-foot-high trees was untouched except where the fuselage crushed the timber beneath. There was no swath through the bush to indicate forward motion.

Just Time for 'May Day' Call

The pilot, Capt. John Alfred Steele, 41, of North Vancouver, had time only to repeat three quick May-Days—the international distress call—before the plane disappeared from radar screens.

CPA officials, who monitored the distress call in Vancouver, said the pilot did not identify himself or the aircraft. There were only the three staccato May-Day cries.

A CPA spokesman would say only that it was too early to determine whether a bomb in one of the plane's four luggage compartments was the cause of the crash.

"As far as the bomb is concerned, you find someone coming up with the theory in nearly every air disaster," he said.

Steve Kovacs, a B.C. Telephone Co. radio technician, drove a radio-equipped truck to the scene of the wreckage and reported that two employees of nearby Ainsworth sawmills were eyewitnesses to the crash.

Kovacs said he spoke to the men—who have not been identified—and they told him the plane "lost its tail in flight then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said ground searchers found 15 bodies inside the main cabin but they were "burned beyond recognition." Most were still strapped into their seats.

'Plane Spiralled to Earth

Airline officials said the plane, Flight 21 bound for Whitehorse, Y.T., via Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, B.C. and Watson lake, Y.T., left Vancouver at 3:30 p.m.

The May Day was received at 4:55 p.m.

Police said the logger-witness described the crash this way:

The tail blasted off and spiralled to earth. A gaping hole left in the rear of the plane allowed pressure inside to push out a number of passengers.

The fuselage and wings dropped like a stone.

Capt. Steele radioed about 15 minutes before the crash that he was changing course to avoid turbulence ahead. The plane was flying at 15,000 feet.

The weather office in Vancouver reported thunderstorms in the area, but a southbound flight made the trip earlier in the day without incident.

Department of Transport officials impounded all flight insurance, cargo manifestos, maintenance records, and passenger lists.

Dr. Thomas How, regional DOT director, said "we've impounded all these items, and our investigators are at the scene.

"We have not yet found anything to definitely suggest sabotage," said How, "but there are many things to consider, and sabotage is one of them."

The crash was the worst in the history of CPA. In 1951 a CPA DC-4 went down over Alaska, killing 38 persons.

It was Canada's fourth worst

Trail of Murder, Abduction Ends in Capture of Pair

APPOINTED U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam replacing Gen. Maxwell Taylor is Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., former envoy to Saigon. President Johnson nominated Lodge Thursday. See story page 3.

TONOPAH, Nev. (AP)—Two Oregon murder-kidnap suspects, who had eluded police in Oregon, California and Nevada since Tuesday and who had taken nine persons as hostages in that time, surrendered to officers early today.

California highway patrol headquarters in Sacramento said police at Benton Station, on the California-Nevada border, reported that the men had surrendered.

They were taken to jail in Bridgeport, Calif.

Police said the fugitives were taken just south of the border check station at Benton. They apparently offered no resistance.

Their capture came about two hours after they had released Marie Champion, 39, wife of California's finance director, Hale Champion, and their 19-month-old daughter.

Champion, who also was taken hostage by the fleeing men, was released earlier at Tonopah after he was shot in the hip by a bystander who fired at the fugitives who had commandeered a sheriff's patrol car.

STARTED TUESDAY

The release of the Champions climaxed a crime trail that began Tuesday when a Portland, Ore., bank was robbed of $14,000.

Ex-convicts, Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, originally of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cletes Bowles, 24, an Amarillo, Tex., native, were sought for this holdup.

Later Tuesday an Oregon deputy sheriff who had halted their car was gunned down. They kidnapped six Oregon persons—a man, two women and three boys—and escaped into California in a trailer camper, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

In Sacramento, they released the six Oregon hostages and later went to the Champion home and abducted the couple and their infant daughter.

They were first spotted just outside Tonopah Thursday night when Grey and Bowles commandeered the deputy sheriff's car.

The fugitives took the car when the deputies stopped to check a car fitting the description of the Champions.

Grey and Bowles, after dumping Champion out of the car, eluded officers by holding the woman and baby at gunpoint.

STOPPED FOR FOOD

From Tonopah they drove to Coaldale Junction on U.S. 95. Bowles and Grey forced Elton Parson, owner of the Coaldale Inn, to give them food and gasoline.

Nevada deputies, armed with rifles, stood by helplessly in the darkness of the inn as the fugitives drove away.

WIRE BRIEFS

Queen Grieved

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen today sent a telegram of sympathy to Governor-General Vanier of Canada after Thursday night's plane crash in B.C., in which 52 persons were killed.

Women Are Hostages

TAYLOR, Ark. (UPI)—Two men robbed the Taylor branch of the First National Bank of Magnolia, Ark., today and carried off two fighting, screaming women bank employees as hostages.

Police Probe Ends

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer George Murray said today he has completed a report on his investigation into possible criminal activities by some members of the Vancouver city police department. He said his report will be in police commission hands later today.

Cong Beaten Back

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. marines made an amphibious landing on an island near their Chu Lai beachhead today and fought their way into a South Vietnamese coastal headquarters that had been overrun by the Viet Cong, a U.S. spokesman said. (See Page 3).

PM 'Stabbed Me in Back;' Dupuis Eyes Legal Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Dupuis, former federal minister without portfolio, said Thursday night he has asked his lawyers to see whether he has grounds for legal action against Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Dupuis, speaking at a press conference in Montreal, said he was surprised at a statement in Ottawa earlier in the day by Mr. Pearson, who told reporters that the Liberal party will oppose the ex-minister if he stands for re-election to Parliament.

"This relentlessness against me on the part of one who holds the highest political position in Canada surprises me and scandalizes me more than a little," Mr. Dupuis said.

"How could the prime minister make such a tendentious statement against me at the moment when I am preparing to be judged by my peers?"

Mr. Dupuis was referring to charges he faces of conspiring to "demand, accept or offer $10,000" in connection with an attempt to obtain a racetrack franchise from the Quebec government for his home riding of St. Jean - Iberville - Napierville. Earlier this week, he was ordered to stand trial at the St. Johns, Que., fall assizes on the charges.

At the press conference Thursday night, Mr. Dupuis said the prime minister "stabbed me in the back."

"How, as leader of the Liberal party, could he make such an autocratic statement within a matter of hours after the Liberal Federation of Canada, Quebec branch, adopted a resolution to put off examination of my case until the courts render a final decision?" Mr. Dupuis asked.

"If the prime minister has accusations to make against me, let him have the courage to state them publicly," he said.

Australian In Fifth Golf Win

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia came out of virtual obscurity and won his fifth British Open golf championship today with a 72-hole score of 285.

Thomson won by two strokes over Christy O'Connor of Ireland, 40-year-old Ryder Cup player, and Brian Huggett of Wales who tied for second place with 287 totals. (See earlier story Page 12.)

RUSHED TO CRASH SCENE . . . . . . IN BID TO HELP

Mechanic Cries at Sight of Scattered Bodies

HUNDRED MILE HOUSE B.C. (CP)—"He was crying from the horribleness of it all."

This is a woman's description of her husband's reaction to seeing the trail of broken bodies at the scene of a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B crash Thursday which killed all 52 persons aboard.

The man, Bill Wolfgramm, 35, mechanic at 100 Mile House, rushed to the scene to see if he could help.

"There was no sign of life anywhere," he said today.

"The tail of the plane was half a mile away (from the fuselage) and there was a constant trail of broken and bent bodies, scattered arms and legs, leading between the two.

"All we could do before it got dark was to pick up a few bodies.

"I saw the body of a young child but I could not tell whether it was that of a boy or [illegible]. It was so badly injured.

He said the fuselage somewhere dropped through the trees, without crushing a path.

"The scene is pretty hard to describe. It's amazing how the plane got in between the big trees.

"It's sitting flat on the ground and right between the trees.

"It is a terrible scene and one I will never forget."

Wolfgramm and his wife were in a beer parlor when they heard of the tragedy. They drove over the muddy 25-mile logging road to the crash scene to offer their help.

Mrs. Wolfgramm said her husband went on ahead and when he reported to her that there was nothing they could do to help, he was crying, she said.

Steve Kovacs, a B.C. Telephone Co. radio technician, drove to the scene with a radio-equipped truck and reported that two employees of the nearby Ainsworth sawmill witnessed the actual crash.

Kovacs said he spoke to the men and they told him the four-engine plane "lost its tail in flight, then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said, from the description of the men—who were not immediately identified — "the plane just plunked I guess."

He said there were 15 bodies still inside the plane when searchers arrived but they were "burned beyond recognition."

Crews were preparing a clearing for helicopters to land to remove bodies from the rugged site, he said.

A new logging road cuts through the area about 200 yards from the wreckage.

McNAB NOT ON PLANE

He Cancelled Reservation

Times News Services

Max McNab, general manager of the Western Hockey League Vancouver Canucks, had a reservation on a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B which exploded and crashed Thursday, killing all 52 persons aboard.

McNab had been asked by the Prince George junior hockey club to participate in a hockey school at that city.

McNab's reservation for the flight was made three weeks ago, but he said the coliseum issue in Vancouver and city's bid for a National Hockey League franchise resulted in his cancelling the reservation.

He was at a lacrosse game when he heard the news.

Some of the 52 persons who died in the wreckage of the Canadian Pacific Airlines Flight 21 nearly missed the plane.

CPA officials said Thursday night there was a last-minute rush to board the plane which left Vancouver at 3:30 p.m. (PDT) for northern British Columbia and the Yukon.

It crashed less than 90 minutes later some 170 miles northeast of here.

WAS ON TOUR

Clement Livingstone King of Toronto was an accountant; senior partner in the firm of Deloitte, Plender, Haskings and Sells. He was on a tour of his company's B.C. offices.

Keith Eadie was en route back to Prince George, where he was general manager of Northwood Pulp Company.

G. (Grampa) Whimp was another prospector going back north to the upper Liard River area. His home was listed as Watson Lake.

At Ottawa Prime Minister Pearson said today he was "profoundly shocked and saddened" by Thursday night's crash.

The prime minister said in a statement that "our dismay when such accidents happen is intensified by the fact that the safety record maintained by Canada's air industry is among the best in the world."

He said he was extending deepest sympathy to the families of the victims.

Air Board Reinstates 3 Licences

OTTAWA (CP) — The Air Transport Board announced Thursday three licences which were suspended this year have been reinstated.

The licences affected are:

Can-Am Aircraft Co. Ltd., a charter and specialty commercial service based at Winnipeg;

Skyhaven, Inc., a non-scheduled charter service to transport persons and goods from Bellingham, Wash., to points in British Columbia;

Ontario Central Airlines Ltd., a charter service based at Fort Frances, Ont.

The board also announced an extension and cancellation of two other licences.

Cancellation of its contract service at Edmonton was requested by Gunnar - Nesbitt Aviation Ltd., which has disposed of its aircraft.

Wien Alaska Airlines Inc., of Fairbanks, Alaska, has its temporary licence to carry local traffic between Juneau, Alaska, and Whitehorse in the Yukon extended to Dec. 31, 1965 or the date of the completion of the Canada-U.S. bilateral air agreement negotiations, whichever is first. The company has a regular scheduled service between Fairbanks and Whitehorse.

$35,000 GAMBLE AT NAMU

NAMU, B.C. (CP)—A $35,000 gamble was ready to be made near here today.

First attempts to transfer a captured killer whale from an enclosure of salmon nets to a floating pen were to be made.

Ted Griffin, Seattle aquarium operator who bought the whale for $8,000 from two B.C. fishermen, said $35,000 was at stake in the effort to move it 400 miles south to Seattle.

A floating pen made of oil drums and nets was towed into position near the whale Thursday but high tide prevented a transfer attempt.

"I haven't yet recovered from this second shock," Mr. Quayle said this morning. "Only yesterday morning my wife went to the cemetery to put flowers on Gary's grave.

Formerly Alsace Lorraine Prentice of Mission, B.C., she was married to Mr. Quayle in 1934. They had lived in Victoria since 1937.

Mrs. Quayle is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Cook of Sooke and Mrs. Johnston-Watson of Watson Lake.

"My wife was a keen fisherman," Mr. Quayle said, "and we used to go on fishing trips together. I still can't believe we have lost her—she was so full of life."

Thant Asks For Truce

LONDON (Reuters) — United Nations' secretary-general U Thant called tonight for the end of all fighting in Viet Nam and the reconvening of the 1954 Indochina conference.

He spoke at London airport on his way back to New York after talks on Viet Nam with British Prime Minister Wilson and Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart.

Thant said:

"In my view, the first step toward the restoration of peace and stability in Viet Nam is cease all hostile military activities.

"That is a first prerequisite.

"The second is to reconvene the Geneva conference of 1954.

"Then we have to be very clear about the objects. In my view, the Geneva agreement of 1954 is very sensible and very realistic and still valid after 11 years."

HOME GARDEN

Your Reward: Gay Colors In the Fall

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

The pansy is probably the most popular plant in the home garden. The present range of plain colors and bicolors with their varied markings give wonderful effects with little care.

These are cool-weather plants. They show their aversion for the warmer days of summer by diminishing the quantity of bloom as though they would take a well-earned holiday.

During this comparatively brief resting period the gardener can do much to improve the plants, ensuring a magnificent display throughout the fall.

CUT BACK

Examination of the plants will show long growths made since spring. These growths may now be cut back to within two or three inches of soil level, being sure that sufficient leaves remain on the plants to manufacture food.

The last few flowers should be removed and put into little bowls and vases for those pleasant, fragrant posies to dot around windowsills and coffee tables.

When the plants have been trimmed make a mixture of sand and screened compost or very old manure and dress the bed or border, working the mixture close to the crown of each plant with the fingers.

Follow this with a thorough watering, and additional watering when necessary in the weeks to come.

The reward of color from late August until winter's cold forces another period of rest will be worth the effort.

aviation disaster — behind a Nov. 29, 1963, crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines now Air Canada DC-8 near St. Therese, Que., which killed 111 persons, on Aug. 11, 1957, crash of a Maritime Central Airways DC-4 at Issoudon, Que., taking 97 lives and a Dec. 9, 1956, crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star near Chilliwack, B.C., in which 62 died.

Three forest towers in the area spotted a plume of smoke and ordered B.C. forest service pilot Slim Sherk to fly his light plane over the area, about 5:05 p.m.

"I could see black smoke curling up into the sky 30 miles away," he said.

NO SUSPICION

"I had no suspicion it was anything but a forest fire."

As he flew closer:

"I could see it was a plane on fire. There was the smoke of magnesium burning. I have seen it burning before in plane crashes.

"The fuselage was smoke and raw flames. The wings were collapsing from the heat but the plane was relatively intact except for the tail section.

"There were bodies and debris all over. The tail section wasn't there. It appeared as though the plane dove straight into the bush. There was no trail of broken trees.

"I counted 20 or 24 bodies until I couldn't find anymore."

Sherk radioed the forest service and flew over the site until a ground party came in.

"I carry rolls of toilet paper in the plane to lay down trails to fires for the ground crews to follow—I laid trails to the bodies so they could find them."

The tail stabilizer was a quarter of a mile from the main wreckage.

WINGS STILL ON

"As far as I could see," Sherk said, "apparently the tail end exploded. It was blown over a wide area. The wings were still on. I couldn't see the bodies in the front compartment because of the smoke and flames."

His fuel running low, Sherk returned to Williams Lake, refuelled, and went back to circling the wreckage to guide in a rescue plane with RCAF para-rescue teams. Early today almost all the bodies had been identified.

The CPA crew came from the Vancouver area except for steward Ernest Wenzel Soural, 31, born in Hohenstadt, Germany, and one of the two stewardesses. Her name was withheld until relatives could be notified.

Capt. Steele, a wartime RCAF pilot, had been with CPA since 1950. First Officer Warner Murray Wells, 29, was born in Toronto and had been with CPA since 1959. Second Officer Stanley E. Clarke, 26, joined the airline last November.

Stewardess Sue Heinrich, 22, had just completed her first year of service.

Cigarettes, Cash Taken From Machine

A thief who broke into the Texaco Service Station at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill overnight Thursday got away with cigarettes from a vending machine and an undetermined amount of cash.

The break-in was discovered by Saanich police at 3 a.m. today.

B.C. Ministers Criticize Link to 'Potato Patch'

B.C. cabinet ministers today aimed bitter remarks at Ottawa for discrimination in the federal government's plan to build a $148 million link between Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

None opposed the link but said Ottawa should be as generous to B.C.'s transportation problems.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell called the federal plan a "political boondoggle to a potato patch" and said similar help for Vancouver Island would produce a better return to the nation.

He said the federal government now should give annually "a hefty operating grant" to the B.C. Ferry Authority because the Victoria and Nanaimo links with Vancouver form an integral part of the Trans-Canada Highway. The authority's proposed Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert run also should receive federal money because it would connect with the Alaska State Ferries, making it an international route.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi also claimed the offer showed discrimination.

"If they can do it for P.E.I. they can do something for B.C. for a change," he said. "All provinces should be treated the same."

He said the City of Vancouver should ask for a substantial Ottawa grant to help with construction of a desired new Second Narrows crossing.

'FEW PEOPLE'

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said it was surprising to see such a large sum go for a project to an area of so few people. He questioned whether it might not have been more economical to provide a ferry service.

"There seems to be a great cleavage between east and west when it comes to federal help for communication problems," said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Campbell said:

"I think Vancouver Island residents wouldn't deny any part of Canada this kind of help, but there seems to be a great deal of inequality between the treatment of P.E.I. and here."

"Anything done for the Island which would contribute to the economy would return more to the national economy than this political boondoggle to a potato patch.

"The federal government should make a hefty operating subsidy to the ferries—they already gave $3.8 million to the ferry between P.E.I. and New Brunswick.

'HOMING' SPY ROCKET DEVELOPED

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada and Britain are working together to perfect an automated missile-like "spy" that can zoom over enemy lines, snap pictures and return to base with vital fighting information.

Defence Production Minister C. M. (Bud) Drury said today the nuclear-age peeping Tom will be ready for production this year. It is built by Canadair in Montreal.

It's called the airborne surveillance drone system or, just drone, for short.

The drone is fired from a mobile launcher, zooms over the enemy lines, photographs the terrain and military equipment with its two cameras and then shoots back to base like a homing pigeon.

When comes the time it should come down to earth, the engine cuts off and a parachute floats it safely to earth.

tance for fear that the suspects would harm their hostages.

Crossing the border, Grey and Bowles stopped at Benton and telephoned the Nevada highway patrol and announced they were releasing Mrs. Champion and Katherine Marie.

Nevada officers took Mrs. Champion back to Tonopah, where Champion had undergone surgery at the Nye County Hospital.

In addition to the Champion kidnapping, Boles and Grey are suspected of gunning down deputy Carlton E. Smith, 33; and Kidnapping Mrs. David Corbin, 33, her son, Clinton, 12, and later abducted an Oregon couple and two boys and got away in the trailer camper.

Fidel Plants Trees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro planted 1,136 pine trees in the hills of Oriente Province, Havana radio reported Friday. Some 800 Cuban youths whose trip to Algeria was cancelled after the governmental overthrow there are working in Oriente to plant 1,000,000 trees, and Castro joined them Thursday, the Miami-monitored broadcast said.

PEEK-A-BOO FUNNY NOSE, you have just won $10 in the Times-sponsored Amateur Photo Contest and a chance at the big money in the National Competition. Four-year-old Patricia Bombezin, 1310 Prillaman Avenue, Victoria, was trying on a new nose-hat when daddy Maurice snapped her pleased reaction in the mirror. Entered in the People of the World category for the first week of the six-week contest, the "natural" snap was an obvious winner.

Lodge In, Taylor Out And Saigon Surprised

SAIGON (Reuters) — Gen. Maxwell Taylor said here today no policy matters were involved in his resignation as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Taylor said he is glad to be replaced by Henry Cabot Lodge, who had served with distinction in the post before. Continuity was thus being preserved.

There was no immediate comment from the South Vietnamese government on the change in ambassadors. The news of Taylor's resignation came as a surprise to most Saigon circles.

Taylor told a press conference he hopes to continue helping the interests of the Vietnamese people in a private capacity.

Asked whether his resignation was connected with possible peace moves in the Viet Nam crisis, Taylor said "there are no policy suggestions whatsoever."

MADE IT DIFFICULT

He had stipulated in the first place that his appointment should be for one year only. since personal affairs made it difficult for him to be away for a long time.

Asked how he assesses his year's mission, Taylor said: "a great deal has been accomplished, but a great deal remains to be done."

Asked to enlarge on the statement that he hopes to be able to go on aiding the people of Viet Nam in a private capacity, Taylor said he has noted with interest the "fine work" accomplished by Lodge in helping keep the Viet Nam issue before the American public.

Asked if there was any special reason why Defence Secretary Robert McNamara will be accompanying Lodge on his flight to Saigon next week, Taylor said he apparently feels the necessity of making a personal survey of the situation at this time.

U.S. embassy sources said the tide of war may not have been turned during the period of Taylor's mission, but they believe the war can still be won.

'Force Won't Win Viet Nam Hearts'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, in what appeared to be a criticism of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policy, today condemned the use of military force alone in meeting the threat of Communist - style revolutionary war.

The New York senator did not directly aim his criticism at the administration, nor did he mention Viet Nam except in a general way. But his meaning was obvious when he said:

"If all a government can promise its people, in response to insurgent activity, is 10 years of napalm and heavy artillery, it will not be government for long."

He said the free world's approach to the so-called "wars of national liberation" must be "political"—first, last and always. "Victory in a revolutionary war is won not by escalation, but by de-escalation," Kennedy added.

SECOND SPEECH

The senator's speech, his second major address in two weeks, was prepared for delivery before the graduating class of the International Police Academy here. It came against a background of change in America's diplomatic high command in Saigon.

President Johnson announced Thursday that Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Kennedy's close personal friend and his late brother's top military adviser, had resigned his post as U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam. Johnson nominated Henry Cabot Lodge, Taylor's predecessor, to succeed him in Saigon.

Marines Cut Off Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong overran a South Vietnamese naval installation on the edge of the U.S. Marine beachhead at Chu Lai today and the marines launched an amphibious counterattack, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The marines were reported to have cut off the small Viet Cong force, of less than battalion strength, but the situation in the battle area, on Hoa Island, 345 miles northeast of Saigon, was unclear 12 hours after the Viet Cong attacked.

Three U.S. Navy advisers to the South Vietnamese junk fleet were on the island when the assault opened. Their fate was not known.

The U.S. spokesman also reported that four U.S. Army advisers are missing following the ambush of a South Vietnamese army battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon Thursday.

Other sources said nearly two-thirds of the 365-man government force were casualties —151 killed, 25 wounded and 59 missing.

PATTERN CLASSIC

The ambush was in the classic Viet Cong pattern, the guerrillas attacked the Xon Dua outpost, in Binh Duong province, then smashed the force sent to relieve it.

The U.S. spokesman said American, Australian and South Vietnamese troops had killed about 150 Viet Cong and captured seven others in their big sweep in the jungle known as Zone D.

Trouble in the Partnership

THE CRISIS IN THE European Common Market has eased somewhat with France's agreement to meet with Belgian and Dutch representatives next week. But the trouble that came to a head a few days ago will have no easy solution, for although President de Gaulle's current protest is based on his Common Market partners' handling of agricultural financing, the real causes of friction go much deeper.

The question of agriculture has been a difficult one from the beginning of the Market's operations. West Germany's high-cost farm production, France's large surpluses, the insistence of foreign producers such as the United States that the European tariff wall should not bar traditional overseas agricultural imports — such problems have been thorny ones for the Common market partners. But France's discontent is believed to go beyond these operational questions to the more basic ones of European political unity—the supra-national community which is the ultimate objective of the whole program.

President de Gaulle's concentration on his country's interests as distinct from those of his European partners, of NATO and other alliances has naturally caused frictions in an organization designed to supercede nationalistic aims. The first fine glory of a fully constituted European community has been lost in the later considerations of national interest and the shifting balance of world forces.

General de Gaulle's policies in many cases are difficult to reconcile with the concept of a supra-national European community, except in the context of clear French leadership of the group. Although fairly far advanced, the step-by-step integration of the Common Market partners has still a rough course ahead, and there is still a possibility that France might decide to withdraw before the process goes much farther.

Britain, excluded by de Gaulle, might have provided a balance wheel for the whole continental machinery. London's voice is still an important factor in European affairs, even from beyond the Market borders.

Fate of a Minority

ONE CLEAR POINT EMERGES from the latest flare-up of the Quebec Eskimo controversy. No change in the status of these people should occur without their consent. Northern Affairs Minister Laing has said that this principle should be followed; Prime Minister Pearson is on record with the assurance that the Eskimos must give their approval before any transfer of jurisdiction will be made from federal to Quebec provincial authorities.

But despite these assurances and the earlier emphatic declarations of the Eskimos that they wish to remain under federal jurisdiction, the prospect is that a gradual changeover will be carried out with the result that the provincial government will eventually have full control. The "agreements" so far announced seem to be only between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Lesage.

A start has been made at Great Whale River, where federal withdrawal follows closing down of the defence radar station. The community will now be administered as any other in the province, with provincial responsibility for services, later including education. Mr. Pearson now indicates that this process will be followed in other centres, leading to a gradual turnover of authority.

But the problem has been a highly controversial one ever since it came to notice more than a year ago. Quebec has demanded full control of the affairs of the Eskimo population, which traditionally and on an accepted constitutional interpretation have always been the direct responsibility of the federal government. Ninety-five per cent of the 2,500 Eskimos in Quebec are said by Ottawa to be English-speaking Protestants. They do not want the supervision of their lives to be handed over to French-speaking Roman Catholic Quebec authorities, and many have said they would move from their traditional homes to areas beyond Quebec provincial borders if such a change were made.

Certainly this is a matter in which the rights of the Eskimos should come first. Their wishes should not be walked over or brushed aside even if they stand in the way of the intentions of the Quebec government in its current assertion of autonomous rights.

Mr. Pearson should make sure that the Eskimos' wishes are not infringed little by little, nibbled bit by bit, until these people find themselves out of the federal jurisdiction which is theirs by right, and under the provincial control against which they now protest. The latest official announcements contain little assurance of any safeguards.

A Non-Violent Revolution

IN ROME THE OTHER DAY Chilean President Eduardo Frei reportedly called for a non-violent, non-Communist revolution in Latin America to relieve its masses of abject poverty and to keep them from turning to Communism.

The Chilean head of state voiced an appeal with which most of the Western World may express sympathy. At the same time he has indicated a situation that could be explosive.

Ideally, according to Western theory, the position of Latin American peoples would be improved through liberal and enlightened leadership. If such leadership were generally in power, the people might be lifted to standards commensurate with the second half of this century. Since they are not, the implication seems to be that in many countries the leadership is not liberal or enlightened.

Does the Chilean president assume that ruling classes in lands where many folk are caught in abject poverty will step down altruistically for the benefit of such people whose lot today is so depressing?

A Billion in India?

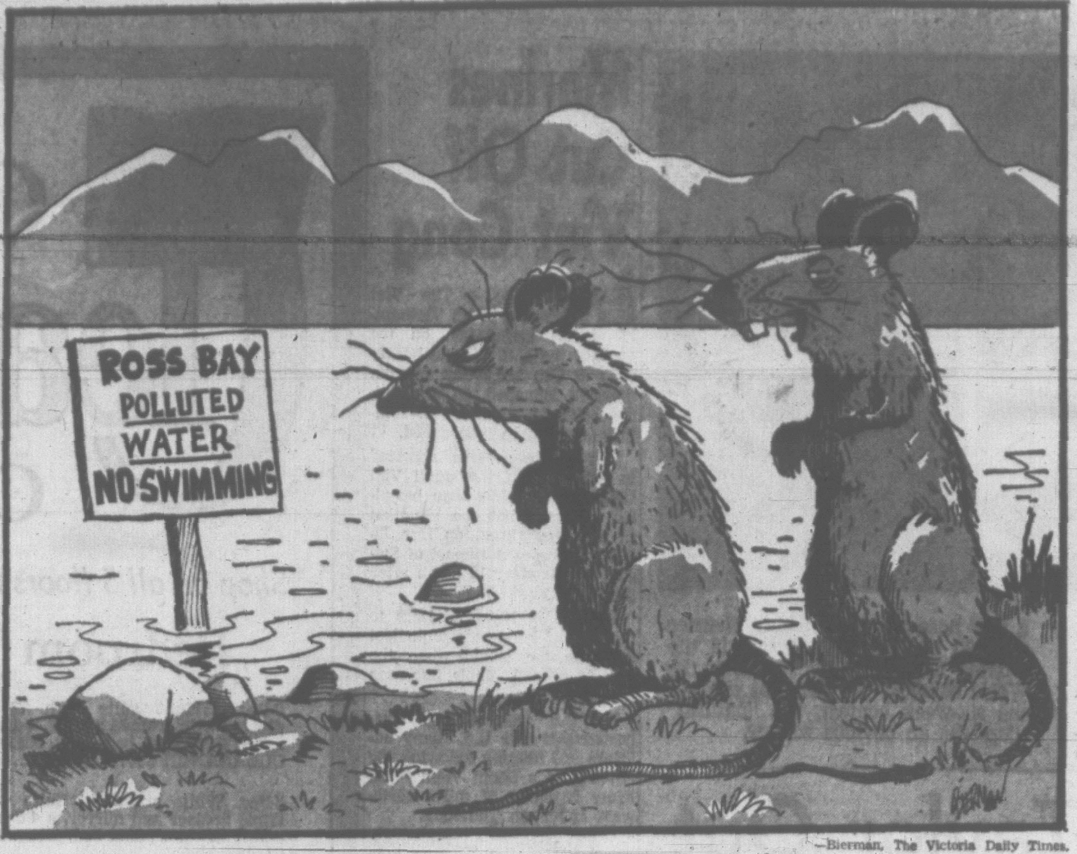
UNLESS SOME EFFECTIVE factor intervenes, India can expect a population of a billion or more people within the next 35 years. If birth control campaigns now projected, or under way, succeed, that total may be reduced to between 700 and 750 million, according to some estimates.

This is the background against which Prime Minister Shastri, the father of six, has given public endorsement to family planning.

Perhaps the support of the head of state may be effective where other efforts have failed to influence the explosion of population in his land. But the difficulties seem almost insurmountable. Statistics revealing an 82 per cent illiteracy are not encouraging.

At the same time the point is obvious that the survival rate is rising in India. It is rising because modern medicine and health practices, along with better food production, are lowering the mortality rate. India is progressing in its drive toward modernism.

Perhaps the same will which has stimulated this advance—never quite enough to keep up with the additional mouths that must be fed—can produce the not-so-minor miracle of family planning where an uncontrolled population increase continues to threaten disaster.



—Bierman, The Victoria Daily Times.

"... Ignore the sign ... it's only meant for people ...!"

VIEW FROM THE WHITE HOUSE

By RICHARD PURSER

Viet Nam Through the U.S. Fog

NOW as for the past several months, U.S. strategy for winning the Viet Nam war—or for at least avoiding total defeat—is the subject of worried speculation among the American people. Recent heavy increases in U.S. ground troop commitments in South Viet Nam followed a long period of disclaimers that such increases were planned. The U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, told the press in Washington June 11 that he saw no present need for a further large buildup in U.S. forces. It is believed that he told the opposite to President Johnson, and that in fact an authorization of up to 90,000 troops was made at the time of a high-level meeting of U.S. officials in Hawaii in April.

Purser

Only five days after Gen. Taylor's disclaimer, Defence Secretary McNamara announced an increase to take place during this month to nearly 75,000 troops from last month's figure of 53,000.

Asked whether there would be still another increase later, he said only "that we will do whatever's necessary to achieve our objective in South Viet Viet Nam." Within days, high-level indications were fed to the foreign press that still another 90,000 U.S. troops might be sent to South Viet Nam during the monsoon season.

On June 24 the indications were beefed up for the U.S. press when Sen. Dirksen suggested a possible doubling of U.S. troops in Viet Nam. He did not cite his source for this suggestion, but the Republican leader is a loyal supporter of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies—more loyal than many Democrats—and his every remark on the subject carries weight.

So nothing has been said officially, but the way is being prepared so the public will not be unduly surprised when something is said.

Information manipulation and lack of candor has characterized several aspects of the administration's handling of this war. Candor has to halt at the revelation of military secrets; but many critics are convinced official secrecy has extended to political concealment. One of the most outspoken (but who supports a tough anti-communist line in Viet Nam) is columnist Joseph Alsop, an insider with the military set.

He wrote last week that "by combining extreme secretiveness with a talent for flim-flam, the White House publicity apparatus has thus far managed to mislead the vast majority of Americans about the real nature of our operations in Viet Nam ... the impression of a big war has been conveyed without reality ... the President has clearly been hoping that a mere show of force would prove an adequate substitute for the serious though careful use of force ... running a grave risk of eventual truly shattering defeat."

Other well informed critics think the President is justified in extending secrecy from the usual realm of future military strategy to other fields for political or psychological reasons. As Walter Lippmann said, a journalist without responsibility can tell the truth, but if the President of the United States tells it, morale will probably collapse in Saigon.

Another commentator says the President "has fostered an atmosphere of fuzziness and ambiguity entirely appropriate" to the situation. And another: "the wiser the administration has become about the war ... the less easy and desirable it has become for Washington to display this wisdom."

Whichever assessment is correct, the administration's handling of public information policy on Viet Nam is an example of calculated confusion that should keep historians busy for years. The technique has clouded even such a fundamental issue as the overall U.S. purpose in this war; it also clouds vital individual aspects of the war like the role of Hanoi and the approaches to negotiations.

Role of Hanoi

The role of Hanoi is an unusual special case. It is to the greatest possible advantage of the United States to portray the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas of South Viet Nam and their political wing, the National Liberation Front, as supplied, directed and controlled by the North Viet Nam government. Otherwise the U.S. must be seen as involved in suppression of a chiefly civil revolution—a touchy position internationally, even if the revolution is Communist. Much better to portray the U.S. as defending a little country from foreign aggression.

This the U.S. has tried to do, but without convincing a good many domestic critics and foreign governments. The situation is ironic, because if there is any U.S. claim in this war that is unquestionably, unequivocally true, it is that the South Viet Nam war has long ceased to be a civil war and the Communist side of it is run by North Viet Nam.

The trouble is that the U.S. cannot reveal its overwhelming evidence of this to the general public without compromising its intelligence sources and committing other errors of revelation. The administration had to settle instead for its long but flimsy white paper, vigorously pinning the blame on North Viet Nam, but based on conclusions far beyond any justification by the ludicrously limited evidence the administration felt it could reveal.

The white paper did much to buttress the case of people who did not want to believe the United States. As for the real evidence, indications are that it shows North Vietnamese control of the Viet Cong is total, not just a sort of majority control. But administration sources say their word must simply be taken for now. The facts must await the historians.

This is uncomfortable propaganda, but there it is. The full truth may go beyond even total control of the Viet Cong by North Viet Nam and the presence of more than 40,000 North Vietnamese infiltrators among the Viet Cong. The U.S. has reason to believe there may be up to 4,500 regular troops of the North Viet Nam army in South Viet Nam. This would come perilously close to invasion by part of the North's army of 225,000 to 300,000 men.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Starting in New York

THE stakes are unusually high in this year's election for mayor of New York. Can a very great city like New York be made governable, can its dangers and disorders and inconveniences be overcome? And then, can the Republican Party begin its recovery by promoting a public man who shows the way successfully in dealing with the urbanized America that the country is coming to be? The challenger and pace-setter in this contest is Rep. John V. Lindsay.

Lippmann

New York City is the biggest of the very big cities, and it suffers from all the problems of crowding, congestion and complexity. Under Mayor Robert Wagner, who has been an honest and compassionate mayor, the problems of crime, vice, delinquency, slums and mal-education have become increasingly unmanageable.

New York needs a New Deal, not so much in the sense of this or that specific reform, but in the sense that it needs the infusion of a new generation of public men, young, with modern minds, not yet tired, not yet cynical about the possibility of breaking through the established routines and customs of politics, still able to believe that something much better can be achieved.

There are plenty of men and women in New York City who could man a new administration.

If anyone can summon and rally these men and women it is most likely to be John V. Lindsay. He belongs to this new generation, and he has proved that he can make himself understood and liked by the voters. The new generation can turn to Lindsay with the confidence that they are on solid political ground.

Possible Turning Point

The election of Lindsay in New York could be the turning point in the continuing break-up of the Republican Party. The decline of the party is a danger to the country, for it is because of a want of real opposition that we are heading toward a breaking apart of the Democratic Party as well.

There has yet been no reliable sign of a recovery from the Goldwater disaster. For the Republican leaders who are supposed to be managing the recovery are the same men who aborted the resistance to the capture of the Republican Party. They surrendered the party to a faction which, in terms of voters, was a very minor fragment of the electorate.

The Republican recovery will, perforce, have to be led by a new political generation. It will have to be led by men who are modern in their minds and in their spirits and have not burned their fingers with Goldwaterism. As of now, the future lies with Republicans like Lindsay, Taft and Percy, that is with men who belong not to the right wing or the dead past but the vital centre of American politics.

There is no future for the party in the strategy of 1964, which amounted to surrendering to President Johnson the whole centre of American politics and to an eccentric attempt to recoup that loss by appeasing the Southern racists.

Seasoning Process

This does not mean, and I certainly do not think, that Lindsay elected in New York would, could or should move on to a presidential nomination in 1968. He will need at least one term, and probably more than one term, in the mayor's office to begin to prove himself in New York.

But his election would make him a powerful figure in the councils of the Republican Party.

The Democratic future is in doubt because the country is entangled in what may be an unlimited and inconclusive war. A war that cannot be won and cannot be ended has never done any good to any political party, and it will not do good to the Democratic Party.

If things go badly as they threaten to go in Southeast Asia, it will matter a great deal in 1968 whether the Republican Party is still in the hands of the Goldwater faction, as it is under Dirksen's leadership, or has been retrieved by its moderate and educated leaders.

Looking Back

From The Times of July 9, 1890:

Ottawa: It was learned here that existing plans for strengthening Canada's defences will be added to in view of increasing Russian armaments. This is a result of reports to the Imperial war office and admiralty from inspections on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Expansion would include large coal depots for warships, storehouses, more barracks and dockyard equipment to build and repair naval vessels and guns. Instructions have been issued to rigidly enforce the new law against divulging news of projects.

Mr. Rod Clack's Resignation

It is a matter of deep regret to me that the program so ably launched by Mr. Clack should come to such a dismal end.

I have felt the stirring of a new civic pride among my fellow citizens contemplating the great success and great future of the plans completed and projected by Mr. Clack. Certainly we are not going to abandon the first really worthwhile effort to restore Victoria to its rightful positon as the wonderfully unique and beautiful capital city of this province.—M. P. Paine, 3620 Quadra.

Victoria's Future

Much of Victoria's success in future depends on the "redevelopment" of the shabby, run-down areas which exist here and there.

If these are replanned with ability and fine imagination, and with great and correct attention to what cost taxpayers can stand, then the whole city will not only improve but benefit.

We stand now, perhaps this week, at a deciding point.—C. Holmes, Ex-chairman Advisory Planning Commission.

Save the Scenery

I am one of a great many Victorians who has enjoyed for many years the very delightful drive along the William Head roads.

The other day I noticed surveyed areas on this highway which would indicate they are going to widen it. Whilst it is true this should perhaps be done I cannot see it is necessary to take out all the beautiful trees which line this drive. Some are real giants and should be preserved.

This road's beauty is, each year, shared by a great many of our visiting tourists and it would appear to me that the recreational minister should take heed of what is about to happen and see the basic drive is not too badly destroyed. —Willis Jamieson.

Minority Control of UN

It is cause for concern that we have hardly heard of any protests of the Liberal regime of Canada giving away $4,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in order to keep the United Nations in business.

We just cannot help but wonder why the people of Canada must help pay the dues of Russia and France who have refused to pay their share of UN costs in The Congo and the Middle East.

William S. White, writing in The Washington Star, March 10, 1964, observed: "It is now possible for a two-thirds Assembly majority to be formed by countries holding 10 per cent of the world's population, practically nothing of the world's economic and military power, virtually none of the world's age-old experience in statecraft and very little idea of what any of it is all about."

Mr. Editor, do we want to place the affairs of the world under such a setup as this? To date the U.S.S.R. has almost paralyzed the Security Council by using more than 100 vetoes. Let those who refuse to pay their honest dues get out—not stay in at the expense of the taxpayers of the U.S., Canada, Great Britain and others.—G. W. Chinnery, Brantford, Ontario.

Voices Of Quebec

Gerard Pelletier, in Le Devoir, Montreal

THE New York Times says big American companies invested more than $1,000,000,000 abroad in the first quarter of this year, almost twice the quarterly average last year. . . .

The Times explains it with a smile. There is the 20 per cent that American firms are putting into upgrading their foreign plants, but there is also the commerce department's remark that this transfer of funds abroad would seem to coincide with expectancy over eventual government measures related to the American balance of payments.

The Times calls this "a polite way of saying" that companies are in a hurry to export capital because they fear government controls on trade. . . .

Past experience almost enables one to say without looking that a good part of this manna found refuge in Canada. Since the last war, the Americans have made our country the adopted home of their foreign investments.

It is thus probable . . . that we are now a little more economically American than we were. Just like that.

The U.S. colossus' stomach need only rumble a bit for the Canadian economy to be profoundly affected.

Does this mean the invasion of American capital must be considered an absolute ill? No. More a challenge. Economists long ago established that we need this massive injection to maintain our living standard and exploit our resources. But we also know constant vigilance is necessary if we do not want to dissolve into the great American whole without even realizing it.

For lack of a clear policy on this subject, we could well find one day that Canada's political independence had gone up in smoke. Our government, bound in on all sides, could no longer make major political decisions freely. . . .

We know how absurd it would be to close our borders to American capital. We also know that it . . . is a threat to our independence. And we know that we can avert this threat . . . by directing our own investments and using the state as a tool . . . We know it, but we never stop squabbling long enough to agree on how to meet the peril.

And need it be said that the question doesn't seem to pre-occupy French-Canada enough, obsessed as she is with her own troubles? While rude awakenings hover, on we sleep.

Quebec L'Action

One minister, Mr. Favreau, will not do as the whipping boy. . . . out with the incompetents in the public service, in the sacrosanct RCMP as elsewhere. . . . French Canadians, let us drink to the dregs this cup of humiliation: We deserve it for our lack of civic spirit as much as for our taking the law lightly. . . . But if as much determination had been put into the case of . . . Harold Banks, could our English-speaking compatriots, who hide their eyes before the Rivard affair, long keep up the role of Pharisees?

Power Struggle Goes on Among Que. Liberal MPs

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The subtle shifts among French-Canadian ministers in the newest Pearson cabinet may prompt an even more confusing power struggle than has been in process during the past year among federal Quebec politicians.

One feature which emerged from the changes was that once again Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve had been left in the wings while the Prime Minister made every effort to attack prestige and importance to Guy Favreau's new role as privy council president.

In elevating Jean-Luc Pepin, a young reform-minded intellectual into the cabinet circle, Pearson also handed Sauve either a potential ally or a potential rival in his efforts to gain power as a progressive Quebec lieutenant.

Not Impressed

It was understood that Sauve was far from impressed by Pearson's shuffle. Speculation arose immediately that he would once more consider the merits of remaining in federal politics.

Sauve's basic philosophy is that a major step needed to boost the fortunes of co-operative federalism is recognition of the ability of Quebec ministers to serve in power portfolios.

These would include such departments as finance, trade and commerce, industry and transport, which are directly involved in economic—not cultural—policy.

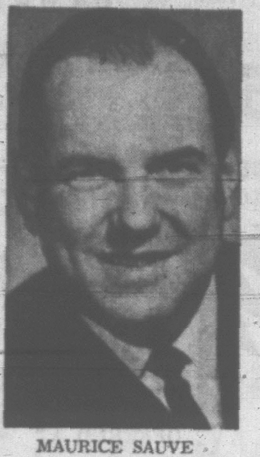
Some sources felt that in bringing in Pepin as minister without portfolio to be attached to the transport department, Pearson was partially conceding Sauve's argument. But in so doing he by-passed the forestry minister in favor of a promising newcomer.

Many Liberals are quick to underline the considerable potential of Sauve and the worth of his desires both to heighten Quebec's role in the cabinet and bring about speedy reform of the Liberal organization in his province.

But it has become clear in the past year that Sauve's combination of ambition and impatience has not endeared him to the prime minister.

Should the transport department be split into two separate ministeries with Pepin operating as second-in-command to J. W. Pickersgill, Sauve's prospects would be handed a deadly blow.

It could have been of little consolation to him to watch from the sidelines in the company of such ministers as Postmaster General Rene Tremblay, and secretary of state Maurice Lamontagne who themselves have receded from the channels of power in a type of no-man's land.



MAURICE SAUVE
. . . in the wings?

Pearson's loyalty to his beleaguered colleague is firm, and he made a point of noting that Favreau now would be freed from departmental administration to devote his efforts to federal provincial affairs. This was of great importance to the country, the prime minister said.

In view of persistent opposition criticism of having Favreau in the cabinet at all, it is felt likely that he will find himself in a difficult spot no matter what post he holds.

Questioned

Another Quebec appointment which was being questioned was the elevation of former Public Minister Lucien Cardin to the traditional French-Canadian post of justice minister.

It was understood that Sauve in particular hoped a strong English-Canadian would get that portfolio as he would be in a better position to tackle some reforms of the RCMP which was sharply criticized in the Dorion report.

Cardin, however, is said by many to be a "sleeper." He is quiet and discreet, has remained out of political intrigues, and did a solid administrative job both as associate defence minister and in public works.

Another question raised by the changes and the aftermath of the Dorion inquiry is the suitability of Favreau for the political role of Quebec federal leader.

Need Following

Many Quebec Liberals feel that neither Sauve nor Pepin has the exposure or the following at this time for that job. They say that Favreau is personally liked in Quebec and Liberals could agree with him intellectually — but not politically.

He has the same objectives basically as Sauve and other top members of the new guard, but is committed to more cautious methods to achieve them.

It has been pointed out that the Quebec provincial government under Jean Lesage is so strong that the premier now is the leading and most powerful French-Canadian political figure, towering over the federal ministers.

Some sources suggest that it may be several years before a real Quebec lieutenant will emerge in federal ranks. They question the policy of "imposing" the title and the leader on the Quebec rank and file as was done with Lionel Chevrier and Favreau.

Must Evolve

Their reasoning is that a leader is not arbitrarily chosen to fit the job, but must evolve into it as was the case of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Ernest Lapointe who was Mackenzie King's man in Quebec. It took Laurier 15 years in parilament to grow into the job.

Men such as Sauve believe that power will result in a title, but the title alone does not necessarily give effective power.

At the moment there are French-Canadians who with a few more years and experience might naturally move toward the summit, if they have the patience to curb the urgency of their own political aspirations.

Trend Runs Against New Africa Nations

LAGOS — Economic problems are intensifying in Africa's newly independent states.

Developing countries must increase their exports if they expect to close the gap with the industrial countries, economists say. Instead, the trend is running against them.

Industrial countries in Europe and North America are increasing their exports almost twice as fast as developing countries. The price of manufactured goods is rising, while prices earned by most raw materials exported by developing countries are dropping.

Primitive agriculture is the foundation of Africa's economy. More than 85 per cent of Africans work the land.

Often, the price of a single commodity means the difference between profit and loss for a country.

The price of cocoa is at its lowest in more than 10 years, and experts from the International Monetary Fund are surveying Ghana's threadbare economy. France has lowered its support price for peanuts and the government of Senegal is anxiously trying to diversify its economy.

Mineral extraction provides few bright spots. The bauxite, iron ore, petroleum and manganese are sent overseas in a raw state and few industrial jobs are provided through processing in Africa.

Nigeria is in a happier situation than most African countries. Large oil deposits are increasing its revenue from an already diversified farm output. But unemployment is high in Africa's most populous country and nagging financial problems remain unsolved.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

The growing number of married women of child-bearing years in the labor force is bringing the matter of maternity leave into new and sharper focus.

So far, in Canada, the problem has received scant attention. There has been little or no research into the matter—except in a survey issued last year by the women's bureau of the federal department of labor—and there is little provision for job security.

In its 1964 survey, the federal women's bureau noted that, in Canada, maternity leave is provided for in a relatively small percentage of industrial collective agreements.

Only one province—British Columbia—had a general operative act. This is the 1921 B.C. Maternity Protection Act, revised in 1960.

It prohibits the employment of a woman for six weeks after childbirth and provides the right to leave work if the employee produces a medical certificate stating that confinement will take place within six weeks.

The women's bureau did point out, however, that the federal government and all provinces, except Alberta and Newfoundland, make provision under their civil service acts.

In the federal Civil Service Act, for instance, maternity leave is granted, without pay, from two months prior to the expected birth-date until two months afterward. This may be extended for a total of six months.

The manual of personnel administration in British Columbia says that leave of absence without pay, due to pregnancy, is a matter for departmental administration.

It suggests that "generally" the employee should resign with the understanding that if she has performed satisfactory service in the past, she will be given opportunity for re-employment after the birth of the child. However, such re-employment is not encouraged.

Ontario offers a total of six months' leave without pay, two months of it before delivery, provided the employee has at least one year of satisfactory service to her credit. Continuity of service is protected and maternity leave may be granted more than once to the same woman provided suitable arrangements are made for the care of children.

In Quebec, maternity leave of varying duration may be granted with or without salary and Nova Scotia gives special leave, without pay, for 90 days to pregnant employees.

New Brunswick Civil Service Commission suggests maternity leave of two months before delivery and two months after.

Sick leave, not exceeding 28 working days, is granted by the Prince Edward Island government and the Public Service Act of Saskatchewan provides for leave "for valid reasons." This can be interpreted as applying to maternity.

If a woman employee in Manitoba's civil service returns to work within six months of departure to have a baby she is entitled to retain any sick leave, vacation leave, and all seniority previously accumulated.

The women's bureau survey shows clearly that policies of industry and business, across Canada, vary. In one large business, employees are not supposed to work after their sixth month of pregnancy and the maximum maternity leave is one year. Another company, which employs about 1,000 women at its head office, doesn't hire married women. Employees who marry are generally permitted to stay on staff until they become pregnant.

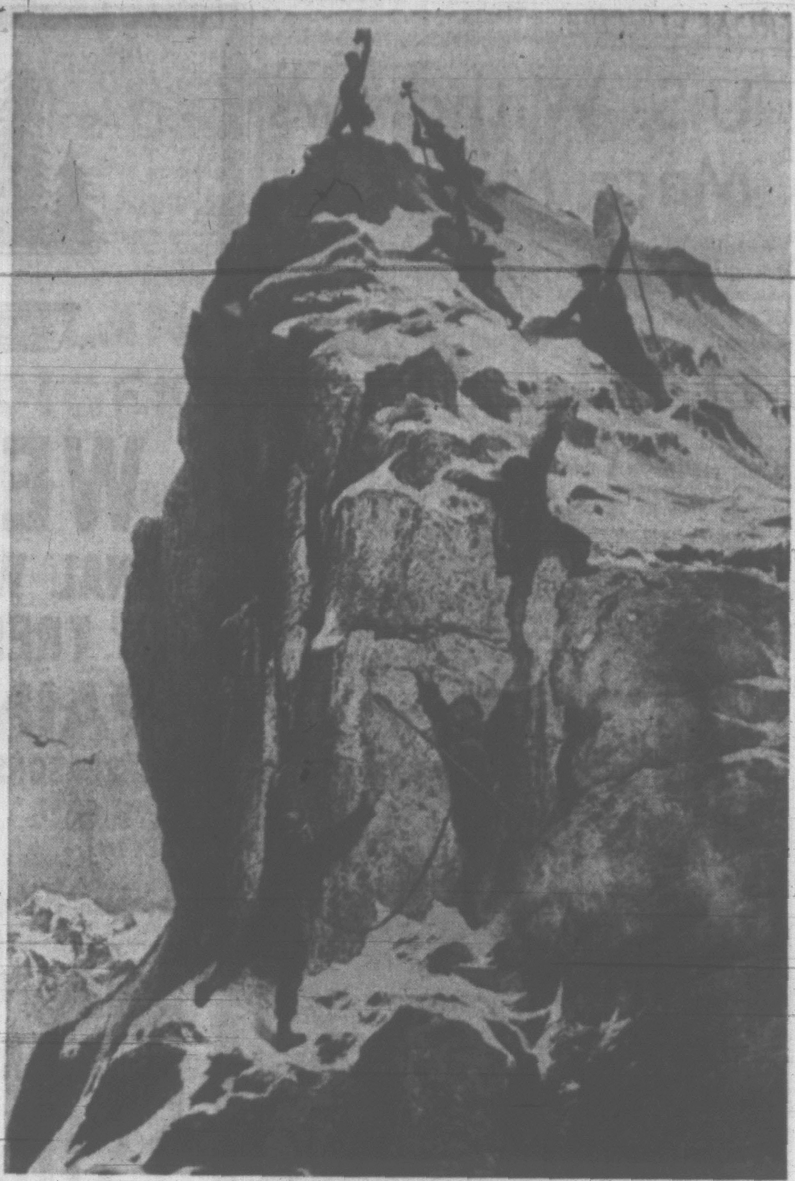
In other words, it is left pretty much to house rules and to those, in authority, who make the rules.

In contrast, in at least 40 other countries it's illegal to discharge a woman worker when she takes time off to have her baby and in 30 or more of these countries the law sets minimum leave at 12 weeks.

Grants, paid partly by the state and partly through a voluntary insurance program, enable employed women in Denmark to leave work for a period before and after delivery. Britain provides a state grant. Sweden and The Netherlands offer cash. Finland provides a layette and equipment or the cash equivalent.

Are these countries, riddled so often by war, more conscious, as it has been said, "of the preservation of people and especially the producers of people," than we are?

Or is it that Canadian women have not complained loudly enough as to the state of affairs here and therefore, it is generally believed, there is no problem?



FIRST CLIMBERS to scale the Matterhorn were led by Briton Edward Whymper a century ago, shown in this artist's conception of historic feat. Now everybody's doing it.

TV Cameras to Join Climbers In Assault on Tamed Matterhorn

By ROY BRUNTON

ZERMATT—On the 100th anniversary of it first being climbed, Matterhorn (14,780 feet) Switzerland's best-known mountain, is being treated rather like a docile elephant in a children's playground.

It will be scaled on July 14, the official memorial day, by three teams of cameramen-mountaineers—about 60 in all—some carrying lightweight television cameras for simultaneous relay to a Eurovision control post installed at the Zermatt - Furri - Schwarzsee cable-railway station.

Other TV cameras are being put in position at the base of the famed final pyramid. Helicopters have deposited six tons of equipment at the relay points. Since the beginning of the month, Zermatt has been invaded by an army of engineers, for whom this further subjugation of the Matterhorn is a stimulating technological spree. Foolproof, they believe—unless the weather takes a hand.

Miss Finale

Viewers throughout Europe and the United States will have all the vicarious thrills of strenuous effort among the high peaks. But they will not see—which is a pity — the grand finale, when adventurous guests of honor at the celebrations will make their own mass ascent, accompanied by a first-aid unit and heavily escorted by mountain guides, who, if the flesh proves weaker than the spirit or vice versa, are prepared literally to pull them up the tougher sectors of the face. Guests must bring their own boots and warm clothing, but rope, ice-axes and climbing irons will be supplied.

"God knows what Whymper would have thought of all this," said one guide, relaxing over a glass of red wine and gloomily wondering how physically fit his guest of honor might prove to be. "They've even put his tent on the summit—it's been lying in a loft at Cervinia for most of the last 100 years."

Edward Whymper, then 25, and his party of six climbers—three of them also British, the others Swiss guides, reached the summit on July 14, 1865, when a team of Italians, who had tackled the mountain from the other side, were only 700 feet below them.

Whymper had been trying to conquer the Matterhorn for four years. Victory, however, was followed at once by tragedy. During the ascent, one of the Britons slipped and fell, carrying with him to their deaths the other two Britons and a Swiss guide. A broken rope saved Whymper and the two remaining Swiss.

Easy for Fit

Today, an ascent of the Matterhorn—on which more than 100 climbers have been killed over the past century—is regarded as relatively easy for any fit and experienced mountaineer. This is mainly because of the great advances in equipment and techniques—also, many ropes and pins are fixed permanently on the face. In addition, the glaciers have receded.

Relics of that first tragic climb are preserved in the little Alpine Museum here in Zermatt. Its custodian remembers meeting Whymper in 1907, who told him, "Remember, boy, always climb with your head as well as your feet."

Descendants of members of Whymper's roping party will be among the hundreds of visitors coming here from the ceremonies. The television climbing team will include a great-grandson of one of the guides who survived that first ascent.

North Wall Tough

Guests, however, will not be encouraged to try to ascend the Matterhorn's almost vertical, and in places overhanging, North Wall, still regarded as one of the most difficult climbs in the Alps. This feat is being undertaken, as part of the celebrations, by a party which includes Ian McNaught-Davis, the Yorkshireman whom television-viewers saw last year scaling the Eiffel Tower. Only this year, the Wall was climbed for the first time in winter, by professional guide Walter Bonatti.

Like the Matterhorn, the little town of Zermatt is itself to be further subjugated—by the motor car. Although absence of motor traffic has been one of the great attractions of the place, the council has now decided that, to ensure the maximum number of tourists and skiers all year round, a motor road should be built to complement the narrow-gauge railway that runs up from the valley.

But, as yet at least, nobody has suggested that the new road should be continued up the side of the Matterhorn itself.

Canada a 'Parasite' In Medical Research

VANCOUVER — The federal government is niggardly in its medical research expenditures, says a University of British Columbia neurologist.

Dr. William Gibson said the U.S. government spends more in Washington state than the Canadian government spends in the whole of Canada.

"We have not begun to scratch the surface in supporting medical research in this country," Dr. Gibson told a service club luncheon.

He also scored Canada's lack of medical training facilities, and said the demand for doctors is so great that new medical centres must be built.

"For too long we have been parasiting other parts of the world for doctors," said Dr. Gibson.

"It is unlikely that we will be able to continue much longer to bring doctors into this country, because they don't want to leave their own countries," he said.

Dr. Gibson predicted a new medical school will be built at the University of Victoria within 15 years.

He Holds Lid On South Africa

By STANLEY UYS

CAPE TOWN—South Africa has a new "strong man." He is 49-year-old Mr. John Balthazar Vorster, minister of justice. In four years as minister he has accumulated more powers than any cabinet minister in South Africa's history.

When he took over, the anti-apartheid movement in South Africa was just swinging over to violence. In the previous year there had been a five-month state of emergency and nearly 2,000 political leaders (whites and non-whites) had been locked up. During their detention many decided that violence offered the only remedy.

As each wave of violence came, Mr. Vorster's enlarged, modernized security branch of the South African police force met and repulsed it. Before Mr. Vorster went to the ministry, the state had banned two major African political organizations, the African National Congress and the Pan-Africanist Congress. It fell to Mr. Vorster to deal with the underground offshoots of these organizations.

Lucky Swoop

His security branch broke up the African terrorist organization, Poqo, and then, in a lucky swoop, arrested the leaders of the sabotage organization, Spear of the Nation. The next group to be uncovered was the African Resistance Movement, started by young white intellectuals. Finally, the underground Communist Party was rounded up.

Superficially, South Africa is quiet now, but the quietness is ensured by the vigilant security branch. About 1,000 non-white political prisoners are being held on Robben Island, South Africa's maximum security prison, seven miles off Cape Town. Other political prisoners are being held in jails on the mainland.

Outside Threat

No one knows whether new African cells are regrouping underground, but, according to Mr. Vorster, the next threat must be expected from outside South Africa's borders. He told Parliament that saboteurs were being professionally trained in five camps in independent African states, and that they would try to slip back into the country.

Already, he said, 133 persons had been arrested while on their way to receive training outside the country, and 85 had been arrested returning to South Africa.

The Security Branch, said Mr. Vorster, knew exactly where the camps were situated, how many recruits they were training, and the nature of the training.

Mr. Vorster's disclosures confirm the suspicion that the South African police have an extensive espionage and informer network in the independent African states, and that informers are also active in capitals where South African refugees have congregated, like London, Paris, New York and Cairo.

As far as the Verwoerd Government is concerned, South Africa is practically at war with the international anti-apartheid movement. In defending the taking of more powers, Mr. Vorster told Parliament: "In these times, when we are dealing with people who are trying to rip the foundations from under the Republic, and who do not hesitate to kill in order to achieve their purpose, it is no time to be sensitive about principles."

Torture Used

Accusations of torture have been made by political detainees against the police. The methods described by the detainees are similar to those practised in Algeria and in Stalinist Russia. The latest method employed by the police is that of continuous interrogation, where the detainee has to stand on one spot for a whole day, or even two days, answering questions.

In the last war Mr. Vorster, a barrister, was a member of a militant Afrikaner anti-war and pro-German organization, the Ossewabrandwag (Ox-Wagon Sentinels) and was interned for nearly 18 months. He proudly retains the uniform which he wore in the camp. Several times, in debates in Parliament, he has referred, bitterly, to his internment.

In Dr. Verwoerd's 18-member cabinet, Mr. Vorster ranks fifteenth in seniority, and his rapid rise to prominence no doubt has earned him enemies in the parliamentary caucus of the ruling Nationalist Party which chooses the party's national leader (who automatically becomes the prime minister).

With the Afrikaners who support the government, though, Mr. Vorster's popularity is undisputed.

EMPTY SHELL REMAINS

55 Years of History Auctioned Off at 'Y'

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

If you walked into the old YMCA building on Blanshard Street today, your steps would echo 100 times over through its four floors.

Thursday afternoon, 55 years of history was carted out the door as hundreds of pieces of furniture were auctioned.

Office furniture, kitchen appliances, fixtures and 80 bedroom suites were sold.

Some looked "Early Depression." Some was the original equipment manhandled into position 50 years ago. Some was only 20 years old.

It's all gone now.

If furniture could talk, what colorful stories, amusing anecdotes or dramatic incidents it could have recalled after more than a half century of hosting thousands of permanent and transient guests.

The first Y residence consisted of two tents set up at the temporary camp for gold miners in the Victoria of 1859.

Young men on their way from California to the Yukon gold rush stayed there waiting for manent residence in 1910, young, and later on, older men started using the facilities as a home.

With the building of the per- transportation.

The 80 bedrooms logged an average of 15,000 bed-nights a year. Most were overnight transients but many stayed on year after year. One of those was Fred Cliff who lived there 36 years.

Yet with all the service it provided as a hotel, the residence was really incidental.

The main purpose of the building was programing for boys and girls. Thousands of Victorians learned to swim in the "Y" pool. Other programs offered were adult education, public speaking, art, world affairs and languages.

WOMEN ONLY

The new YM-YWCA Building on Courtney Street will have living accommodations only for women.

Officials have found that young men today are looking for accommodation in apartments, on a sharing basis with friends. They're not interested in the old type of controlled residence anymore.

The "Y" will only provide a listing service of reliable temporary residences for those young men new to the city.

Comsat Plans Washington Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corporation announced Thursday selection of a 310-acre site near Brewster, Wash., for construction of an earth station.

The site is on a plateau known as Brewster Flat, about five miles northeast of the town of Brewster in north-central Washington. The land now is planted to winter wheat.

Comsat said the proposed station would provide communications services to Hawaii and other parts of the Pacific area as part of its global communications system.

FROM EUROPE

U.S. Withdraws Mace Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department announced Thursday that 90 Mace-A winged missiles will be withdrawn from Europe by the end of next June.

The target areas assigned to these Mace-A weapons will be covered by other systems, including more modern Pershing ballistic missiles already in Europe, the Pentagon said.

"Being in fixed positions, the Mace-A missiles are relatively vulnerable to a surprise attack," the announcement said.

"The mobile Pershing missile has greater survivability and also has better ability to penetrate enemy defences."

The Mace, an air-breathing weapon which looks something like a pilotless airplane, can hurl a nuclear or high-explosive warhead about 600 miles. The Pershing has a range of about 400 miles. Both types of missiles are set up in West Germany.

Careless Drivers

In Saanich police court Thursday:

Alexander Mitchell, 3830 Synod, drove into a ditch June 19 at Cedar Hill Road and Weatherly, fined $50.

Edward Pridham, 1544 Brook, rear-end collision June 23 at Battleford and Harriet, fined $40.

MANY STILL MISSING

About 1,250,000 German soldiers and 1,120,000 civilians are still legally missing but not proved killed during the Second World War.

Loggers Want All-Sun at All-Sooke Day

SOOKE—While most Vancouver Island loggers prayed for more rain today, the loggers at Sooke were hoping for sunshine.

On Saturday many of them will take part in the famed logging sports at All-Sooke Day.

But rain or shine, the annual event will go on.

Finishing touches were being added today as organizers prepared for the 12:30 p.m. opening.

In addition to the logging sports, there will be field events, a midway and numerous side attractions, including an all-day barbecue.

ISLAND DIGEST

Chant Denies Promising Library Space

DUNCAN—Public Works Minister W. N. Chant has denied he promised library facilities in the new Duncan government building.

In a letter to Cowichan School Board Thursday, Mr. Chant said the regional library is not a provincial agency.

It is supported by the municipalities and he said no library accommodation is planend in the building now under construction.

"HE PROMISED"

Chairman Joseph Frumento said: "That's not the point. Mr. Chant promised the library."

Trustee Wilf Peck said the minister's point was sound. It would make just as much sense to build classrooms in the government building.

However, if Mr. Chant made the promise he should follow through, he said.

Trustee Nancy Bailey suggested the city of Duncan might consider a new library building as its centennial project.

Blood Clinic Sets Record

NANAIMO—A two-day blood clinic ended here Thursday night and set an all-time record.

In all, 861 pints were donated, beating the previous high by 51 pints.

Despite this Nanaimo is still 339 pints behind its target.

Penalties Too Harsh Or Too Light—Winch

NANAIMO — Magistrate Eric Winch said here Thursday penalties prescribed for violation of some provincial government acts are in need of major revision.

The magistrate made the comment in fining an 18-year-old youth $50—the maximum—for being found in licensed premises. He noted that it was the fifth time John William Heggs had been convicted of the Liquor Act offence.

"In some instances the minimum fine appears to be too harsh, while in others, the maximum is too light," said Magistrate Winch.

He said later violations of the B.C. Truck Act and provincial "purple gas" regulations are among provincial statutes where minimum fines are high.

LADYSMITH—Sprinkler regulations have gone into force here.

As of today, residents in the area will be limited to two hours sprinkling a day.

The enforcement has been brought in to eke out the steadily dwindling water supplies.

However, town clerk James Runciman believes the present supply will last to the end of October if the present consumption is maintained.

To accommodate shift workers, sprinkling hours will alternate between 7 and 9 a.m. and 7 and 9 p.m.

Ladysmith is drawing its water from Prevost Dam.

Works foreman John Thomson anticipates switching to the higher company dam for August and September and Stocking Lake in October.

DUNCAN—In September, Duncan wil be the second place in B.C. to have an educational TV program.

Cowichan Senior Secondary School will be equippped with two television cameras, a dozen receiving sets and a video tape recorder.

The school board Thursday agreed to rent the equipment at $575 a month.

Educational TV consultant will be Jeff Tothill, a science teacher at the school.

School TV was first installed at Kamloops.

NORTH COWICHAN—Janet, a six-year-old Holstein from the herd of Ate De Wit, South Chemainus, won the Brackman-Ker prize for highest producing cow in the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association during June.

She gave 13,476-pound milk and 679-pound butterfat.

Gerry Van Jaarsveld, Somenos, took the prize for high herd average. His cows averaged 1,727-lb. milk and 68.3-lb. butterfat for the 30 days.

Mr. Jaarsveld also took the honors for highest producing two-year-old with Eileen who supplied 14,360-lb. milk and 610-lb. butterfat.

There were 62 completed records in the association during June.

DUNCAN — Trustee Gerald Patterson of Cowichan school board is taking a busman's holiday this year.

He drives a logging truck every day.

And Thursday, as chairman of the board's transportation committee, he announced he was going back east to collect one of their new buses.

Mr. Patterson and bus superintendent Dick Price will bring the buses back from Brantford, Ont.

ALBERNI — Agriculture Minister Frank Richter has been invited to make a personal inspection of claims that plant life in the Alberni Valley is dying at an abnormally high rate.

The invitation was issued Thursday by Colin Wilson of McCoy Garden Centre in a letter to the minister.

Replying to a letter from Mr. Richter, Mr. Wilson sought a study to determine whether the death rate has been produced by air pollution or some other cause.

Mr. Wilson said the minister apparently has no knowledge "of the problems and difficulties being experienced by home owners of this area."

"The loss of plant life in this Alberni Valley at present is not normal and warrants a thorough inspection by your department."

A yearling Morgan stallion, Beckridge Donfield, owned by Mrs. Jan Harkema of Salt Spring Island, will be entered Sunday, July 18, in the annual All Morgan Horse Show at Abbotsford.

The show horse recently placed first in the Pacific Northwest Morgan Horse Show at Seattle and should be a strong contender.

Other entries will include Morgan stock belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mallory of Alberni and one entry owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pallister of Victoria.

The show is sponsored by the B.C. Morgan Horse Club and the Rotary Club of Abbotsford.

Largest Ever Development For Montreal

LONDON (UPI)—A 41 million pounds ($114.8 million) Anglo-Canadian property development project believed the largest ever in the Commonwealth was announced today.

It will give Montreal the most modern office-shipping centre complex in Canada covering about 115 acres of floor area.

Metropolitan and Provincial Properties Ltd., and the construction firm of Holland and Hannen and Cubitts Ltd., are major partners in the project and a company called Mace Development Ltd., was formed to develop, own and manage it. It is controlled by T. Eaton Co., Ltd., of Toronto and by First National Property Corp., of Montreal, it was stated. Financial backing is coming from a Scottish insurance company.

BUSINESS VIEWS

They Want a Ride for Their Money

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

A senior citizen writes to comment on a recent column and comes through with a suggestion city centre businessmen may have overlooked in their efforts to keep shoppers downtown.

Hume

The lady says that she and her friends invariably jog out to a shopping centre to make their purchases because they "absolutely hate to pay 20 cents each way from Cook Street" to the nearest department store.

With female logic, if that isn't a contradiction of terms, she says it is to the advantage of elderly people to at least get their money's worth from B.C. Hydro by tking a pleasant drive before doing their shopping.

She goes on to ask why 10-cent fares couldn't be instituted for short distances and adds this plaintive note: "So many people would benefit by this.

"It would be nice to be able to go down town again. It is such lovely place now with the new malls and all those new improvements."

Wonder how many other readers feel the same way?

Remember the hoola-hoop, that plastic sacroiliac bender brought in from Japan? There is another one on the way.

The new brand is called the Merry Top, a circular-type tricycle which goes forward or backwards or in circles, depending on which way the rider leans his weight.

The first models, which should be here sometime this fall, are designed for youngsters three to five years old but the betting is that teenagers will soon be demanding a sturdier model to replace the skate-board.

If they do all the manufacturer says—swing left or right with a shift of the body or loop in speedy circles — they could even become popular with politicians.

A happy anniversary wish to E. L. W. Fuller, superintendent of Shell Canada Ltd., Victoria marketing plant.

This month Mr. Fuller marks his 25th anniversary with Shell.

Born in Prescott, Ont., he joined the company as a clerk in the Montreal district plant in 1940. In 1947 he was transferred to Vancouver where he became head auditor and tabulating supervisor.

Six years later, in 1953, he moved to Victoria.

Air Canada gave Canadian exporters a boost this week when it announced slashed air freight rates between Canada, the U.K. and continental Europe.

Sample rates based on a Montreal starting point are:

Fruits and vegetables, 17 cents a pound to London, Glasgow and Shannon, 19 cents a pound to Dusseldorf and Paris. The old rate was 24 cents a pound.

Meat, poultry and game down to 19 cents from 27 cents.

Tanned, dyed, finished or semi-finished leather goods down to 19 cents a pound from 27 cents and a wide variety of textile products down to 21 cents a pound from 28 cents.

Similar reductions will apply right across the country for those seeking foreign markets for their products or produce.

MARKET SUMMARIES

New York Gaining Toronto Loss Small

Brighter conditions appeared in New York and London markets today but Montreal was irregular and Toronto industrials took fractional drops.

AT NEW YORK the stock market regained its early strength and more late this afternoon.

Jones and Laughlin advanced nearly 2 points while other leading steelmakers were fractionally ahead.

Among Canadian issues, Distillers Seagrams rose ⅜ and Hudson Bay Mining ½. Aluminium Ltd. and Canadian Pacific each slipped ½. Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine ¼ each and International Nickel ⅛.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

AT TORONTO industrials took fractional drops. Losses were small but widespread. Most major indusrial groups declined.

In the main list, Toronto-Dominion Bank fell ⅞ to 60⅛ and National Trust ⅝ to 20. Bank of Nova Scotia, Dofasco and Industrial Acceptance each trimmed ⅜ to 71, 26 and 22½, respectively.

Canada Permanent Mortgage and Royal Bank clipped 1 apiece to 66 and 73. Aluminium and Bank of Montreal each lost ½ to 28½ and 60¾.

Senior base metals rose. Falconbridge rose ⅝ to 97¾ and Cominco ⅝ to 40½. Denison was ahead ⅛ to 28 but Noranda fell ¼ to 47¾.

AT MONTREAL stocks were irregular in moderate trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

In utilities Bell Telephone added ⅝ and CPR was off ⅛. Brinco was up ⅛.

Among banking issues Nova Scotia added ⅛.

Papers were steady with Dominion Tar up ⅛ and Great Lakes off ⅛.

Machinery issues advanced with Case up ¼ and Massey-Ferguson ⅛.

Metals were mixed. In the base section Consolidated Mining and Smelting rose ¼ and in the primaries Aluminium lost ¼.

AT LONDON brighter conditions generally were maintained in the London Stock Market today although business slackened in places and some prices eased.

Gilt edged stocks were quiet. Dollar stocks were firmer in response to the overnight Wall Street tone.

Canadians to improve included Abitibi, Algoma, Aluminium, Consolidated Mining, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, Imperial Oil, International Nickel, Massey-Ferguson and Brazil Tractions. Falls were seen in B-A Oil, Consolidated Paper, Noranda and Trans Canada Pipe. Canadian Pacific shed a fraction.

AT VANCOUVER trading continued light until noon today with three industrials hitting new lows for the year.

In mines, Dundee was the biggest trader by far, with 40,700 shares off .03 to .64. Lighter volume was registered by Arlington, down .02 to .47; Galaxie, up 1½ to .50; and Peso was up .12 to 1.35.

Finance companies lost in industrials with Coronation Credit down .80 to a new low for the year of $3.90 on 200 shares. Canadian Finance was off .52 at $4.85 on 300 shares.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices continued to move narrowly in moderate trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Most activity was in oats, where sales of more than 6,000 tons to Britain and Europe were reported. Prices in both oats and barley were firm. Most trading in barley was domestic, but there was some export interest.

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in the grain futures market was slow and mixed today with prices shifting in a generally narrow range both above and below previous closes.

Hedge selling of wheat continued light and some of the demand there was believed to be for establishment of long positions. New crop corn firmed at times on the same account, dealers said.

MB & PR Boss Looks Abroad

VANCOUVER (CP) — Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited is considering purchase of additional manufacturing facilities in Europe, company chairman J. V. Clyne said Wednesday.

Mr. Clyne said in an interview the company is studying the prospects in Great Britain and the European Common Market of "pulp and paper and that sort of thing."

IMPRESSED

He said the ventures are near-term "in the sense of a year being near," but declined further comment.

Macmillan Bloedel already owns three large manufacturing plants in Britain producing paper boxes, which were purchased in 1964.

Mr. Clyne, who recently returned from a seven-week business tour of Europe, said he is impressed with the prospects for business in Continental Europe.

NONG President Released From Jail

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph K. Farris, former president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co. Ltd., has been released from Guelph Reformatory and now is in his Vancouver home.

Farris was sentenced to nine months definite and three months indeterminate on a perjury charge arising from his testimony before a judicial inquiry into distribution of NONG stock.

Farris has cancer of the pancreas and had served only six months of his sentence when released.

DESIGNED MONTHLY INCOME IN RETIREMENT

Is not always easily arranged, as dividends or interest on investments often fail to tie in well with the monthly style of budget to which the retired man accustomed himself during his working years.

To meet this need, Victoria Mortgage Corporation will mail a monthly cheque, applying on any investment of $10,000 or over, for ANY AMOUNT YOU SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

Some of our retired clients are expressing their real desire to spend some of the capital of their retirement fund along with their earnings, rather than have it all left in their estate.

If this, too, is your feeling, perhaps you will find the following table interesting:

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month. $10,000 at monthly payments of $69 including 7¼% interest, would take 30 years to spend: $73 month—25 years: $80 month—20 years: $89 month—16 years: $100 month—13 years: $118 month—10 years: $138 month—8 years: $153 month—7 years: $200 month—5 years.

Terms of all 7¼% Victoria Mortgage Debentures provide that the unused portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or earlier in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture.

Feel free to discuss your investment requirement with Douglas Hawkes, mortgage broker and investment counsellor . . . 24 yrs. in Victoria real estate. Obtain prospectus . . . 817 Fort, 384-7128.

Markets, Backing Needed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Large-scale foreign investment and increased markets in other countries are needed to keep India developing and free of Communism, the Indian trade commissioner in Vancouver said Thursday.

Y. R. Dhawan told the Vancouver Optimist Club that although India's agricultural production had increased 46 per cent in the last 10 years, it had not kept up to the population increase.

"In order to afford imported foodstuffs, India must balance her trade by industrial exports. The greatest aid a foreign people can give India is capital investment, to produce factories and jobs from our natural resources," he said.

Alexandra Starts Work On Sawmill

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Alexandra Forest Industries Ltd. announced Thursday that construction will start immediately on a $6 million sawmill 125 miles north of here.

The sawmill, with an annual capacity of 60 million board feet of lumber, is expected to be completed by July, 1966.

Under the terms of the harvesting licence granted in April, the company will also build a pulp mill with a minimum capacity of 400 tons a day, to be in production by the end of 1970.

Company president T. N. Beaupre said a new community which is being built to house company employees at the site will eventually have a population of more than 6,000.

Transportation to the site will be provided by an extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway from nearby Kennedy.

Shell Strike Meeting Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—A meeting between British Columbia's deputy minister of labor, management and union representatives was scheduled today to attempt to end a five-day dispute at Shell Oil Canada's refinery in Burnaby.

William Sands was to meet with Shell representatives and officers of the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC).

The dispute centres around employees working overtime and was culminated when the men alleged the company was trying to intimidate maintenance workers. More than 100 protesting employees staged a sit-down strike inside the plant's gates.

The men left their position Thursday upon the advice of a union official and RCMP in the face of a supreme court injunction ordering them from the property.

A union spokesman said the men complied because the alternative was a probable jail sentence.

They had camped at the refinery since Monday.

Strikers, Police Scuffle

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's striking grain-handlers scuffled with police today after what officers said was an attempt by pickets to prevent longshoremen from reaching the piers.

The longshoremen are members of the non-striking International Longshoremen's Association (CLC).

The grain-handlers are members of Montreal Port Employees' Union, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions.

They have been off the job for 3½ weeks in support of demands for a new contract with seniority rights, wage increases ranging from 70 cents to $1 an hour and other benefits. Meantime port operations have continued.

Strikers said one of their picketers was struck during today's scuffling.

A police spokesman said there might have been a major fight between the longshoremen and the grain-handlers if it had not been for action by the harbor police.

Shipbuilder Looks Forward To More Work

A city shipbuilder said today he is looking forward to more government contracts following a speech Thursday night by Victoria MP David Groos.

The Liberall member told Oak Bay Kiwanis that west coast shipyards should have five or six years to diversify their output before national bidding starts.

"We are engaged in diversification now and at a good pace," said Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot.

"We certainly welcome his suggestion that the government is considering having some portion of government shipbuilding done on the west coast."

NEED SHIPS, TOO

But even with current diversification, he said, shipbuilding also was required to balance the over-all picture.

Mr. Groos anticipated the federal government will announce a shipbuilding policy along the lines he mentioned within the next few days.

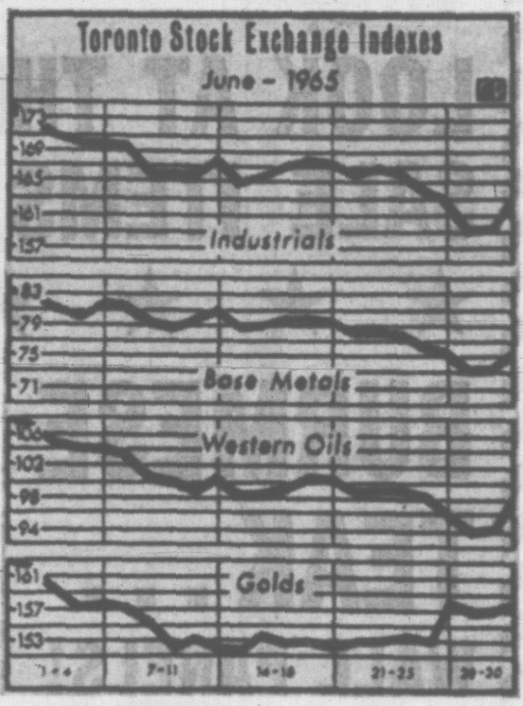
Indications have been that west and east coast yards will compete nationally for government contracts, rather than regionally.

Mr. Groos said west coast yards are handicapped by a $1 an hour higher wage structure than the east, plus being farther from the sources of supply.

In the long run, he felt, west coast shipyards must become competitive.

"But it is something that can't be done overnight and I don't think the government should expect it to be," he said.

"If we can diversify our yards, with their high level of workmanship, they will be able to compete with the rest of Canada."



STEADY DECLINE—All sections of the Toronto Stock Exchange were lower at the close in June with slight gains during the last two days. Industrials closed with the highest loss of 9.95. Golds were off 4.08 with base metals at 7.42 and western oils at 8.72 from figures quoted June 1. (CP Newsmap.)

Charges Denied

NEW YORK (CP) — Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. Thursday formally denied charges by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission that it issued a false and misleading statement about its big ore discovery near Timmins, Ont., last year.

The company made the denial in an answer filed in U.S. district court.

Tourist Dollars May Depend On Shifting Fish Population

The fish and game branch may have to shift the Kokanee population of Duncan River to preserve hte famous rainbow trout of Kootenay Lake.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan today said the branch will spend $165,000 this year in studying possible results of the Duncan Dam, part of the Columbia River project.

Another $500,000 over the next three years may be needed to carry out the remedial program.

The study will centre on the Kokanee (land-locked sockeye salmon) that spawn in the Duncan River and constitute the main feed of the Kootenay Lake trout. The trout are a major attraction of the Kootenay tourist industry.

Mr. Kiernan said the situation has been under study for two years, but this year's surveys and preliminary construction of fish traps is expected to "finalize our program for remedial measures.

"The most likely remedy appears to be creation of artificial spawning beds in the Lardeau River which joins the Duncan River below the damsite."

The Kokanee would have to be trapped and shifted to the Lardeau River after construction of the spawning grounds.

Meanwhile, research is being conducted into such things as the effect of water temperature on spawning habits and how to control it with water drawn from different levels of the storage dam, preferable spawning locations and the most suitable gravel sizes.

Tenders Called For Tower Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tenders for construction of 884 steel transmission towers for the Peace River power line have been called by B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

Hydro officials said 350 towers will be instaled along a 100-mile section of the powerline extending south from Kelly Lake to Boston Bar.

Additional towers will be installed in the Prince George-Portage Mountain section of the 500,000-volt powerline.

Tenders will be received in Vancouver until noon Aug. 17.

Angry Row In House Over Escape

LONDON (CP) — A daring prison break by one of the arch-criminals who staged Britain's great train robbery in 1963 touched off an angry row in Parliament today. One irate MP said troops should be called out to recapture the fugitive, 35-year-old Ronald Arthur Biggs.

Meanwhile, Scotland Yard warned the public that Biggs, the thee convicts who fled with him from London's Wandsworth prison Thursday, and the outside accomplices who set up the break may all be armed. Detectives on their trail were issued guns—a step taken only in extreme emergency.

Biggs, serving 30 years for his part in looting a Glasgow-London mail train of £2,600,000 ($7,800,000) in banknotes Aug. 8, 1963, was the second of 12 men convicted in the case to crash out of prison.

The other one, Charles Frederick Wilson, 32, made it over the wall of Winslow Green prison in Birmingham last Aug. 12 and is still at large. He too, was in for 30 years.

CALLS FOR TROOPS

In the House of Commons this morning, Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice, who is responsible for Britain's internal security, said he has ordered a far-reaching investigation into Biggs' escape.

4th Worst Air Crash For Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The apparent loss of 52 lives in the mid-air explosion of a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B Thursday ranks as Canada's fourth worst aviation disaster.

The greatest loss of life occurred Nov. 29, 1963, when a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8 crashed near St. Therese, Que., killing all those on board — 111 passengers and seven crew.

IN QUEBEC

Previous to that crash, the greatest loss of life came on Aug 11, 1957, when a Maritime Central Airways DC-4 carrying 79 persons crashed into the muskeg at Issoudon, Que.

The world's worst air disaster occurred Dec. 16, 1960 when a United Airlines DC-8 jet and a Trans-World Airlines Super Constellation collided over New York City, killing 134 persons on both aircraft.

DISASTER LIST

Her eis a list of Canada's plane disasters since 1950:

1950—Jan. 26—44 killed—United States transport lost over the Yukon en route to Texas.

1951—July 21—38 killed—Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-4 lost en route to Anchorage, Alaska from Vancouver on Korean airlift.

1951 — Oct. 17 — 23 killed—Queen Charlotte Airlines, Nanaimo, B.C.

1952 — Nov. 24 —12 killed—RCAF, Comox, B.C.

1953—Jan. 18—14 killed—U.S. Army C-54 transport, Stephenville, Nfld.

1953—March 18—10 killed—U.S. RB-36, Smith Sound, Nfld.

1953—March 18—23 killed—U.S. B-29, St. George's Bay, Nfld

1954 — April 9 — 37 killed—TCA-RCAF collision, Moose Jaw, Sask.

1956 — May 15 — 15 killed—RCAF CF-100 crash into convent, Orleans; Ont.

1956 — Dec. 9 — 62 killed—TCA crash on Mount Slesse, Chilliwack, B.C.

1957—Aug. 11—79 killed—Maritime Central Airways DC-4 crashes into Muskeg at Issoudon, Que.

1963—Nov. 29—118 killed—TCA DC-8 crashes near Ste. Therese, Que.

Seven Children Dead

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Seven children were reported killed early today in a fire which swept their two-storey brick residence, police said.

MAYOR STARTS BIG CLEANUP

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin is fulfilling the politician's perennial promise to clean up city hall.

Source of Bribe Money Needs Answer: Thompson

RED DEER (CP) — Robert Thompson, national Social Credit party leader, said Thursday Canada's new justice minister should initiate a complete investigation into all aspects of the Lucien Rivard affair and into charges of bribery and corruption in high places.

Mr. Thompson said in an interview Lucien Cardin, who replaced Guy Favreau as justice minister, has proven as works minister his capabilities to handle the justice portfolio.

The Social Credit leader said all aspects of the Rivard affair were not investigated by the Dorion investigation. The question of where the $20,000 for the bribe offered Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne would have come from was not answered, Mr. Thompson said.

Commenting on changes in the federal cabinet, Mr. Thompson said this was the third change in a little more than two years and he hoped this change will prove to be the final one for this government.

The Social Credit leader said he disagrees with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that former Justice Minister Favreau's new appointment as president of the Privy Council adds to the "sorry, sordid mess" of the Rivard affair.

This was a "pretty rough" comment to make, Mr. Thompson said.

Mr. Favreau's personal integrity and morals were not questioned in the Dorion report, Mr. Thompson said, and Mr. Favreau will have to prove himself, to the government and to the public, in an important post such as president of the Privy Council.

Mr. Thompson said Prime Minister Pearson chose two younger, capable men to join his cabinet.

'I WAS NAIVE,' SAYS ROULEAU

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal MP Guy Rouleau sang his swan song Thursday night as a member of Parliament and confirmed that he will resign his seat.

Mr. Rouleau, member for the Montreal riding of Dollard, said in a prepared statement that he considers it his duty, in the interest of the country and the government, to quit.

The Dorion report on allegations of bribery and coercion in attempts to win bail for narcotics Lucien Rivard said that Mr. Rouleau had committed a "reprehensible" act.

Mr. Rouleau, 42, said he believes the conclusions of Chief Justice Frederic Oorion of the Quebec Superior Court are unjust.

"Meantime, in retrospect, I admit that I made an error in judgment in making the enquiries I did for the particular individual concerned. I sincerely believe I was also naive."

Mr. Rouleau said he has talked to Speaker Alan Macnaughton and will send him today a document signifying his intention to resign effective July 31 in order to conclude his work as MP.

MD Protests Ontario Rejection

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. G. L. Chakrabarti of India, resident physician at the federal Canadian Forces Hospital here, said Wednesday he plans to go to Halifax because the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons will not allow him to practise privately in this province.

He said he has a licence to practise medicine in Nova Scotia, the United States, the United Kingdom, Burma and India but not in Ontario.

Dr. Chakrabarti is allowed to work as a resident here because the Canadian Forces Hospital is federally-operated and not subject to Ontario College jurisdiction.

He said his application for a licence to practise privately in Ontario was rejected for the "barest reasons," but did not elaborate.

"I had thought, in view of my post - graduate degrees and training that I merited special consideration," he said in an inverview.

Last month, Dr. D. Laurence Wilson, also of Kingston, president of the college, said the college had a duty to examine the early medical training of doctors seeking to be licensed to practise privately in Ontario. It had rejected several Asian doctors on the ground their undergraduate training was inadequate.

Dr. Chakrabarti received his undergraduate training in Calcutta and later was made a fellow of the Royal Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons (Glasgow) and of the Royal College of Physicians (Edinburgh).

Vancouver Warning: Addicts Near Panic

VANCOUVER (CP)—A shortage of Mexican heroin on the illicit drug market has left the city's addict population in a state of near-panic, police warned Thursday.

Police urged doctors to remove all narcotics from parked cars after reports of thefts from automobiles. Patrolmen were ordered to keep a special watch on drug stores and pharmacies.

In Tijuana, Mexican agents burned a one-ton crop of marijuana which they said would have been worth $2,000,000 in the United States underworld. Three men were arrested.

Fleet Maury Threatens To Erase the Asterisk

Wills Boosts Pilfer Pace Despite .267 Bat Average

By UP International

Maury Wills, the little jackrabbit of the Los Angeles Dodgers, is well on his way toward becoming baseball's most famous .260 hitter since Roger Maris.

The lithe speedster and captain of the National League-leading club has been struggling along at the plate for the entire season and currently sports a .267 batting average, his lowest total since he broke in with the Dodgers back in 1959.

Yet the mercurial Wills, much like Maris who batted only .269 in 1961 while standing the baseball world on its head with a record 61 home runs, is headed for his biggest year yet on the base paths where his 54 thefts in 85 games sets him far ahead of his 1962 pace when he stole an incredible 104 bases.

Wills, like Maris, drew an asterisk for his performance three years ago in eclipsing Ty Cobb's modern era mark of 96. But, unlike the New York Yankee outfielder, Wills stands a good chance of removing that blemish if he can ring up more than 96 thefts within a 154-game framework. Both he and Maris established their marks after the advent of the 162-game season.

The senior circuit's all-star shortstop put his legs to good work again Thursday night, stealing two more bases and leading a Dodger stampede that crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-4. The victory boosted Los Angeles back into first place in the frantic NL race one-half game ahead of the idle Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies split a doubleheader with the San Francisco Giants, winning the nightcap 4-2 after absorbing a 10-2 drubbing in the opener, and the Milwaukee Braves outclubbed the Houston Astros 9-8.

Dodgers Steal Four In One Inning

Chicago White Sox edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2, the Detroit Tigers walloped the Yankees 6-1 and the Baltimore Orioles pinned a 10-6 defeat on the Kansas City Athletics in the only scheduled American League games.

Wills went into his act in the seventh inning with the Dodgers holding a precarious 5-4 lead over the Bucs. He opened the stanza with a single off starter and loser Vern Law, quickly swiped second and third and came home on Willie Davis' single. Before the inning was over Los Angeles had stolen four bases and tallied four runs, three off reliever Frank Carpin.

GRAND-SLAM HOMER

Catcher Jim Pagliaroni gladly left the game in the ninth after futilely firing at the moving targets. Davis also was credited with two steals and Lou Johnson added another. The victory went to Howie Reed, who relieved Claude Osteen in the fourth and limited the Bucs to one run and six hits the rest of the way.

Richie Allen's grand-slam homer in the first inning of the second game provided Philadelphia veteran Ray Herbert with all the cushion he needed in evening his record at 4-4. It marked the first bases-loaded blast in the major league career of the Phillies' all-star third baseman.

PASSES MUSIAL

Willie Mays, who drove in two runs in the first game, socked his 476th major league homer in the seventh inning of the second game to take over undisputed possession of sixth place among baseball's all-time sluggers. The Giant centrefielder had been tied with retired Stan Musial at 475.

Gaylord Perry went the distance for San Francisco in the opener before a standing-room crowd of 37,110—the largest in eight years at Connie Mack Stadium. The Giant righthander, backed by a 17-hit attack, struck out seven and allowed only five hits in gaining his seventh victory against a like number of defeats.

BULLOCKS IMPRESSIVE

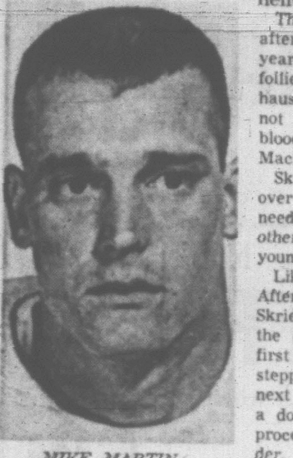
Mike Trying To Believe He Likes It

By HAL MALONE

COURTENAY—To most people Thursday was July 8, 1965, A.D.

To Mike Martin, it was "TD Five." The TD is for "Torture Day." The number represents the total thus far at the B.C. Lions' camp to build healthier bodies and all that jazz.

"I keep telling myself I like training camp," Martin said. "I keep telling myself, but I still have a helluva time believing it."



MIKE MARTIN

This was late Thursday after Martin, in his fourth year of Dave Skrien's spring follies, had undergone an exhausting workout. If you do not care for exhausting, try bloodthirsty or homicidal or Machiavellian.

Skrien does not wield a whip over his 46 Leos. He doesn't need to. There are too many other devices to keep the young adults out of trouble.

Like the tackling dummy. After mild contact drills, Skrien led the pack over to the dummy. They belted it first with one shoulder, stepped back, whacked the next obstacle and so on up to a dozen. They repeated the process with the other shoulder.

They hit the first dummy, spun—"Keep it low"—hit the third, spun, hit the fifth and etcetera. Then they collapsed.

There were no serious casualties but the liniment bottle was getting a lot of attention around muscles crying for relief.

Another form of fun was the one-on-one drill. Skrien would line up two behemoths, usually a veteran and a rookie, step back and toot his whistle. The idea is to see if the irresistible force can bulge the immovable object or vice versa. Great for the neck muscles.

The subsequent explosions practically drowned out the overhead crackling of RCAF jets. If the peace marchers were really interested in a peaceful society they would be picketing Lewis Field instead of Comox Air Base.

Contact work on less than a full scale seldom discloses outstanding individual effort. But there was an exception.

Amos Bullocks, acquired from Dallas of the National League, tore huge holes in the second defensive line. Previously there was some concern by the coaches that Amos wasn't going to cut the mustard. No more.

"Bullocks showed us a lot today," said offensive coach Frank Johnston. "Maybe we expected too much before. Sure, he played a few games in the NFL, but the transition to our style was difficult for him."

Son of Syl Apps Pleases Skrien

Still pushing Bullocks—and not far behind—is Tom Larscheid, who looks no larger than an overweight jockey. If the spot was based on heft, Bullocks would be in. But Larscheid is a known quantity and catches the ball better than Bullocks.

Head steward Skrien, a master of conservatism, let himself go long enough to tick off a few bodies that caught his fancy. Like Stan Napper, a large red-headed end from West Kentucky State; Bob Apps, a Canadian halfback from McMaster University; George Roby, offensive tackle from Adams State College, and defensive back Don Holder, Utah State.

Napper and Apps, a son of former Toronto Maple Leaf ace Syl Apps, displayed hands that love to snatch footballs. Neither showed any disinclination to snag passes in a crowd where one misstep can be fatal.

Roby, bidding for Lonnie Dennis' spot, threw his 248 pounds with uncommon zest. He has, in the patois of football, great pursuit.

Holder is not extremely large, cut more to the specifications of the retired By Bailey, whom he hopes to succeed. But he makes few mistakes and never the same one twice.

At day's end it began to rain. But the players barely noticed. There's hardly any difference between sweat and s'wet.

Movers Pad Lead; Nip Workers 7-6

Greaves Moving scratched out a single run in the bottom half of the ninth inning Thursday night at Royal Athletic Park to bolster their first-place grasp in one of the most exciting games of the Senior Amateur Baseball League season.

Greaves nipped Transport Workers 7-6 to move two games ahead of the Workers in the two-club duel for the top berth.

Every pitch counted in the tense affair which climaxed in the same manner it was played when Dave Rivers scored on Bob Lumley's game-ending ground ball to shortstop, John Yankoski.

Rivers opened the final frame with a solid single to centre. He advanced to third when Tom Moore lashed a double to left. Lumley's grounder would normally have ended the contest at a 6-6 tie but with the tension at its highest the burly catcher hustled down the base-line, forcing Yankoski to hurry his throw, which pulled John McKeachie off first base.

17-HIT ATTACK

Greaves hammered 17 hits in the contest, including key blows by Les Brice, Moore, Rivers, Lumley and pitcher George Hemming. Hemming turned the tide of the game in the fifth inning when he drove home the tying and go-ahead runs to establish a 6-5 lead.

Transports hung in the game, however, with Brent Siddons matching the Greaves' lefthander with three scoreless innings and manager Barry Harvey tying the score in the eighth with a single. Hemming thwarted the Workers drive for victory in the top of the ninth when he struck out three men in a row. He fanned 17.

VICTORIA AND VANCOUVER IN DRAW

Tense Cricket Finish

Southern California took a rest from Victoria Cricket Week action Thursday and watched Victoria and Vancouver clubs flash some impressive batting in a match that resulted in an exciting finish.

Despite the batting prowess on display the clubs had to settle for a draw.

Victoria batted first and ran up 182 runs before declaring with nine wickets down. Vancouver made a strong bid for a victory in the closing stages, coming within one wicket of a defeat before time ran out with the mainlanders at 171 for nine wickets.

Jim Wenman scored 52 runs, not out, for Victoria and Jack Adams and Roger Levy added 30 and 25.

For Vancouver, Wallace Tait batted for a fine 68, Terry Paris had 38 and Doug Griffin 23.

Southern California was playing Vancouver today and will be back at the Beacon Hill pitch Saturday at 1:30 for a match with a Victoria side.

TROUBLE . . . TROUBLE . . . TROUBLE . . .

There was plenty of trouble waiting for American stars Tony Lema and Jack Nicklaus on rugged Royal Birkdale course at Southport, Eng., during this morning's third round of British Open tournament. Lema, the defending champion, tries to play from rough at 10th hole and Nicklaus ponders shot from rough on second hole. Nicklaus needed 77 shots and Lema slipped from lead with round of 75. Final 18 holes were being played this afternoon. (AP Wirephoto.)

Thomson Out in Front In Final Round of Open

SOUTHPORT, England (CP)—Peter Thomson of Australia, aiming for his fifth title, took a two-stroke lead with a total of 238 after 60 holes of the 72-hole British Open golf championship today. In the first six holes of the final round he shot six straight fours.

The veteran Aussie, refusing to be shaken by the trying conditions of the Royal Birkdale course, hung up a 54-hole score of 214, five under par, for a single-shot edge over defending champion Tony Lema and Bruce Devlin of Australia, both of whom shot 75s for 215.

Another stroke back at 216 came Arnold Palmer, still in strong contention after a scattershot 75, which tied him with Christy O'Connor of Ireland and long-hitting Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina.

O'Connor shot a 74 and de Vicenzo, who three times has finished third in the classic event, fired a 73.

PLAYER WITHDRAWS

Gary Player of South Africa, recent winner of the U.S. Open in a playoff with Kel Nagle of Australia, skied to a 79 and then abruptly withdrew from the tournament.

"I couldn't go on," Player said, explaining that his sore neck, suffered Thursday, prevented him from taking a full swing.

The 44-year-old Nagle was still in contention at 217, tied with Brian Hugett of Wales, Lionel Platts of England, and Sebastian Miguel of Spain.

Thomson, who won three British Opens in a row and four between 1953 and 1958, played superb golf despite the miserable conditions. The third round started in rain and wind. Later the sun emerged but gusty winds continued to blow in from off the Irish Sea.

Palmer's miseries were on the greens.

"I missed 12 putts from inside 10 feet," Palmer said. "It is ridiculous to play a round like that and still be in contention."

Thomson closed with two strong birdies on the 17th and 18th holes.

Parnell Explodes For Seven Goals

NEW WESTMINSTER—Paul Parnell likes doing things in a big way.

Parnell, who hammered home six goals in his last Inter-City Lacrosse League game against Victoria Shamrocks, staged an even bigger scoring binge here Thursday night.

The sturdy New Westminster forward erupted with the most prolific scoring spree of the season, firing seven goals and collecting three assists to lead his club to an 18-9 conquest of Coquitlam Adanacs.

Paul's 10-point effort carried him to a commanding 14-point lead over Vancouver's Sid Warick in the league point race. Parnell is setting the pace with 74 points, including 47 goals, in 19 games.

YANKED GOALIE

Defeat kept the Adanacs locked in third place with the Shamrocks, the club Coquitlam tackles in a crucial two-game series next week.

With Westminster out in front 9-3 at half time, Coquitlam playing-coach Gordie Gimple yanked netminder Merv Schweitzer in favor of Joe Comeau but the move didn't help a bit.

Cliff Sepka added two goals and four assists to the Westminster total and Dave Tory collected two tallies.

Tugmen Trip Alberni Club

Three goals by Keith Lawrence sparked Esquimalt Tugmen to an 11-10 victory over Port Alberni in a senior "B" lacrosse league game Thursday at Memorial Arena.

Two goals by Glen Robbins and single tallies by Jim Haggarty, Stu Walker, Brian Cornell, Bill Spotswood, Daryl McIntyre and Doug Bambrough added to the winners' total.

Jerry Shires scored four goals, Bub Shires three, and Pat Mulcahy, Brian Van Horne and Bob Jones one each for the losing Alberni squad.

Softball Series With Seattle Club

Richmond Huskies, a visiting senior "B" softball team from Seattle will play a three-game series against Independent Athletic Association all-stars Saturday and Sunday at Central Park.

Saturday's game begins at 6:15. Sunday's games are slated for 12:30 and 2:30 p.m.

Carlings Grab Victory On Ninth-Frame Bunt

A ninth-inning bunt by Bud Taylor gave Carlings a 4-3 victory over Morrisons Thursday in a hard-fought Senior Men's softball game at Heywood Avenue Park.

Carlings appeared to have sewed up a victory in the seventh inning when doubles by Ken Griffin and Norm Curran produced two runs for a 3-0 lead.

But Morrisons rallied in the bottom half of the seventh and sent the game into extra innings when an infield error and a double by Doug Gregory tied the score at 3-3.

Carlings' Howie Sneade singled, advanced to second on a walk and to third on an infield out before scoring the winner on Taylor's bunt.

Jack Lundquist won his sixth game in 11 starts for the victors.

Sooke plays Newstead Realty tonight in a game that was scheduled for Saturday. The switch was made because of All-Sooke Day.

NEW YORK (AP)—From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League all-stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual midsummer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting lineup, the Nationals have added an attractive auxilliary group that includes Johnny Callison of Philadelphia Phillies, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago Cubs, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati Reds.

This group shapes up favorably against the American League alternates featuring Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, Elston Howard of New York Yankees, Max Alvis of Cleveland Indians, and Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit Tigers.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston Red Sox.

National League manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 all-star team.

PINSON PASSED

Generally, all-star managers pick players who finish second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of Milwaukee Braves, and centrefielder Veda Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Kranepool of New York Mets, Cooki Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under all-star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

SKOWRON STARTS

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins completed the American League reserves.

Ferguson Takes Division Crown

Cec Ferguson, of Gorge Vale Golf Club, won the 15-and-under division in the British Columbia junior tournament, which finished Wednesday at Vancouver Marine Drive course.

Ferguson, 15, fired one of two par-71 rounds scored on the final day to finish the 54-hole tourney with 227, 10 strokes behind the winner and best tally turned in by a Victoria entrant.

He tied for fifth place among British Columbia players in the tourney, won by Al Greenstreet, 18, of Vancouver, in a playoff with Seattle's Steve Cole.

McLeod Replaced

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Brian Shaw, 34, of Edmonton, has been named coach of Moose Jaw Canucks of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League. Shaw succeeds Jackie McLeod, who coached last year when Canucks finished seventh in the eight-team circuit.

Youthful Duo In Golf Final

VANCOUVER—Two long-hitting youngsters were battling at Shaughnessy Golf and Country Club today for the B.C. Women's Close golf championship.

Marilyn Palmer, the 18-year-old Kamloops stylist who has already collected the provincial junior crown and the interior women's title this season, was swinging against Vancouver's Susan Brown, another 18-year old, in the 36-hole final.

The consolation final matched Barbara Renwick and Mrs. G. Garnett, both of Vancouver.

Miss Palmer advanced to the finals of the match play tournament Thursday with an easy 4 and 3 victory over Yvonne Clark of Vancouver.

Miss Brown had a more difficult time, taking two extra holes before defeating Mrs. Brice Evans of Vancouver on the 20th.

Miss Brown, this year's Vancouver junior champion, appeared to have victory assured with a two-up lead going into the 17th hole, but Mrs. Evans captured both holes to square the match.

On the 14th, Mrs. Evans, the 1957 champion, had victory within reach, but missed a five-foot putt to halve the hole.

CHIPPED SHORT

Miss Brown then put the match away with a par four on the 20th as Mrs. Evans chipped short and was unable to drop a 25-foot putt.

Miss Palmer, daughter of Rod Palmer, Kamloops Golf Club pro, took an early lead as she made use of powerful drives to capture the first three holes.

She was only one up after the 11th, but captured the 12th, 13th and 15th to end the match.

The finalists will both represent B.C. in inter-provincial play at Kitchener, Ont., July 29-Aug. 7. Miss Palmer will be making her second appearance on the women's team and Miss Brown, her second on the junior team.

AT BISLEY SHOOT

Quebec Marksman Best Service Shot

BISLEY, England (CP)—Sgt. Joe Daigle of the Royal 22nd Regiment proved himself Thursday to be top sharpshooter among almost 600 of the best marksmen in the armed services of Britain and the Commonwealth.

Daigle, 34, won the big double for servicemen at the annual Bisley rifle shoot. He took the prized service rifle championship over 506 other entries and beat 596 marksmen to win Bisley's premier service prize, the Queen Mary.

On opening day of the meet Monday, he won the Players Cup for shooting from a sitting position.

CLINCHED TITLE

Daigle, from Valcartier, Que., a member of the 3rd Battalion, clinched the rifle championship Thursday when he won a rapid-fire contest against Flt. Lt. R. S. Hassell of RAF Bomber Command. Daigle and Hassell had tied with 393 out of 455 at the end of the seven events counting in aggregate for the championship.

Hassell hurt his chances severely by mistakenly loading only eight shells for the 10-shot contest. Daigle scored 36 out of 50 firing under a 30-second time limit from 500 yards. Hassell managed 29 within his eight rounds.

In beating the airman, Daigle scored a measure of revenge against the RAF, whose marksmen had beaten members of the Canadian Army team out of first place in three events Tuesday. One of the three was the first stage of the eight-part Queen Mary, when RAF Sgt. Peter Holderness defeated Daigle by one point. The airman finished 15th after the second stage.

Daigle, who won the Queen's Medal as best shot in the Canadian Army in 1963, scored 362 out of 400 in the Queen Mary, which a veteran Bisley official described as "exceptionally high."

The quiet, stocky sergeant, who shoots from the left shoulder, is the second Canadian to win in each of the big matches and the first to win both. Sgt. A. W. Blackburn of Canada won the rifle championship in 1905 and Cpl. R. L. Snelgrove of the RCAF won the Queen Mary in 1957.

Duncan Hurls Tenth Victory

Peter Duncan captured his 10th consecutive victory with a three-hit, twelve-strikeout pitching performance Thursday night, leading Evening Optimists to their 16th win of the season in an 8-1 contest against Al's Esso at Marigold Park.

The young righthander also drove in four runs for Optimists, who now lead the league by one game.

McMillan Beats Burnside Buddy

They broke up the combination of John McMillan and Andy Dickie but the separation of the Burnside buddies didn't help rival rollers in Victoria lawn bowling circles.

Dickie and McMillan, who have teamed up to dominate several trophy events this season, were turned into friendly foes by the Peace Cup competition for the Vancouver Island singles championship.

The pattern didn't change. McMillan and Dickie clashed in the final and John proved to be the boss on that particular day. McMillan collected the silverware by downing Dickie 21-14.

Jim Winter, another Burnside bowler, turned in fine performances in the early rounds although he had previously entered only a few competitions. Winter went to the semifinals before being ousted by Dickie.

McMillan got through the semis with a victory over Bert Tallack, who was bowling on his home greens at Beacon Hill.

TEST CRICKET

Two Surrey Batsmen Butcher Kiwi Bowling

LEEDS (Reuters) — England's John Edrich (194 not out) and Ken Barrington (152 not out) butchered New Zealand's bowling in a brilliant unfinished second wicket stand Thursday when the third test match began here.

England, which leads the series 2-0, had reached 366 for 1 at the close after a stroke-making fiesta which left the New Zealand attack helpless.

Statistical milestones were achieved in quick succession throughout the day. But the chief records attained by the two Surrey batsmen were that their stand so far of 353 for the second wicket is the best in history for either side between England and New Zealand and the fifth-best ever for England.

At the Oval: Surrey 270 for 8 declared; South Africans 238 for 5.

At Lords: Oxford University 176 for 8 declared and 93 for 4; Cambridge University 133 for 8 declared.

At Southampton: Hampshire 236 and 7 for 1; Middlesex 259.

At Manchester: Leicestershire 59 and 257 and 5; Lancashire 201.

At Hove: Sussex 152 and 109 for 2; Somerset 263 for 8 declared.

At Colchester: Derbyshire 180; Essex 179 for 4.

At Birmingham: Gloucestershire 205 and 175 for 5; Warwickshire 184.

At Worcester: Glamorgan 147 and 140 for 8; Worcestershire 149.

At Nottingham: Northamptonshire beat Nottinghamshire by an innings and 85 runs. Nottinghamshire 116 and 129;

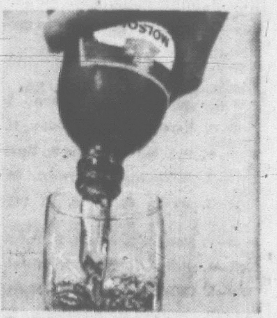
Learn to pour beer—no hands.
A dramatic Beermanship trick, revealed by Molson Canadian's brewmaster.

1 To perform this amazing trick you need a "tulip" glass, like this one, and a bottle of Molson Canadian (the light beer that's all beer).

2 Before starting, flex your fingers. This looks very professional to your audience. Keeps 'em on edge.



3 With one smooth motion—tilt the bottle upside-down into the glass. If you get nervous and rattle the bottle against the glass, you're in trouble.

4 Now. Take your hand away. The beer will pour itself.

5 It won't overflow*, so relax. Play it cool. Open a couple more Canadian. Pay no attention to the startled gasps of your guests.

6 Now take the bottle out and "top up" the glass. It's always good Beermanship to use a little flourish here.
*Well, it might, once in every ten tries. Might mean your beer isn't quite cool enough. Keep trying.

BEAT TIFFIN SCHOOL

Lake Rowers Post Victory

KINGSTON UPON THAMES (CP) — An eight-oared crew from Shawnigan Lake School, Vancouver Island, defeated a highly-regarded British rival by two lengths Thursday over a three-quarter-mile course at this town on the southwestern outskirts of Greater London.

Shawnigan's first crew was timed in four minutes and 31 seconds, six seconds faster than a crew from Tiffin School of Kingston. The Shawnigan second team had a time of 4:38 to place third.

Tiffin placed third to Emanuel of London and an Eton crew this spring in the all-English schoolboys' regatta on the Thames. Shawnigan coach Joe Grey said he sought the race with Tiffin because he felt it would be good competition.

The British Columbia visitors who took part last week in the Henley Royal Regatta, will stay here to compete in the Kingston regatta Saturday, an event ranked second only to Henley on the British rowing calendar.

Grey said the Canadians will enter two eight-oared crews and, using members of those same crews, two four-oared shells.

MORE FIGHTS . . . . . . WOULD HELP BOXING

Busy Champions Best

NEW YORK (AP)—"Champions should defend their titles as often as possible and that would help cure some of boxing's problems," says the co-manager of welterweight king Emile Griffith.

"They're holding hearings on boxing in Washington now and it would help if there was some federal control that would make champions fight," said Gil Clancy, the co-manager. "If they don't, take away their titles and make it stick in every state.

"Now Griffith goes looking for title opponents. He's a real fighting champion. He knows he can make more money fighting for the title so he puts it on the line. He's had 11 title fights and he's won nine of them. We have confidence in his ability.

"On the other hand Joey Giardello, the middleweight champion, hems and haws. One day he says he'll fight Dick Tiger in New York or Philadelphia. The next day he says it will be Joey Archer or Tiger or somebody else in Philadelphia or New York. Meanwhile he doesn't fight and the title gets locked up."

B.C. Team Seeking First Win

LONDON (Special)—The touring British Columbia Independent Schools track and field team has headed for Wales, seeking its first victory on a tour of Britain and the Continent.

Defeated 72-53 by Stowe School in their first meet, the Canadians earned a tie with Dr. Challoner's Grammar School in their second outing.

Vancouver Island athletes were among the top point-producers for the B.C. squad in the two meets.

In the meet with Stowe, Mark Clarke of Victoria, won the discus event wtih Rod Garbutt, Duncan, second. Garbutt also placed second in both the shot-put and triple jump.

Barry Greenhalgh of Duncan was second in the 100 yards and third in the 220. James Crowe, Victoria, was fourth in both events.

DOUBLE VICTORY

In the second meet, Greenhalgh won the 100-yard dash in 10.1 seconds with Crowe second. Greenhalgh made it double triumph by taking the 220, in which Crowe was third.

Ian Scott-Moncrieff of Duncan, won the 440 in 53.2 seconds. Clarke was second in the discus and Garbutt second in the triple jump.

Also collecting points during the two meets were Malcolm Graham, Duncan, and Derek Harkema, Salt Spring.

Argos Obtain Brother Act

TORONTO (UPI)—Toronto Argonauts obtained a brother act and Hamilton Tiger-Cats solved their offensive end problem as a result of a trade between the two Canadian Football League clubs.

Argos sent import end Jim Leo to the Ti-Cats for Canadian halfback Dick Aldridge.

Aldridge, whose brother Ted is already an Argo, played for the University of Waterloo last season.

Leo, a 27-year-old veteran of National and American Football League play, will step into the vacancy created in the Ti-Cat lineup by the recent retirement of Hal Patterson.

VOCAL SUPPORT MAY BE TOO LATE

Big Union Ready to Desert Wilson?

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson could be forgiven if he began wondering why he needs political enemies when he has friends like the powerful Transport and General Workers' Union.

The 1,475,000-member union, Britain's largest, brought in a declaration of encouragement and support for Wilson's Labor government Wednesday night at its biennial conference in Portsmouth.

But coming after union delegates had twice rejected major government policies in the last two days, the pledge of support was too late to prevent speculation about a possible ruinous split developing in the Labor party.

The support came when delegates applauded the acting general secretary, Harry Nicholas, as he listed the benefits Wilson's government has enacted since its election.

"We don't live in a Socialist economy," Nicholas said, "but by God, we have had some Socialist measures introduced since Labor was returned to power."

Only a few hours earlier, however, the delegates had opposed the government's unqualified support of the United States in Viet Nam.

The delegates pressed the government to dissociate itself from American policy on Viet Nam and called for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the Asian country.

Only about 15 of the approximately 800 delegates present opposed the motion.

The size of the vote was almost an exact echo of the manner in which delegates agreed Tuesday to oppose the government's incomes policy—an effort to keep wage increases in line with the rise sought in productivity.

The opposition to government policy from the transport and general workers is a particular embarrassment to Wilson.

Frank Cousins took leave of absence as the union's general secretary when he was appointed Labor's minister of technology, and George Brown, economic affairs minister and a chief architect of the hold-the-line policy on wages and prices, is also a member of the union.

SEEN AS KEY ISSUE

The Times, The Daily Mail and the Daily Telegraph, among others, all suggest today that the question of government policy on Viet Nam will be a major issue when the Labor party holds its annual conference in October.

Recalling that the late party leader Hugh Gaitskell faced a major split in the party in 1960 over the question of nuclear weapons, The Mail's Keith McDowall writes that "Mr. Wilson may find himself anxiously totting up the union block votes, as Mr. Gaitskell had to do during the H-bomb split."

Cede Power? Not de Gaulle

Showdown Claimed Unavoidable As Market Grinds to Standstill

BRUSSELS (AP) — France's five Common Market partners believe a showdown on the political issue underlying the present dispute within the European economic community is unavoidable.

The issue is supra - nationalism — whether the six countries will cede some of their sovereign powers to an international body in which majority rule will prevail. The six countries are West Germany, France, Belgium, Italy, Holland and Luxembourg.

French President de Gaulle is opposed to the evolution of the economic union into a supranational political institution. Other members of the European economic community, notably West Germany, favor creation of a political organization to go with the Common Market's economic framework.

France has not said that this was the reason for its announcement Monday that it will boycott Common Market activities. Rather, the boycott was linked to failure of market members to agree to a new farm subsidy program by Junt 30, when the old program expired.

France extended the boycott Thursday to activities to the European coal and steel pool, the forerunner of the Common Market. However, French representatives were directed to attend a routine meeting of Common Market farm experts Thursday.

The French boycott, for all its implications, is not viewed as a move toward French withdrawal from the Common Market.

Walter Hallstein, German chairman of the market's executive commission, said in a speech in Duesseldorf Thursday:

"No one sees the existence of the Common Market being placed in question because of this occasion. This would be the greatest act of destruction in the history of Europe—the free world even—since the days of Hitler."

Agreement of farm financing is an undisputable obligation of the six member countries, Hallstein said.

The next council of ministers meeting is scheduled for July 26 in Brussels. But France has said it will not attend. No major decisions can be made until the dispute is resolved, since unanimous consent is required

A top Italian diplomat predicted that there will be no progress before late September or early October, because of vacations and the West German general election in September.

"First the dust must settle. . . . Meanwhile, we can only hope for the best and expect the worst," he said.

TEST PLANE SHOOTS DOWN F-102 JET

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—A missile inadvertently fired from an all-weather U.S. F-106 test aircraft knocked down an F-102 jet plane over the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday night. The pilot was rescued unharmed.

An investigation by air defence command officials Thursday confirmed that the plane had been shot down by a radar-guided missile.

'Science, Religion Compatible'

SEATTLE (AP)—There is no conflict between science and religion, and man still has to rely on his faith in God "whenever the going is rough." Dr. Werner Von Braun said Thursday.

Dr. Von Braun, director of the George C. Marshall space flight centre at Huntsville, Ala., addressed the International Christian leadership conference here.

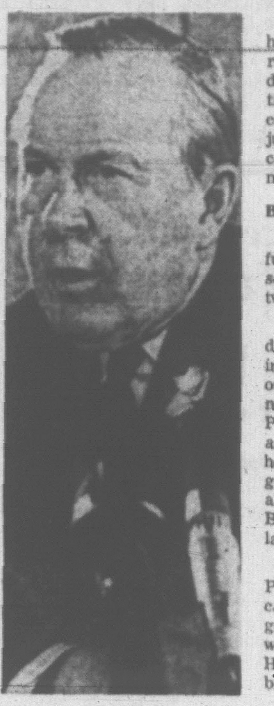
"The two dominant forces which are shaping the course of human events in our revolutionary age," said Von Braun, "are science and religion. . . It is depressing that there seems to be a growing misconception that these two powerful forces are not compatible."

He described science and religion as "sisters."

Rugged Time Ahead for PM As Vacation Plans Shelved

OTTAWA (CP) — Under normal circumstances, the beginning of a parliamentary summer recess gives the prime minister a break from the affairs of state and the opportunity for a secluded vacation.

But it's not working out that way this time. In the nine days since the Commons closed for the summer months, Prime Minister Pearson has followed a more rugged schedule than he did when the House was sitting. And it will be a few weeks before things get better.



PEARSON

. . . maybe in August

The prime minister's main preoccupation is the crucial federal-provincial conference beginning here July 19.

Every day Mr Pearson meets with a cabinet committee to plot courses through the bulky agenda that includes such obstinate issues as jurisdictional responsibilities, crime and poverty wars and offshore mineral rights.

Government sources say that no previous conference has required so much advance labor.

And the Dorion report, which hit Parliament a day before the recess, is still occupying a good deal of the prime minister's time, say informants. He has conferred several times with justice department officials in connection with charges that may result from the report.

BUSY, BUSY DAYS

The nine days have also one full-scale cabinet meeting, a seven-move cabinet shuffle and two press conferences.

It took the best part of one day working on the long-standing differences with Quebec over the administration of Eskimos, and sources said that Mr. Pearson also devoted a fair amount of time to reading the hefty report on collective bargaining for the civil service. He also announced plans for a New Brunswick-to-Prince Edward Island causeway.

Sometime in August, Mr. Pearson may take a short vacation. His next speaking engagement is during the July 18 week-end in Antigonish, N.S. He'll be visiting British Columbia for a few days in August.

About plans for a vacation, an aide said, "I doubt whether he's given it a thought."

Bonner Eyes Preventive Action

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner predicted Thursday that ways will soon have to be devised for preventing incipient offenders from entering crime.

Mr. Bonner, speaking at the Correction Education Association conference here, said penal codes are devised to cope with crime after it is committed.

However, he said, it is difficult to put preventive techniques into the framework of law without transgressing on personal liberties.

He said it may be necessary to devise a system of law where treatment can be imposed on those showing medical or behavioral abberation that could lead to crime.

"Prevention implies surveillance before an offence. The law does not make allowances for this, but fuller realization of the medical aspects of offences may become necessary."

The minister said the problem of crime and punishment is not solved by locking people up.

'Complete Menace' Sailor Told

A sailor received a tongue-lashing and a $100 fine when he pleaded guilty in city court Thursday to supplying a minor with liquor.

Police evidence was Herbert Harry Johnson, HMCS Qu'Appelle, took $2.50 from a minor and went into the Government Street liquor store March 13 and purchased a bottle of rye for him.

"People like you are a complete menace," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"I cannot tell you how many cases we have in one week of minors in possession of liquor.

"Very often they say they gave the money to someone else who bought it for them.

"You are just one of those people who convinces himself you are doing a good turn, and, in point of fact, you are doing a very great disservice to these people.

"That is not the way to make a good fellow of yourself and that is how minors are able to get liquor and get into any amount of difficulty, sometimes very tragic."

PARTY ORDERED BY COURTS

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Ram Shankar, 46, a shopkeeper, was fined £80 ($240) and told to throw a party.

shankar was charged with having liquor in his possession in excess of personal requirements. Police seized 184 bottles of beer and 44 bottles of spirits in a raid on his premises.

Shankar told the court he planned to hold a party for 30 people.

The magistrate said he could keep 90 bottles of beer and eight bottles of spirits "on the basis that you are going to hold a party for 30 people."

Questions and Answers on the
BRITISH COLUMBIA MEDICAL PLAN

WHAT IS THE BRITISH COLUMBIA MEDICAL PLAN?
This Plan is a measure designed to provide first-dollar prepaid medical insurance for all residents of British Columbia on an individual basis, regardless of their age, health or financial status.

HOW IS THE PLAN OPERATED?
Initiated by the Government of British Columbia and approved by the doctors of British Columbia, this Plan is registered as a non-profit organization under the Societies Act. The Plan is administered by a Board of Directors representing the Government and the doctors of British Columbia.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS?
Benefits include payment of medical and surgical services of the physician of a subscriber's choice, when required for preventive, diagnostic or therapeutic treatment care; specialist and consultant services; anaesthetic services; and necessary laboratory services and diagnostic aids, including X-Ray. Coverage is provided within limits for chiropractic, naturopathic, physiotherapy and special nursing services.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE AND WHAT IS THE FULL PREMIUM?
The British Columbia Medical Plan is available to all persons who ordinarily reside in the Province and who subscribe to the Plan and pay premiums. For one person, the monthly premium is $5.00; for a family of two, the monthly premium is $10.00; for a family of three or more, it is $12.50.

WHAT DOCTOR MAY I CHOOSE?
Persons enrolled in the British Columbia Medical Plan may obtain services from any general practitioner of their choice. They may also obtain the services of a specialist on referral by their general practitioner.

WHO QUALIFIES FOR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE?
The Government of British Columbia will pay to the British Columbia Medical Plan:

■ one-half of the monthly premium on behalf of persons who had no taxable income in the previous calendar year;

■ one-quarter of the monthly premium on behalf of persons who had taxable income of $1,000 or less in the previous calendar year,

DOES THE PLAN PROVIDE SERVICES OUTSIDE B.C.?
Yes. Where a subscriber to the Plan obtains services available under the British Columbia Medical Plan from a general practitioner outside the Province, the doctor will receive the fee payable in British Columbia.

WHEN IS THE PLAN EFFECTIVE?
Benefits under the British Columbia Medical Plan will commence on September 1, 1965.

WHEN CAN I ENROLL?
You can enroll now and during each open enrollment period of the Plan for benefits to commence as follows:

DRIVER SWIMS FROM CAR

Knee-Deep Mud 'Smears' Stampede

CALGARY (CP)—Driving rain belted the Calgary Stampede Thursday, making a mud-bowl of the rodeo infield, cutting attendance, and smearing cowboys, jockeys and chuck wagon drivers with grime.

The rain, which struck the city about 4 p.m. and lasted until mid evening, was part of a storm that piled up hail up to one foot deep as far as High River, 28 miles south.

The storm triggered a flash flood of run-off water in the south Calgary suburb of Midnapore.

A trailer court was flooded with up to 1½ feet of run-off water which filled ditches and backed up. One man had to swim out of his car when it became caught in a water-filled ditch along Highway 2.

Several trailers had to be pulled out of the court.

The rain washed out ballast in several small sections along the Calgary-Lethbridge line of the Canadian Pacific Railway but work crews were expected to have the sections repaired by this morning.

The washouts caused the cancellation of a pasenger railliner from Calgary to Lethbridge and passengers were taken by bus to Lethbridge. A freight train was rerouted.

The weather office said four inches of rain fell in three hours at Strathmore, 25 miles east of Calgary.

The rain cut attendance figures for the third day. Attendance Thursday dropped 7,933 to 70,104 from 78,037 on the same day last year.

Despite the heavy rain which pelted the Stampede grounds, mud-plastered cowboys went on with the rodeo events in knee-deep mud in the rodeo infield.

A number of re-rides on bucking broncs had to be ordered because of the mud.

Chuck wagons crossed the finish line with thick mud clinging to their wheels and the Janko brothers outfit of Calgary took the championship lead with a four-night total time of 5:06.69.

JEAN TO JOHN

'Ah, the Devil! He's Dangerous'

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker's objection to transfer of Eskimo affairs in northern Quebec from Ottawa to Quebec provoked an exclamatory response Thursday from Premier Jean Lesage.

The premier, questioned about Mr. Diefenbaker's statement by reporters, exclaimed: "Ah, the devil! The old man is getting dangerous in his old age! I am very worried about his condition! Everything he does works to destroy the national unity he says he favors!"

Mr. Diefenbaker said Thursday in Stratford, Ont., that plans to transfer administration of the Eskimos to the province in easy stages was "another instance of the deals and double deals that have been going on under the table between the federal government and Quebec. This is a case where human beings are being treated like animals at a cattle sale."

Mr. Diefenbaker added that the courts had decided Indians and Eskimos are Canadians and come under the jurisdiction of the federal government. Northern Affairs Minister Laing had stated repeatedly that in no circumstances would jurisdiction of the Eskimos be handed over to the provinces, he said.

SEVEN PRIESTS JAILED FOR WEST CONTACTS

VIENNA (AP)—Seven Hungarian priests have been sentenced to stiff prison terms in a secret trial in Budapest on charges of anti-government activities and illegal contacts with the West, the Roman Catholic news agency Kathpress reported Thursday.

Drug Misuse In Jail Charged

MONTREAL (CP) — A 40-year-old suburban St. Bruno doctor, described by a special RCMP prosecutor as possibly the biggest pedlar of barbiturates to prisoners in Bordeaux jail, was charged Thursday with three counts of trafficking in controlled drugs.

Dr. Leonce Mayrand was arraigned before Judge Emile Trottier. He was charged with three counts of trafficking in controlled drugs and also three counts of prescribing drugs to persons who were neither ill nor under professional treatment.

Judge Trottier refused bail and said the court made a distinction between those who use drugs and those who traffic in them.

The charge says the doctor prescribed doses of 25 and 78 capsules of a drug tuinal on May 10 and other quantities of the same drug on May 19 and 24.

According to the files of the drug auditor in Ottawa, Dr. Mayrand prescribed 5,600 of the capsules over a five-month period, special RMCP Prosecutor Pierre Lapointe said.

He added that Dr. Mayrand "is presumed to be one of the biggest—if not the biggest—trafficker of such barbiturates in Bordeaux jail."

Dangerous Driving Nets Youth $250 Fine

A Saanich youth was fined $250 and lost his licence for 18 months when he pleaded guilty Thursday to dangerous driving.

Stephen A. Birch, 18, of 5062 West Saanich Rd., drove dangerously on Echo Drive, Goward and Interurban roads June 23, Saanich court was told.

Police evidence stated his car veered four times across Echo Dr., spun around and sheared off a post. It was out of control for 136 feet.

Birch then turned on to Goward leaving 20 feet of skid marks.

His speed on Interurban Rd. was estimated by police at 60 mph. When questioned he stated his gas pedal stuck.

"For conduct like that you are lucky to have your liberty," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

Violence Halts Retailers Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—A strike by members of the Gasoline Retailers Fraternity in Quebec province collapsed Thursday night.

Some 300 members of the fraternity voted to end the strike, which began Tuesday in a dispute with the oil companies over profits from sales and rents of service stations.

The GRF said there had been "too much violence" during the walkout.

Auguste Vial, president of the fraternity, said: "We have at least shown the government that there is a problem and that we have legitimate claim to a greater share of gasoline profit margins."

The strike started because retailers in the fraternity wanted an increase in their profits of two cents a gallon and a decrease in rentals on their service stations.

The fraternity, which claims to represent 2,000 of the 8,000 gasoline outlets in Quebec, was unable, however, to make the strike totally effective.

When violence occurred, with threats against some operators for staying open for business, the oil companies petitioned for injunctions from the courts.

Two companies, British Petroleum and Texaco, asked the court to jail and fine Mr. Vial and Jules Bellemare, another fraternity official, for alleged contempt of an injunction last week in advance of the walkout.

One oil company, Texaco, raised its prices on the first day of the strike by three cents a gallon, offering the operators half of the additional amount.

WHITE HOUSE press secretary George Reedy announced today he is bowing out of his post—at least for some months—because of a painful foot ailment. One of President Johnson's top special aides, Bill Moyers, will take his place.

Indonesian Protest

JAKARTA (Reuters) — About 1,000 Indonesians demonstrated peacefully outside the United States Embassy in Jakarta Friday against American policies in Viet Nam. With a drum and trumpet band playing martial music, the demonstrators marched past the embassy singing anti-American slogans.

SOVIET NEWSMEN SAY POLICE STALKING THEM

CALGARY (CP)—Two Soviet newspapermen visiting the Calgary Stampede say they are being shadowed by plainclothes men.

Vladamir Ozerov of Pravda and Leon Bagramov of Village Life are on a reporting-tour of Western Canada.

Mr. Ozerov said Wednesday night, "It is evident that all the way we are followed . . . on our entire tour" by groups of two to six men.

RCMP officials said they had no comment on the claim.

Mr. Ozerov said they have "met a most generous attitude on the part of Canadians, especially Calgarians."

CONTRACT QUESTIONED

Can Law Officers Be 'Rented Out?'

The legality of a contract between Saanich police department and the White Spot restaurant was questioned Thursday in Saanich police court.

The question was raised by Dermod Owen-Flood, counsel for Brian Lewis, 160 Island Highway, charged with obstructing Const. Fred Wooster in the Town and Country parking lot May 28.

It was alleged Lewis grabbed Const. Wooster by the arm, pulling him back while the police officer was searching Lewis' vehicle for liquor.

Magistrate William Ostler dismissed the charge "with some reluctance."

OUTSIDE SCOPE

Mr. Owen-Flood argued a municipality cannot "rent out" its police force. Therefore the officer was acting under "a private, illegal contract" outside the scope of the public duty of a police force, he argued.

Saanich police receive extra pay when they are "detailed" to patrol the Town and Country area. The White Spot restaurant is billed by the municipality for the service.

"EVEN ASLEEP"

Magistrate Ostler did not rule on the legality of the contract but stated Const. Wooster had a police officer's status "even if he's asleep."

Lewis was first charged with intoxication in a public place, but this charge was laid five or 10 minutes after the alleged obstruction.

The reason for arrest must be given at the time of arrest, the magistrate said.

TAUNTED OFFICER

During the search of Lewis' car, a group of young people gathered around and taunted the officer with abusive language, court was told.

The magistrate said the language probably "triggered" the arrest.

And it was impossible to say the pulling of the constable was deliberate because the accused held the trunk of his car open during the search.

He said Lewis' "exaggerated anxiety for the condition" of his vehicle's paint work presented the strong possibility of accident rather than obstruction.

But he added the officer should never have been placed in the situation he found himself, surrounded by a crowd of young people hurling insults.

Pickers Moving From Strawberries To Logan Vines

The strawberry season is now drawing to a close and loganberries are taking over as the new crop.

The demand for berry pickers will still remain high, as a result.

The picking of loganberries is already underway and more will be needed, said George Bevis, manager of the National Employment Service.

Because of the present spell of dry weather, picking will have to be concentrated into a shorter period and should reach a peak in about a week or 10 days, he said.

Arthur Mayse

A year or two ago in this corner, I listed for would-be salmon fishermen the ingredients of a low cost outfit. What I didn't set down, chiefly because I could hear in advance the snickers of my angling friends, was how to use the stuff.

During our recent spell of poking along the Island east coast, however, it was impressed on me that altogether too many salmon-hungry parties who rent a boat and shove off are unlikely to connect with a fish except by sheerest accident.

True, luck does figure heavily in the game. But there are ways to give the fickle lady an occasional nudge, and the tyro should be familiar with a few of them.

The first rule I would offer is, don't be afraid to experiment, even if to do so means tossing all advice, including mine, overside.

If conventional trolling speed brings no strikes, rev the engine or slow down. Try two ounces of lead instead of eight. Test the non-standard lure someone gave you last birthday.

One hot and glassy afternoon when the fish scorned all other enticements, I surprised myself and two fat coho with a surface-skipping dingus inherited from a Minnesota black bass fisherman.

It helps, also, to fish where the salmon are. At all camps and resorts, the proprietor or the regulars know the hot-spots.

Their advice is useful. Still, it doesn't do away with the need for playing detective when you go salmon fishing.

A concentration of seagulls wheeling and plunging over a quarter-acre of ruffled water means bait-fish on the surface, and, quite possibly, coho chopping into the school from below.

Regard the mouths of coves or bays and the tide-chop off points and the eddies on either side of them as territory worth exploring. Circle small islands, and loaf down the outer edge of kelp beds. In any of these places, you may tag a salmon.

Should you get a strike, ease back and cover the area thoroughly. Fish rarely travel alone.

What not to do is toss a lure over and, without regard for location or surface signs, tow it aimlessly to and fro. That way, one rarely achieves anything except boredom and sunburn.

In our waters, it's necessary to check your rig at regular intervals, particularly since the weed that came with the tasty Japanese oysters took hold.

A tag of trailing weed or eel grass destroys lure action and warns any fish not an outright moron to keep its distance.

There's much I haven't gone into here, including the matter of tidal influence on fishy appetites, and the specialized deepwater trolling practiced in such areas as Saanich Inlet for spring salmon.

Instead, let me dredge a tale from one salmon buff's well-stocked past.

We were trolling in Porlier Pass between Galiano and Valdes islands one July evening from Dave Conover's powerboat . . . Dave, a mouse-sized but eager small boy, and me.

Tide was running strong. Deep down, sunk there by wire lines and heavy leads, Dave and I fished big white plugs for springs. The boy, we'd rigged hastily with an old cotton handline.

The tide ran. The boat plodded slowly against it. The moon showed a golden rind over a Galiano sidehill. Never a strike.

But as the moon cleared the ridgetop, we became aware that a silent, desperate battle was going on under our very noses. The snubber between junior's line and the boat transom was stretched thin as a pencil. He hauled, and in the depths his partner in the tug-of-war yielded a grudging yard of line.

The end of it, all in a wash of moonlight, was a gilded 20-pounder flopping in Dave's spangled net, and an awed youngster who couldn't quite believe his luck.

For, as I suggested earlier, luck does enter into fishing. May yours be good . . . and mine get better!

Family Awaits Word On Offer of Reward In Knight Abduction

A reward may be offered for the capture of Mrs. Mary Knight's kidnappers.

Mrs. Knight's elder son, Clarence, said today the family is considering putting up money for evidence leading to the capture of his mother's abductors.

Before offering the reward the family is awaiting word from the RCMP.

The new move came following a day which turned up plenty of new leads but nothing concrete.

For the first time since she was found bound and gagged Wednesday, Mrs. Knight, 82, was able to speak to RCMP officers Thursday afternoon.

But she was sketchy about the identity of the men who dragged her from her waterfront home 1½ miles south of Ladysmith Tuesday.

'STILL IN SHOCK'

Said Insp. George M. Mackay who is leading the hunt: "The old lady is still in a state of shock.

"When seen Thursday she talked about "man" and then about "men." We think now there were possibly two men on this job."

A tape-recording was made of the conversation.

Mrs. Knight, wife of wealthy hardware store owner Jocelyn Knight, 85, is still in hospital following her 20-hour ordeal when she was buried beneath a pile of timber and junk in a tiny potting shed.

Her condition is satisfactory.

IDEA FROM TV

Police believe the kidnappers may have got the idea from watching television.

Said Insp. Mackay: "The attempt follows the pattern of some television scripts."

The kidnappers must have followed the movements of Mrs. Knight and her husband closely to time the attempt when Mrs. Knight was alone in the house.

They tied up the semi-invalid and hid her in the shed about 100 yards from the house.

$4,000 RANSOM

Later the same afternoon they phoned Mr. Knight at home and demanded $4,000 ransom.

Police believe the men were probably young and amateurish since they did not say where or when the money was to be delivered.

Gun-Toting Clowns Pay Fines of $5

Six clowns who took part in the Victoria Day Parade May 24 each were fined $5 today for unlawfully discharging a firearm in the city.

The men, who took part in a float showing bootleggers being chased by policemen, all pleaded guilty to the charge.

They are Roy Robertson, 931 Wollaston, Ronald Noel, 484 Sturdie, Walter Shumanski, 823 Wollaston, Forrest McLeod, 3498 Aloha, John W. Carr, 2812 Inlet, and Leslie Coulter, 472 Fraser.

THREE HURT

Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett said three persons were injured when wadding from blank shells struck them on the back and arms.

The blanks were fired from shotguns by the men as part of their skit on the bootlegging chase.

Ray Bryant, lawyer for the six men, said instructions were given before the parade that all guns should be fired up in the air.

He said the incidents occurred because the factory blanks were defective.

Magistrate William Ostler said the six accused were "public-spirited citizens" taking part in the parade and had no intent of breaking the law. He imposed what he termed the "minimal fine" for the offence.

Clack, Young Clash Angrily Over Special City Projects

Manager Given Confidence Vote

By AB KENT
City Hall Reporter

Resignation of Victoria special projects consultant Roderick Clack was accepted today at a special meeting of city council.

The meeting flared into open accusations between the architect and city manager Dennis Young.

Aldermen passed unanimously a motion of confidence in Mr. Young, although one of them—Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of planning and zoning committee—voted against the resignation.

Charges, countercharges and denials were fired across the table as Mayor R. B. Wilson and seven aldermen sat as committee of the whole to consider the resignation and upheaval inside city hall resulting from it.

The two members of Mr. Clack's special projects staff also resigned, but this was not dealth with. Nor was a letter from acting planner Tony de Jong, which is alleged to be critical of civic administration and may be considered later.

CONTINUING

Council was scheduled to resume its sitting this afternoon.

Mr. Clack was called into the meeting after council opened discussion. He was asked by Ald. Mooney why he resigned.

"Internal conditions were responsible for my making the decision to leave, but at the same time I was extremely sorry to do it," Mr. Clack said.

"I felt my usefulness would be handicapped," referring to conflict with the city manager.

Mr. Young came back to declare: "Mr. Clack has made a series of statements directed at my handling of municipal affairs and personal integrity.

"I wish to state that none of what he states can be substantiated . . .

'POPPYCOCK'

"I feel he must have a persecution complex if he feels he has been singled out . . . It seems like pure poppycock.

"If he can bring forward positive statements, we can deal with them.

"I think it is most reprehensible on his part to give the impression that he has been singled out . . . He's just been talking."

The manager asked whether Mr. Clack would refer to the "innuendos" so the committee could get at his meaning.

Mr. Clack said he did not intend to make innuendos, but he pointed to disagreement over McPherson Playhouse scene loft and Bastion Square urban renewal projects as specific items.

'UNTRUE'

The mayor asked which Bastion Square matter.

"The statement that the project was deliberately delayed because I wanted to do it after I return from Ottawa (where he goes on six months' loan to the federal government). This is untrue," Mr. Clack said.

"This caused us a great deal of embarrassment because we almost felt we had to send two men to Ottawa to clear it up," the mayor said.

Mr. Clack referred to a 22-item report to the city manager, made after he returned from Ottawa on a visit, when he consulted with Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

In the report he said the delay was due to an improperly made application for urban renewal assistance which was made out by the city engineer. This did not include the broad concept required, Mr. Clack said, and more information was requested.

"WRONGLY DIRECTED"

"Undue blame has been wrongly directed towards me," the architect said.

Mr. Young said the report was "not a completely factual statement of events."

He said it also indicates some conspiracy under way to prevent Mr. Clack from having anything to do with Bastion Square.

"The suggestion he was excluded from it is incorrect. He was told to work with the city engineer and with others in a consultative capacity," the manager said.

(Mr. Clack was given his present post partly as a result of a conflict between him and the engineer 18 months ago, when he had been in the engineer's department.)

Mr. Young said it also was wrong for Mr. Clack to suggest that the manager authorized him to see the authorities in Ottawa.

'INTENTIONAL'

Mr. Clack said this seemed to be an "intentional misrepresentation."

"That's going pretty far," Mayor Wilson interjected.

Ald. Mooney said he was still not clear on some statements made by Mr. Clack. He referred to one in which Mr. Young was quoted as saying:

"'City hall is not big enough for you and I, and I expect to stay.' This is a direct quote from Mr. Young and comments of this nature are not conducive to the best work for the city," Mr. Clack said.

Ald. Mooney asked the manager to elaborate. Mr. Young asked Mr. Clack whether he had a written statement.

"Of course you wouldn't write it," Mr. Clack said.

'SHOCKING'

"You can't substantiate that any more than you can substantiate the other statements you have made . . . Mr. Mayor, these things are shocking . . .

"You are making these statements up," the city manager flung at Mr. Clack.

"I'm not making them up," the architect returned.

"You are," Mr. Young said.

"Such statements in the heat of argument should not be made without something to back them up," said Ald. Clyde Savage.

Mr. Young was then accused by Mr. Clack of ignoring matters he was trying to get a decision on.

"I don't ignore things," the manager spluttered. "The fact you don't have a written reply does not indicate that I ignore things. This is ridiculous."

Ald. Edgelow asked if Mr. Clack was against the city manager system.

"No, I think it is an excellent system . . ."

The mayor asked if he had always carried out the city manager's instructions.

"To the best of my ability," Mr. Clack said.

Crickey! It's Another Language

ARLA RENDLE.
. . . biggest challenge

Learning to understand the Cockney accent was a big challenge to Mrs. Ian Rendle of Colquitz Junior High School during a year's teaching at Loughton, Essex, England.

"It was like learning another language," she said. "It took me about four weeks to figure out what my students were saying. They seemed to have a separate set of slang terms for almost everything."

Mrs. Rendle, formerly Arla Smalley, taught at Alderton Hall elementary school, Loughton, and her students were boys and girls of nine to 10.

"I found they were far ahead of Canadian children at reading, but way behind them in science and mathematics. English teachers are much less supervised than we are, and the curriculum varies considerably according to individual choice.

"Most teachers encourage children to read the classics and to write stories and essays."

Were they better behaved than Victoria children?

"No," laughed Mrs. Rendle. "Kids are kids everywhere and my English charges were loaded with mischief."

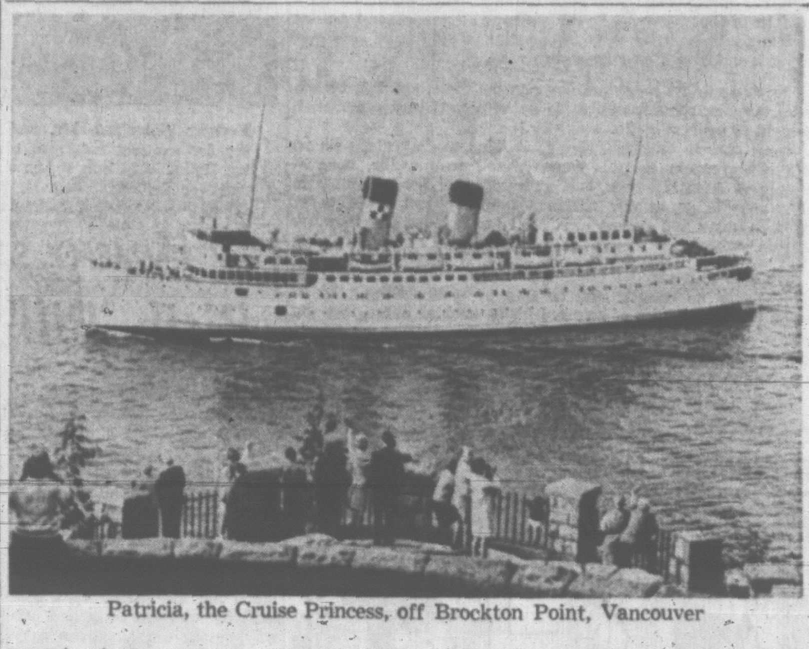
While Mrs. Rendle was in England, Miss Mary Flood-Page of Alderton Hall taught on exchange at Oakland Junior High.



Patricia, the Cruise Princess, off Brockton Point, Vancouver

VMD to Renovate Patricia For Mexican Luxury Cruise

A refit contract estimated at $340,000 for the CPR liner Princess Patricia has been awarded to Victoria Machinery Depot.

The work, which entails installation of a swimming pool, water evaporators and air conditioning units, will prepare her for a luxury cruise service, beginning in December.

The Patricia has been leased by the CPR to Princess Cruises Inc., which will ply her to four Mexican ports out of Los Angeles.

The cruises, due to begin in early December and run through April, will call at Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta, Manzanillo and Acapulco.

The 6,000-ton "pocket liner" will be entering perhaps the busiest time of her career.

For during the summer months she will continue on her Vancouver-Alaska runs, inaugurated in the summer of 1963.

Terms of the lease to the American operators, headed by Seattle businessman Stanley B. McDonald, were not disclosed by CPR.

Transmarine Navigation Corp., Los Angeles, will act as general agents in California and Transportacion Maritime Mexicana will serve her in Mexican ports.

During the two-week cruises out of Los Angeles, passengers will be able to undertake day-long shore tours at three Mexican ports.

At Acapulco they will spend two and a half days.

START AT $429

Return rates for the 14-day Mexican cruises will start at $429. Passengers will be permitted to lay over in Mexico and return later.

No autos or freight will be carried.

This will be the second major refit for the Patricia in three years.

Before her Alaska cruise career a $1 million job at Yarrows Ltd. added 100 cabins, an elevator, solarium and restaurant refinements.

The Patricia is expected to undergo refit in late September when her current season of Alaska cruises is completed. The job will take two months.

For her Mexican cruises the little liner will carry a top dance band, plus cruise director and staff.

Her crew will be the same personnel who operate her out of Vancouver.

WELL-KNOWN HERE

The trim, white-hulled vessel is no stranger to Victoria waterfront watchers.

She has wintered here several times at the CPR Belleville St. docks with other Princess ships Elaine, Marguerite and Louise.

The turbo-electric vessel, capable of 23 knots, arrived here from her builders in Scotland, June 10, 1949, and was put to work on the CPR's Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle triangle route.

POLICE MUM

U.S. Tourists Leave Town After Threats

City police today refused to give details of a complaint by two American tourists that they cut short their stay in Victoria because they were bothered by youthful hoodlums.

Deputy Chief Harry Mercer told a reporter who inquired about the incident, "I'm annoyed at your questions.

"What are you trying to do? Frighten away the tourists?

The complaint was made in a letter to city police from Mrs. A. C. Kirkman, 9910 S.W. Pembrook, Tigard, Oregon.

TEEN-AGERS

The Times learned that Mrs. Kirkman and her husband, an elderly grey-haired couple, were insulted and threatened by two husky teen-agers while walking near the Legislative Buildings on the evening of June 30.

Mrs. Kirkman said the youths called them "filthy names" and threatened to hit them. Some pedestrians came along and she and her husband quickly left the scene.

LEFT EARLY

But they were frightened by the incident and left the city next morning ahead of schedule because of it.

Mrs. Kirkman complained to police about the matter because a recurrence of such incidents would harm tourism in this area and she thought police should be informed.

Deputy Chief Mercer refused to allow a reporter to see the letter. He said, "A letter to the Chief Constable is none of your business."

Ask The Times

Q. How long have people been drinking tea? Is it harmful? P.L.

A. Chinese first began drinking tea around 500 AD, says the World Book Encyclopedia.

It is not harmful to adults,* but contains caffeine and tannin.

Caffeine is a stimulant which increases the blood pressure and may have a harmful effect on the nervous system if large quantities are taken.

Tannin is mildly poisonous, but will not dissolve in water unless boiled for a long time.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Former Bapco Accountant Dies Suddenly

Frank James Boughton, 78, died suddenly at his Camrose Crescent home this morning.

Born in England, Mr. Boughton was a resident of Victoria for the past 40 years.

He was chief accountant for Bapco Paints of Victoria for 32 years until his retirement 10 years ago.

Past master of Camosun Lodge No. 60, AF and AM, GRBC, he also served as a former principal of the Camosun Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

He is survived by the widow, Margot (Mollie) Boughton, one daughter, Mrs. R. B. Anderson, of Victoria, and two grandchildren, Murray and Janice Anderson.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. in St. John's Church, Quadra Street, Canon George Biddle officiating. The service will be followed by cremation, McCall Bros. in charge.

Early Returns Favor Sports Complex

First returns on the Times' ballot for popular preference in a 1967 Greater Victoria confederation centennial project point toward a stadium-auditorium sports complex.

Out of 59 unspoiled ballots returned to the Times since Wednesday, 25 carry votes for the sports complex, 19 are for an outdoor saltwater pool at Cadboro Bay beach, eight are for a planetarium and seven favor an English pier type of glass-domed pavilion at Clover Point.

The Times is helping centennial officials gauge public opinion on the four suggestions before a final recommendation for a joint area project is made at the end of July.

Greater Victoria centennial projects subcommittee narrowed the choice from 46 ideas.

WHICH ONE?

Here is your chance to express your view on a centennial project for Greater Victoria.

The centennial committee has narrowed down to four the number of projects still in the running.

To assist the committee in finding out the preference of the public The Times will run the following ballot daily until the end of the month when final decision will be made.

All you do is mark a cross against your choice and mail to "Times Centennial Project Ballot," 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria.

These are the four projects:

1. Planetarium ☐
2. Stadium complex with provision for immediate or future construction of indoor sports facilities ☐
3. Glass-domed pavilion at Clover Point ☐
4. Outdoor saltwater pool at Cadboro Bay ☐

SHOPPING GUIDE

Snacks This Summer Require No Effort

By Penny Saver

Whew! Some days this week have been really scorchers, haven't they? There have been some windy ones, too! This kind of weather makes me want to curl up on a nice cosy lawn chair and forget about shopping, housework, cleaning and cooking, and just relax for several days. However, that is not possible.

When I was shopping the other day, I discovered something which I think would be wonderful while travelling—camping especially.

It is a small package containing 12 little tablets of soup! These are vegetable broth-flavored, and contain all the natural vitamins and minerals contained in the vegetables themselves.

Selling for 48 cents, the soup tablets travel anywhere—in a picnic hamper or even in your purse. To make, add boiling water and serve. They are a wonderful pick-up on a cool evening or a quick and easy entree to a meal.

For those warm lazy afternoons on the patio, spent just soaking up the sun, refresh with these new fruit drinks I discovered, selling at 95 cents a bottle.

These contain only the pure fruit juice concentrate, with no artificial sweetness added. When diluted with water, none of the natural fruit flavor is lost. These juices are available in exotic papaya or in our native loganberry and boysenberry flavors. Chilled and served with plenty of crushed ice, they are delicious.

I've also discovered another treat for a warm summer day. This requires no cooking and no fuss to make. Selling for 90 cents a pound are bags of honeyed fruits, such as dates, figs and apricots. These, too, contain no artificial sweetners or flavoring, but are a tangy snack which is good for you as well as being good tasting.

Don't forget—if you want to know where to shop, give Penny a call at 382-3131.

VOWS AT BELMONT PARK

Grandmother's Gift Worn By Bride Heather McLean

An heirloom pearl brooch, gift of the bride's grandmother Mrs. William Witham of Schaunavon, Sask., was the only jewelry worn by Heather Donalda Mary McLean when she became the bride of Dennis Robert Beckley.

Baskets of roses and orange blossoms were at the altar of Our Lady Star of the Sea Church in Belmont Park when Father G. Irving officiated at the evening ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon J. McLean, 1235 Styles Street, and Mrs. William A. Beckley, 137 Michigan Street, and the late Mr. Beckley.

Organist was Mrs. P. Moran.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie sheath gown styled en train with lace flowers appliqued on the skirt. Her four-tier veil was held in place by a white rose headpiece, and she carried a cascade of red roses.

BLUE AND PINK

Floor-length gowns of blue taffeta were the choice of matron of honor, Mrs. L. Hagel, and bridesmaids, the Misses Sandra Martin and Sandra Evans. Matching gowns of pink taffeta were worn by junior bridesmaid Miss Marg McLean and little flower girl Ginny-Lou Sundberg.

Best man was Douglas Beckley, and ushers were Harvey Johnstone, Leo Hagel, Cecil Beckley and Daniel McLean.

At the reception at the Boilermakers' Hall, pink roses and white Shasta daisies surrounded the three-tier cake made by the bride's mother. Ernest S. Cassels proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon in the United States, the bride wore a blue two-piece suit with matching picture hat and white gardenia en corsage.

The couple will make their new home at 867 Kindersley Road.

Special Guest From New Jersey

Special guest at the final meeting of the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria was Miss Florence Rockwell, a Soroptimist club member from Princeton, N.J.

Held at the Londonderry Road home of Mrs. J. Ward-Moran, the meeting included reports by executive officers Miss Lillias Milne, records; Miss Louise Bartlett, correspondence and projects; Miss Muriel Vincent, finances; Mrs. M. Dockrill, membership, and Miss Florence Daniels, president.

Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in the fall under the convenership of Mrs. M. Storrar. The club has also decided to award a $100 scholarship.

Assisting Mrs. Ward-Moran with refreshments during the social hour which followed the business meeting was Mrs. R. Whittingham.

QUEBEC CLAM CHOWDER

One can (10 ounces) clams, ¼ cup diced salt pork or bacon, ½ cup diced potatoes, 1 cup chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon thyme, 1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt.

Hot skim milk may be added at the table.

Drain clams and reserve liquor. Fry salt pork and brown scraps but do not remove from the pan. (This will take about 20 minutes.) Add diced potatoes and onion. Add thyme. Cover and cook over low heat for about 25 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add tomatoes and clam liquor. Cover and simmer gently for 20 to 30 minutes to blend flavors. Just before serving, add clams and bring to simmering temperature. Each guest adds hot milk as desired.

Makes six 6-ounce servings—approximately 140 calories per serving. With 2 ounces skim milk — approximately 160 calories per serving.

GOVERNMENT STUDY PLANNED

Birth 'Pill' May Be Hazardous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government is planning its first close look at a question of women:

Is there any long-term hazard, such as the possibility of cancer, in the prolonged use of oral birth control pills?

And Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institute of Health, who disclosed plans for the study, says that until the question is settled one way or the other, women may be taking a chance by using the pills.

But Shannon is not recommending that use of the pills be curbed in the meantime.

And medical experts of the Food and Drug Administration say this:

During the four years since the pill first went on the market, nothing has happened — in the nature of proven, serious adverse physical reactions to warrant taking any of these drugs off the market.

Up to now virtually all clinical research into effects of the pill has been done by private doctors with the support of drug companies that developed the contraceptive or of voluntary agencies that are concerned with family limitation. But some some top-flight researchers and hospitals have been involved in the explorations.

Meanwhile, at least 6,000,000 women throughout the world, nearly 4,000,000 of them in the United States are estimated to be using the drugs.

PREVENT OVULATION

The pills work by preventing ovulation—the release of eggs from the ovaries—without which there can be no conception. They do this by setting up a kind of make-believe pregnancy.

Here are some highlights of experience to date:

1. Eight different preparations—all working on the same principle—have now been approved by the FDA for marketing.

2. The drugs are rated as virtually 100 per cent effective in preventing conception.

3. Various studies indicate clearly that if a woman pill-taker decides she wants to have a child — and stops taking the pills — she can become pregnant and have children. All such reported births have apparently been normal. There is evidence that fertility is increased for women discontinuing the pills.

4. The pill is big business. Since the first preparation was approved for prescription in 1960, U.S. sales of oral contraceptives have increased by better than 50 per cent each year to an estimated $40,000,000 level in 1964. During 1964, an estimated 100,000 American women joined the parade of pill-takers each month.

5. All the companies grant that a certain percentage of pill-taking women (up to 25 per cent according to most of the firms) experience some adverse side-effects. The studies say these are not serious effects, and usually become lessened after a few months.

6. From time to time, concern has been expressed by some doctors that the drugs might cause much more serious short-term effects — such as cerebral strokes and thrombophlebitis—blood-clotting in the veins of the legs—which can sometimes result in a fatal embolism in the brain or lungs.

NO PROOF

But the Food and Drug Administration, among others, say there is as yet no evidence to support such fears, although the agency grants that neither is there definite proof to the contrary.

Controversy over the pill has also flared in Britain where the Family Planning Association has announced plans to examine the records of 40,000 British women taking the oral contraceptive to see if it can throw any new light on the thrombophlebitis question. All physicians in Britain have been urged to report cases of strokes occurring among women taking the pills.

WHY GROW OLD?

Health and Nutrition Factors Influencing Condition of Hair

Q. What makes dull hair shine besides a rinse? Are there any remedies for this problem?

A. Good health, fine nutrition and scalp massage all have their influence. However, a lemon or vinegar rinse will add some highlights because they remove every bit of any remaining soap.

Lowman

Q. I am 5 feet 9 and weigh 134 pounds. My measurements are: bust 36½ inches, waist 26½ inches and hips 36 inches. When I sit down I feel as though my midriff laps over my waistline. What is my ideal weight? I have had three children and weigh three pounds more than I did before.

A. Congratulations! You are just the right weight if you have a very small frame. Otherwise you would be underweight. Your measurements are in perfect ratio. Maybe you have a slight accumulation of fat on the diaphragm or maybe the problem is posture. When you sit do you slump forward, with your bust practically resting on your ribs? When sitting or standing, make the distance as great as possible between your waistline and your bust.

Q. It is only mid-summer and my hair is already getting like straw. What can I do to keep it from getting worse and improve the way it is now?

A. Give yourself a hot oil treatment once a week. Driving in the sun and wind, swimming in salt water and that which has been chlorinated make the hair like yours is. Part your hair all over your head, one part at a time and rub warm olive oil or baby oil along the part. Baby oil has the advantage that it is lighter. Then wrap a hot wet towel around your head. When it cools heat it and wrap it about your head again.

Also wear hats and scarfs whenever you can. Use one of the products planned especially for dry ends.

Q. I am 12 years old and have a very small bust. Should I take bust improvement exercises or wait a while longer? It embarrasses me because all the other girls in my grade are larger than I am.

A. Wait quite a while longer. Many girls your age have no bust at all. Girls develop at different ages so don't let it worry you. Give nature time.

Q. My fingernails peel. What could cause it?

A. Try leaving off polish for a while or use one of the polishes planned for those who are allergic to the usual brands.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She's Too Uninhibited!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem and I don't know exactly how to cope with it. It concerns our 11-year-old daughter. She's a very affectionate girl, and quite developed for her age. She is infatuated with a man who happens to be a very good friend of ours. He and his wife are at our home often. At first it was cute to see her run to him, throw her arms around his neck, and kiss him fiercely. We teased her about her "dream man," and he played along with the game. But it's no longer funny. If she's not sitting on his lap, she's very close to him. She holds his hand and kisses him lingeringly on the lips. I notice he's very uncomfortable lately when she's around. My husband says we should ignore it as this is a stage all girls go through while growing up. I never had this problem while I was growing up. Is my husband right? Or should something be done? And, if so, how is this done without inhibiting our daughter's natural affectionate nature?

CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED: Every normal adolescent girl has a "dream man." And there's no harm in it. But your daughter would be far better off drooling over a picture of Gregory Peck than sitting on your friend's lap. Tell your daughter that she's a young lady now and she must not be so aggressive. To ignore it would indicate approval on your part. And, furthermore, it's the responsibility of parents to see that guests in their home are not subjected to embarrassing situations.

DEAR ABBY: Eldon and I have been married for over a year and it's like pulling teeth to get him to visit my parents with me. When he does go, he just sits there like a bump on a log and doesn't say a word to them. When we get home I tell him if he doesn't talk to my folks they are going to think he is stuck up, or mad at them. He says my father doesn't know anything about sports and my mother doesn't shut up long enough for anyone to get a word in. I think he could be more friendly for my sake. How can I get him to be more sociable with my folks? Or is it just a losing battle?

ELDON'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Leave him alone. Perhaps he still feels a little uncomfortable in their presence. Be glad he goes with you, even if he's no jamboree.

DEAR ABBY: The switchboard operator-receptionist girl here seems to be using her job to make "contacts." If a salesman comes in, she gets palsy-walsy with him and before you know it she's got a lunch date or dinner date with him. She's considered an eyeful, if you like the type who overdresses and uses a lot of makeup. She claims she always asks if a man is married before she accepts a date with him, as married men are off her list. (Big deal! She only picks up unmarried strangers.) She's a divorcee and supports two small children so we hate to report her to the office manager because it might cost her her job. What do you suggest?

THE GIRLS.

DEAR GIRLS: An "eyeful" who must support two children also has a "headful" to land a job where she can meet men. From here it appears that the girl is only trying to meet men with honorable intentions. I suggest that you girls pull in your claws.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE THREE MUSKETEERS: Every time you sling a little mud, you lose a little ground.

DAY NURSERIES NEEDED?

Women Speak Up On Question

Thursday, in the first of two series on the need for community organized day nurseries in Victoria, the men's opinions dominated. Today, in the final article, kindergarten teachers and several prominent club women have their say on the question.

By JUDY CREIGHTON

Whether we like it or not, the feminine mystique is having its effect even in staid old Victoria.

Mothers of young children (under three years) are returning to work, leaving their offspring in the hands of babysitters whether the latter be capable or not.

Therefore, the question of setting up centralized day nurseries in the city to care for these children is getting hotter all the time.

High on the list "for" day nursery schools are several local kindergarten teachers. Says Mrs. J. Pettersen, proprietor of a well-known all-day operated kindergarten, "We need such a day nursery in this city. We are constantly swamped with calls from working mothers with babies as young as six weeks, begging us to care for them during the day."

HAVE TO WORK

Mrs. Pettersen explains that in many cases, mothers of such young children are having financial difficulties, husbands are unemployed or have some other dire reasons for working.

But, there are many, many women who are returning to professions they held before marriage as a means of stimulating their minds and also whether they need it or not, increasing the family budget.

As kindergartens can take only children from three years and up, this means that the younger children must be "farmed out" to a baby sitter or, if the mother is lucky, left at home with a sitter. The latter is difficult to obtain and expensive. Even if the mother is making an average wage, at least half her monthly income goes to paying household help.

MENTAL NEEDS

"Let's face facts," says Mrs. Pettersen, "somebody has to care for these children—not just to fulfill their physical needs as a baby sitter might, but to give them a sound mental program to follow."

Mrs. Pettersen's idea to beat the problem is to have a properly run nursery with facilities to look after infants, and toddlers up to three years old. "There should be qualified nurses, teachers and a sound program for the little ones to follow in the nursery. This is essential for the well-being of each individual child."

As an expert on handling children of working mothers all day, every day, Mrs. Pettersen does not agree with the opinion of many that the child suffers from being separated from its mother.

CONCENTRATE ON CHILD

"On the contrary," she says, "a busy mother at home in many instances cannot give her child or children all the time she would like to, whereas a well trained staff in a nursery is concentrating all their efforts on both the mental and physical needs of a youngster."

Another kindergarten owner and teacher, Mrs. William Phillips adds this opinion to the controversy. "People who say that mother should stay home 'for the sake of her children' are merely sticking their heads in the sand. We are living in an age where women qualify in many of their male counterparts' professions and it isn't a question of them filling the labor force unnecessarily, but that in many cases they are needed."

She adds, "I have seen children in my school who are a lot better off with their mothers working."

ANOTHER IDEA

Mrs. Phillips is very keen on the setting up of a day nursery for infants. "But let us not stop there," she suggests, "in too many instances, school-age children are returning to empty homes because of mother working. Why not have these children return to the day nursery where supervision would be available until mothers can pick them up?"

Many people are aware that a day nursery or nurseries must come, and in several instances are working towards such a goal.

One of these enthusiastic people is Mrs. B. C. Hale, teacher of occupational students at Central Junior Secondary School. Mrs. Hale has pioneered an astounding program for students who find the academic program in secondary school difficult.

"We are training the girls from 14 to 17 years of age in a three-year course which besides hospital, department store and other phases of work-teaching includes child care," explains Mrs. Hale.

GIRLS TRAINED

"In the past year many of our students have been instructed in junior child care courses, home nursing, first aid and general baby sitting."

It is her hope that with this experience which also includes field trips to local kindergartens where they spend half days observing and assisting teachers with children, these students will find placements either in private homes or as assistants to trained personnel in central day nurseries.

Is it working? Mrs. Hale is most enthusiastic. "These students are showing us that they are extremely capable and that their care of children is outstanding. I feel that the establishment of day nurseries will do more than fill the needs of the mother and child — it will also give these well-trained young women the opportunity to find jobs."

GOVERNMENT GRANT?

Another enthusiast of the day nursery idea is well-known Victoria playgroup and pre-school pioneer Mrs. W. W. McGill. "However," she says, "I feel cautious about such a scheme so far as government subsidy is concerned. Somehow it will have to be really sold and I feel it will take quite a while to do this!"

More optimistic is Mrs. Bert Noel, president of the Local Council of Women. "To me the government should contribute to such a venture. Education-wise the schools will benefit later on by having properly trained children who are used to a regulated scheme as can be found in a day nursery."

GIVE MUCH

Mrs. Noel also feels that professional working women, whether mothers or not, give a valuable contribution to the community.

President of the University Women's Club, Mrs. R. A. Fraser, who herself works as a high school teacher, is very much in favor of a day nursery. "I know of many young university graduates who feel stifled by the day-to-day routine of housework and have behind them the education to bring to a profession—yet because of lack of trained people to care for their children must forego working until their children are older. It's a real shame."

Partington-Lanceley Vows In St. Aidan's United

Yellow chrysanthemums, carnations, white stocks and Esther Reed daisies decorated St. Aidan's United Church recently when Janet Lorraine Lanceley exchanged marriage vows with William Robert Partington.

Rev. A. McLeod officiated at the evening ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. Roy Lanceley and Mrs. Audrey Lanceley, both of Victoria, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Partington of Winnipeg, Man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white peau de soie gown, with a short train falling from a bow at the back. The dress was styled with three-quarter-length sleeves and a neckline scooped in front extending to a V at the back. Her three-tier, bouffant veil misted from a coronet of flowers, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Her only attendant, matron of honor Mrs. B. Wing, chose a sleeveless two-piece dress of turquoise crepe, with chiffon ruffles edging the neckline.

A white flowered whimsie completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Best man was Brian Wing, and ushers were Glenn Rozon and Murray Lanceley.

Donald Wilson, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast at the reception at Holyrood House, where roses decorated the bridal table.

Leaving for a honeymoon in Winnipeg, the bride wore a turquoise wool dress with ruffles edging the sleeves and neckline. With it she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

On their return, the couple will make their new home at 920 Alexander Road.

Family Picnic Sunday

A gay family picnic will be held at Sidney Spit this Sunday, when power boat members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club gather for a barbecue lunch at the popular site. A program of games is planned for the event. Transportation for members without boats will leave from Tsehum Haven from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Return to City

Of interest in Victoria is the return of Dr. and Mrs. David Parfitt with their children Brent, Ron and Susan. The family have spent the past year in Toronto where Dr. Parfitt completed his post-graduate studies at the University of Toronto and received his degree in dental public health. The Parfitt's home is at 2161 Cubbon Drive. Commencing Sept. 1, Dr. Parfitt will become the director of dental services for the Greater Victoria School Board.

Luncheon Party

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong entertained at a luncheon on Thursday at the Victoria Golf Club for Vancouver visitors, Mrs. S. E. Ashley and her daughter, Miss Ruth Ashley. The guests were in the city with Mr. Ashley for a two-day visit. He is the regional general manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

To Vancouver

Miss Frances Quincey will travel to Vancouver this evening. After spending the weekend visiting friends in the mainland city, Miss Quincey will return to her home on Fort Street.

From Montreal

On a five-day visit to Victoria are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Nichols of Montreal who have stopped in several major cities across Canada since leaving Montreal by train June 26. Mr. Nichols is vice-president and general manager of the Montreal Life Insurance Company. Presently staying at the Empress Hotel, they will return east early next week by train.

Hear Vows

In Victoria for the recent Partington-Lanceley wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson of Cloverdale; Mr. and Mrs. T. Partington of Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. A. Fawcett of White Rock and Mr. and Mrs. B. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. D. Carruthers, of New Westminster.

At Anniversary

Mrs. E. A. Bosward returned to her home on Pemberton Road after attending the 75th anniversary of the Hamilton Civic Hospital School of Nursing, Hamilton, Ont. While in Eastern Canada, Mrs. Bosward also visited friends in London, Collingwood and Montreal.

Vacation

Miss Mona Jewell is leaving Victoria this weekend for month-long vacation. She will travel to Texas to attend the 29th convention of Altrusa International. Following the convention, Miss Jewell will spend several days in Chicago and then travel to Ottawa to visit her sister, Mrs. D. Cobus.

Couple Feted Prior To Marriage Saturday

Bride-elect Miss Eleanor Swetnam and her fiance, Delbert Kirkpatrick, have been honored at several parties prior to their marriage Saturday evening.

The groom-elect's mother, Mrs. A. Kirkpatrick, entertained at a buffet supper in her Transit Road home prior to the wedding rehearsal.

Guests included Canon and Mrs. T. W. Scott, Mrs. H. Swetnam, Mr. Sam Swetnam, Mrs. J. Swetnam, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ivatts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. P. Robin, Denis Kirkpatrick, Doug Adderley and the Misses Val Gay and Linda Erickson.

A replica of Victoria's illuminated water tower held gifts when Mr. and Mrs. Jon Parker entertained at a shower and buffet supper in their Florence Lake home.

Invited were Mrs. Swetnam and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, mothers of the bride-elect and groom-elect, respectively; Mr. and Mrs. Robin, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. W. Mobey, Mr. and Mrs. Ivatts, Rev. Robert Warren, Denis Kirkpatrick, Gary McGregor, Roy Scott, Ken Fairbrother, Ted Risebrow, Glen Jagon, Simon Scott, Doug Adderley, Colin Bowen, Bill Byles, the Misses Helen Small, Sharron McDougall, Val Gay, Gertrude Bogard, Judy McGregor, Karen Smith, Charlene McDougall and Gall Byers.

Mrs. W. D. Townsend, the bride's sister, entertained at a trousseau tea in her Verrinder Avenue home.

Pink carnations en corsage were presented to the bride-elect. Arrangements of pink carnations and white candles centred the refreshment table. Guests were Mrs. Swetnam, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. S. Swetnam, Mrs. A. Reynolds, Mrs. J. Dunsmore, Mrs. D. Ferguson, Mrs. G. Gandy, Mrs. Ivatts, Mrs. Mobey, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. J. Irving, Mrs. C. Hermiston, Mrs. I. MacAlpine, Mrs. F. Holman, the Misses Bev Hermiston, Marlene Irving, Eileen Holman, Pat Thompson, Gall Byers, Carol and Janet MacAlpine.

PETER, PAUL, MARY

First Names a Gold Mine

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As Yarrow, Stookey and Travers, they might have achieved success But the trio chose to bill themselves by their first names.

Peter, Paul and Mary have become so popular that they almost filled the huge, echoing Hollywood Bowl with clamorous fans last Friday night.

The same sort of thing happens everywhere they go.

Their records sell in the millions.

Their concert here afforded a close-up view of the successful triumvirate. All are in their late 20s; their conversation veers to causes, from the purity of folk music to civil rights.

Mary Travers wears her straw-colored hair long; the other two have black goatees. Paul Stookey is balding, the trio's comic; Peter Yarrow is stern minded and the spokesman.

"We all had been working separately, and Paul was the only one who was making any money," said Peter. "We were brought together by Albert Grossman, the man who has managed Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Odetta and many others. He saw something in each of us that might combine into something new.

"We wanted to create a folk group with new elements. For one thing, we wanted to introduce a feminine element, which hadn't been done since the Weavers. Mary supplied that very well.

"We wanted to use humor, but a non-destructive kind in contrast to much of today's comedy. That was Paul. Then I was the serious young man who projected an air of great concern for what was happening to the world."

They rehearsed in New York for seven months, melding their talents into a smooth-functioning team before accepting their first play-date four years ago. When they finally appeared before auiences, they possessed a confidence that was startling.

Their first date was at a New York folk house called The Bitter End. Audiences knew they were listening to something unique and exciting, even if show business moguls didn't.

"RCA-Victor didn't feel we were ready to record," Peter said. "Columbia Records would have signed us if we changed our materials. The Bell Telephone Hour (on Television) would have taken us if we had shaved our beards. In each case, we declined."

Warner Brothers Records accepted the singers and with their original material. In three months, Peter, Paul and Mary had the best-selling album in the U.S.

Popular 'Islanders' Here Next Thursday

Does Charlie Chamberlain sing without teeth?

Can chubby Don Messer smile?

Or how about loveable Marg Osborne. What is her recipe for topping the polls as one of the most popular female vocalist in Canada.

You don't know?

Well, you can get the answer next Thursday when Don Messer's Jubilee show plays at the Memorial Arena.

This year Don is bringing the largest cast he has ever toured with during his more than 30 years playing for CBC radio and television.

The cast of 21 will also include the Buchta Dancers, Catherine McKinnon and Vic Mullen, the latter two recent additions to The Islanders.

The Victoria show will mark the end of a western tour which started in Fort William, Ont.

Both Well In Kidney Transplant

NEW ORLEANS (CP)—Little Jonnie Gail Honeycutt passed the day of crisis Thursday with no sign her body was attempting to reject a kidney transplanted from her father.

Rejection often occurs a week after such surgery. Members of Tulane medical school's transplant team, which performed the operation July 1, were reported unofficially to be pleased with the progress made by the 13-year-old Anniston, Ala., girl.

One medical authority said at least 40 days will have to elapse, however, before it could be felt that the girl was safe as far as rejection is concerned.

John H. Honeycutt, 48, who donated one of his kidneys in an attempt to save his daughter's life, was unofficially reported out of danger.

Hospital authorities were not certain when he would be released, but they believed it would be soon.

WHY? ASKS PRAVDA

Good Guy Downtrodden

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda sharply denounces a new Soviet play today for preaching Christian love and forgiveness toward wartime collaborators with the Nazis.

The new play, Where Is Thy Brother, Abel? by Yuri Edlis, was published in the latest issue of the journal Teatre (Theatre). It is a dialogue between two former Red Army political commisars taken prisoner in the Second World War and a Russian who served in the Nazi army.

The two men meet many years after the war on a resort beach. The traitor is prosperous, gay, blue - eyed and healthy, with a wife and three sons. The commissar "carries heart medicine with him, is solitary and more contemplative than the Danish prince (Hamlet)," the Communist party newspaper says.

Pravda complains because the commissar, called "I" in the play, does not expose the traitor, "He," to the authorities.

Pravda notes that the Old Testament demand of "an eye for an eye, and tooth for a tooth" had been superseded by the Christian moral "forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do."

Edlis' play was to have been staged this season at Moscow's Sovremennik (Contemporary) Theatre.

The author cancelled his agreement with Sovremennik after the theatre did not produce his play.

THE SANDPIPER
Restricted Entertainment
Odeon Theatre

Slow in its development and inclined to be turgid in places, this is nevertheless a thoughtful film which holds interest most of the time.

Richard Burton in the role of a bewildered Episcopalian clergyman gives a performance reminiscent, but not as powerful as his earlier portrayal of Archbishop Thomas Becket.

Photogenic as ever, Elizabeth Taylor is almost life-like as the clergyman's mistress and manages to dominate the screen most of the time. Eva Marie Saint is appealingly sincere as the clergyman's hard-tried spouse.

Panoramic color photography on the grand scale compensate for the rather slow tempo and a tendency to over-emphasize the obvious.

The story, conceived by producer Martin Ransohoff and directed by Vincente Minnelli, presents Elizabeth Taylor as a rebellious bohemian—as free in spirit as the Monterey sandpipers she never tires of painting.

She leads a thoroughly unconventional life, even spurning an offer of marriage from the man who fathered her son. She refuses to send the boy to school, preferring to teach him herself.

"I want him so maladjusted," says Elizabeth, "that he'll want to fight every time a baby starves to death, or a young girl turns prostitute, or an old drunk lies in the gutter."

Hre unorthodox views on life and religion are a sharp challenge to the conservative churchianity of Rev. Richard Burton; but slowly and inexorably he falls under her spell and betrays his calling.

Scorning the conventional moralities, Elizabeth accepts the affair as clean, blameless, natural and inevitable; the clergyman, driven ever deeper into falsehood and deceit, is tortured with remorse.

He prays for help but in this case the help is a long time coming and he is soon up to his clerical collar in holy hot water.

Interest is sustained by uncertainty as to how this unhappy state of affairs can be resolved. The story is as old as the Bible itself, but director Minnelli manages to give it an up-to-date twist and the finale is poignantly effective.

Beat Bubble Bursting; Sales Down

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Britain's big beat bubble—inflated to gigantic proportions by the Beatles—appears to be near the bursting point.

New Board of Trade figures show the sale of pop music records brought in £2,067,000 ($6,201,000) in April last year. In April this year it sagged to £1,543,000.

The production of 45 rpm records—backbone of the country's record market—sharply slowed down in April. The figures: April 1964 — 6,750,000; April 1965—4,814,000. The board said production of long-playing records fell to 1,857,000 in April this year from 2,093,000 last April.

Public dance halls, of which Britain has thousands, are switching from pop to traditional dance bands. A big dance hall in nearby County Kent said Saturday night attendance has dropped to 500 and lower from 1,000.

BOOM ENDED

There are other indications that the boom may be at an end. Said Francis Hitching, producer of one of the country's most popular television shows, Ready-Steady-Go:

"There certainly is a lack of interest in the new disc releases—that is, except from the country's top half-dozen performers. Because of this we are increasing the number of familiar songs and this does not mean Hit Parade songs. People don't say indoors and watch pop programs as they did a year ago."

The British Broadcasting Corp., said it is bringing in a 20-piece band with strings beginning next Monday to play on its pop show, Gadzooks.

RETIRING from acting to devote himself to business is William Holden, one of world's richest film stars. He has appeared in 50 films in 27 years. "I hate all the hysteria of the film world," he stated, in London.

Canadiana Worth $5,000

Up to $5,000 in cash is being offered to authors and associations writing Canadiana.

The Canadian Centennial Commission has announced that cash aid will be given toward books contributing to the centennial.

Certain conditions are required of an applicant:

He must be a Canadian citizen or a resident of Canada since 1962 or represent a Canadian association. The subject of the book must be Canadian, the applicant must show the need and value of his project, and be able to demonstrate his ability to carry it out.

A firm commitment from a Canadian publishing firm is advised.

Canadian Ballerina Scores U.K. Triumph

LONDON (Reuters)—A new production of Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake by London's Festival Ballet, starring Canadian ballerina Galina Samtsova and John Gilpin, was enthusiastically received at London's new Victoria Theatre Thursday night.

At the end of the performance, a packed audience applauded and cheered for nearly 10 minutes.

Russian-born Miss Samtsova now calls Toronto home. She went to Canada in 1960 after marrying a Canadian.

Another Canadian, David Adams, was the evil magician, von Rothbart. A Winnipeg native, he formerly danced with the National Ballet of Canada.

FRENCH LOOKED FISHY BUT NOT TO POLICE

EDMONTON (CP) — "Help, we've been poisoned," an Edmonton housewife told police Thursday.

The woman phoned police to say she and her daughter had eaten fish and chips from a carton marked poison.

A bilingual constable pointed out that the word was poisson, the French word for fish.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indians are serious about recently announced increases in the cost of fishing licences.

Louise Underwood said Thursday white people caught fishing on the Indian reserve without a valid permit will be taken to court.

Miss Underwood is secretary of the band council which last month raised the adult fishing licence from $2 to $6.

5 DEATHS AND FUNERALS

MOORE—Suddenly at the residence, 579 Marifield Ave., on July 9, 1965, Mr. Ralph Thompson Moore, aged 61 years, born in Edmonton, Alta., and a resident of Victoria for the past 35 years. He leaves his wife, Edith, at home; his daughter, Mrs. J. R. (Patricia) King and grandchildren, Ricky, Ronnie and Sharon, 315 Prince Robert Dr.; his sisters, Mrs. E. (Grace) Price, and Mrs. H. (Eileen) Vause; and nieces and nephews, in Calgary, Alta. Mr. Moore was associated with the C.P.R. Wharf Freight office and the E. & N. Railway for 35 years.

Arrangements will be announced later by the Sands Mortuary Limited.

WILKINSON—On July 8, 1965, Mabel (nee Ewing) Wilkinson, 3670 McIvor Ave., Victoria, B.C., widow of Lt.-Col. Arthur Henry Wilkinson, R.C.O.C. (Rtd.). She was born Sept. 14, 1885, in the County of Argyle, Manitoba. Survived by two daughters, Miss Jean Marie at the residence and Mrs. Fred R. (Doris Ann) Sorenson, Bellevue, Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Esther) Timson, Seattle; and Mrs. Josephine Zajac, Bellevue, Wash.; five grandchildren in Bellevue; nieces, nephews, great-nieces, great-nephews, great-great-nieces and nephews in Canada and the U.S.A. She was a past president of the Bellevue Women's Club, former member of Lakeside Chapter, O.E.S., Bellevue, Wash., and a member of Queen City Chapter, O.E.S., Victoria.

Services will be held in McCall Bros'. FLORAL CHAPEL, Johnson and Vancouver Sts., on Saturday, July 10 at 2:30 p.m., Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiating. Followed by cremation. (Flowers gratefully declined. Friends, if desired, may contribute to the Eastern Star Cancer Dressing Station, c/o Miss E. Brown, 15 Wellington Ave.)

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to express our heartfelt thanks for the lovely cards and kindness shown in the loss of our mother.—Ronald, Fred, Henry Behnsen.

9 IN MEMORIAM

RAYMOND—In loving memory of my dear husband, Joe; also my dear son, Phil, who passed away July 9, 1958 and Sept. 7, 1946.

The birds are singing gaily in the shadows where you sleep.
The dreaming hills around you,
Phil and Joe, a faithful watch will keep.
And there beneath the grasses with the sunshine and the flowers
Your rest calm and peaceful while my lonely heart is there.
Within my home, your presence ever lingers
Sweet as the fragrance of some gentle flowers.
My spirit knows the touch of their dear fingers
And their dear faces smile through my lonely hours.

—Lovingly remembered. Mum.

Opening lead—♦2

South is certainly interested in a slam after partner raises his opening two diamond bid but South is far more interested in finding out about trump support and the heart suit than about kings. He knows about the aces because he is looking at all four of them.

Hence South rebids to three hearts and North shows his heart fit by raising to four. At this point, South plans to go to six or seven and continues his investigation by bidding four spades. North has nothing more to show at this time and just goes back to five diamonds, whereupon South bids six clubs.

This put matters squarely up to North. He reviews the bidding and notes that his partner is trying for a grand slam. He also notes that his partner's first cue bid was in hearts. Obviously his partner's longest side was hearts and the king-queen and jack of hearts would have to be worth their weight in gold. He jumps to seven diamonds.

South is about ready to claim seven when East discards a club on the first trump lead. South stops a while and then sees that he must ruff out dummy's two losing clubs in his own hand before pulling trumps. He cashes the ace of clubs at trick two, enters dummy with a heart, ruffs a club with the ace of trumps, leads the eight of trumps to dummy's nine, ruffs the last club with the king of trumps, overtakes his ten of trumps with dummy's jack, pulls West's last trump with dummy's last trump and discards his losing spade. Then he shows his hand and claims the balance.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

Simply flip the dial these days and nights and, lo and behold, western stars of years back appear to ride the trails again.

Two such series, now syndicated, are "Wanted: Dead or Alive," with Steve McQueen and "Have Gun, Will Travel," with Richard Boone.

There was another western series also burning the tube at the same time, but it is nowhere in sight these days. For that matter, neither is the star.

To find Hugh O'Brian on a television screen these days, or his series "Wyatt Earp," takes some doing. But then, O'Brian does not want to go back into another series.

There are only three things you get from doing a series—money, exposure and aggravation.

O'Brian has the first two and doesn't want the third. What he does want he has. He's under contract to a studio to make one picture a year and he has the right to do television as he chooses.

He chooses to do television no more than three or four times a year. With the exception of The Virginian premiere in 1962, he restricts these appearances to so-called anthology series with different casts each week.

This restriction is put on because the roles are better. If you star in an anthology drama, you know you have the best role. Be a guest in a series and you're either a heavy or a guy with problems.

O'Brian played Wyatt Earp for six years but anytime there was a break in the shooting schedule, he'd take a guest shot on another show in another type of role.

It was this sort of activity which has allowed him to command a price for performance. It is not luck to be in demand because luck is nothing more than what happens when preparation meets opportunity.

TID BITS: The costs of shooting some western series in the Hollywood area are going up because the increasing suburban development means the production crews have to travel greater distances to find suitable locations . . . David Wolper's six planned specials about American history, with Spencer Tracy as narrator, didn't find a buyer among the networks, so it's out.

Jerry Lewis will be guest host of NBC-TV's "Tonight" show next week, taking over from Johnny Carson's vacation standin, Joey Bishop, who is not well. It was a host job on this same show that made possible the Saturday night Jerry Lewis special on ABC-TV. It went down the ratings drain and allowed Hollywood Palace to come through with smash shows.

NBC-TV will present half-hour specials the nights of July 13 and 17 concerning the Mariner 4 spacecraft's project to photograph Mars when it passes within about 5,000 miles of the planet July 14.

SEE THE SEA
Olympic mountains, Sooke hills and the twinkling city lights in a panoramic sweep. See the ships standing into harbor, observe the restless pulse of night traffic on Victoria's main arteries from your elevated position away from any thru traffic. It's like watching cinemascope without sound. Pheasants and quail often invade your privacy from the perpetual parkland surrounding the city water reservoir at the rear. Southern exposed situation insures protection from north winds, maximum sunshine, earliest garden and the high location puts you above most ground mist. Garden, terraced, has oak tree for shade and numerous young fruits. White shake, 4 rooms with full basement, drive-in garage, and, as a bonus that best heat, oil-o-automatic hot water. Unlisted — offered only privately — no sign, but if you wish drive by 1226 Topaz and phone GR 8-2514 for appointment. It's vacant and we can give clear title. We won't haggle on the price, the view alone is worth the $10,900.

LAZY DAYS!! ON PIERS ISLAND!!!

Summer's here—and the Island's a busy place with frequent arrival and departure of water taxis, owner's boats and even a seaplane! The fortunate, with cottages built, enjoy life basking on their patios or one of the island's 17 beaches or strolling the Island trails while others are busy clearing their lots, cutting shakes for the roof or building. Evening is a time for fishing or a stroll along the 2-mile country road past lush pasture where deer and horses peacefully graze on 150 acres of parkland donated to the property owners. Many of the choice large waterfront lots offer unspoiled beauty of fir and arbutus while others are cleared or in orchard planted over 60 years ago by a pioneer owner. Waterfront lot prices from $3,000 to $4,850 depending on size. To see these lots this weekend call Mr. Biscoe, 656-3282 or weekdays, office 383-9413.

SOMEONE IS LOOKING FOR THE ITEMS YOU NO LONGER NEED.

"Oh, dear! Just as I was getting to know the names of the new lot."

Sticky Manhole Problem

Little boys shouldn't stick their fingers in manhole covers.

If you don't believe that ask Larry Jones, 3449 Calumet.

Larry, who is eight years old, wondered why there are small holes in manhole covers. So he put his finger in one Thursday to find out.

Half-an-hour later his finger was still in the hole and it was beginning to look as if he would go through life with a manhole cover attached.

Then along came our hero—assistant Fire Chief Tom Moss of Saanich fire department.

He put grease into the opening and Larry got free.

Said Larry today: "It felt funny. I'm not going to do that anymore."

. . . CLASH

"He paid lip service to them," Mr. Young said.

Ald. Savage suggested there had been no substantiation of charges by Mr. Clack, and moved confidence in the city manager.

Ald. A. W. Toone noted that special project work had gone ahead satisfactorily, despite the allegations.

Mr. Clack observed that the results "are only the pinnacle of the work put into them."

He added he did not influence the decision of his staff to leave. All three will work with the consulting firm of Willis and Cunliffe, which have offered services to the city.

The mayor pointed out that Mr. Clack had been asked to reconsider his decision to leave, following a letter of resignation. A second letter, June 30, told the mayor and council, "I feel you would concur if you were as fully aware of the circumstances as I am.

"Apparently the existing situation promises no improvement," the letter said.

Ald. Savage asked before the appearance of Mr. Clack how much he was responsible for in Centennial Square design, paint-up and other projects.

"A good question," replied the mayor. "I think you could fairly say all the initiative for these projects came from city council."

He gave credit to other members of the staff, and outside architects, although Mr. Clack co-ordinated efforts.

"The people should know that he is not responsible for all of them," Ald. Savage said.

Mr. Clack said "wrong impressions" of his work have been conveyed to the mayor and council, whether or not deliberate. He said he had been ignored consistently by Mr. Young and failed to understand the motivation involved.

He said Mr. Young told him he did not fit in with the administration and failed to get along with the staff.

Shoppers' Concerts Planned

A series of shoppers' promenade concerts will begin July 16 and 17 at Mayfair plaza.

Announcement was made today by Kenneth Gravenor, producer of the noon concerts at McPherson Playhouse.

The noon shows at the Playhouse will resume Monday and the hour-long lunch concerts will continue each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, starting at 12:15 p.m.

The shoppers' concerts or "proms" will be held in an open-air setting on the Mayfair mall. Admission is free.

Mr. Gravenor explained the promenade concerts are a throwback to those of Sir Thomas Beecham at London's Royal Albert Hall.

The programs were held in a casual atmosphere and patrons could walk about and mingle with friends.

"And this will be a casual way of being entertained," Mr. Gravenor said.

Concerts next Friday and Saturday will begin at 7 p.m. and 2 p.m. respectively.

They will feature folk and opera singers, show tunes and dancing.

Opening the new concert series will be Mimi Robertson of Victoria Operatic Society's Merry Widow; Johnny Booker, folk and blues singer from Parisian night clubs; Stanley Marechek, violinist; Herbert Reinstein, baritone; Patricia Wicks, Metropolitan Opera finalist, and Teresa Forslund, pianist-organist.

Special buses for the concerts will leave Douglas and Yates every 15 minutes.

Wins Contract

Victoria Pile Driving Co. has been awarded a contract for construction of a wharf and landing float at Bamfield East on Vancouver Island's west coast.

The bid, of $54,705, was the lowest of four opened in Ottawa June 23.

The project involves construction of a nine by 104-foot pontoon float, with a 60 by 40-foot wharfhead reached from shore by a 12 by 125-foot timber trestle and gravel approach.

Work on the approach will begin in August and the job will be completed by the end of November.

Bamfield East is the terminus of the Port Alberni Highway.

IT RAINED! 3/100's OF AN INCH

Victoria's first rain in almost a month barely dampened gardens and lawns, but some more shower activity is expected tonight and Saturday.

The cool, moist air mass which covered Victoria today will slip southward over the weekend allowing some sun between cloudy periods.

Forecaster William Mackie said today Thursday night and this morning's rainfall was measured at three-one hundredths of an inch.

One-one hundredth of an inch fell June 14.

Temperatures will range from 50 to 65 degrees overnight and Saturday and winds will be light to 15 mph.

Visiting Girl Raped By 'Rich Kid' Gang

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Seven teen-age boys, described by officers as "all rich kids," abducted a 15-year-old girl off an Oklahoma City street, drove to a farm field, raped her and made her commit perverted acts, police said Thursday.

The victim, a San Antonio, Tex., girl visiting here, was dumped on the street near an Oklahoma City drive-in restaurant after the two and one-half hour episode, police said. She was reported in a state of shock.

Authorities said they had the names of six of the seven alleged attackers and planned to file charges soon. All were in their middle teens.

The father of one of the suspects spirited his son away from police headquarters during confusion there as the boys were being questioned late Thursday afternoon. Officers said the man had tried earlier to talk the girl out of telling her story to police. Officers immediately issued pickup orders on the father and son.

"They're all rich kids—sons of doctors, lawyers, retired colonels and the like," said police Lt. Jim Reading.

Reading said the girl was walking home from a drive-in with a girl friend about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday when the boys forced her into their car in Northwest Oklahoma City.

He said the boys drove to a farm field near suburban Edmond and stripped off the girl's clothing.

"They choked her, sat on top of her and reduced her to an animal," said Detective Jim Anthony.

"She was forced to have sexual relations with each boy, as well as having to commit perversions of the worst sort," said another detective.

Canadian Library Association scholarships of $500 each have been awarded to two Greater Victoria students.

Wendy Etheridge, 2630 Orchard, and Elsie Wollaston, 734 Sea Drive, graduates of the University of Victoria, are recipients of the awards.

These scholarships are awarded annually to six Canadian students proceeding to graduate study in librarianship.

A 20-year-old pleaded guilty in Saanich court Thursday to possession of liquor while seated in a car June 25 at Mount Douglas Park.

Brian D. Newstead, 2709 Fifth St., was fined $35. Eight bottles of beer were found in his auto.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Brenda Woody, age 11, of Preston, Ga., for her question:

Can science explain a brave burro defending her foal?

This question arose from the story of a brave burro who defended her foal from a mountain lion. Her courage against such odds of tooth and talon touches the human heart. A thoughtful young person thinks that a factual scientific explanation could mar this human sense of wonder.

In her secret pockets, Mother Nature still has a million mysteries that our men of science cannot answer—but one by one they are solving them. Not so long ago, many questions of animal behavior were unsolved, and it was stylish to call them instincts. Birds, we said, migrated by instinct, and salmon returned by instinct to their spawning streams. A little donkey defended her baby from a mighty mountain lion by instinct.

Instinct was a sort of built-in voice of nature ordering her children to do this or that. The noble word called forth human feelings of respect and admiration for nature. The instinct of mother love in a brave little burro touched the human heart. Then science discarded the word instinct. It was dropped because molecular biologists found chemicals which explain the wondrous behavior of nature's children.

Carries Code Data to Cells

They used their advanced skills and their refined instruments to study the living cell and the genes within it. The genes were known to carry biological features from generation to generation. Whether you have blue eyes or brown is decided by the genes you inherit from your ancestors. But the new experts found that the genes carry far more than biological features. They carry blueprints which order the animal behavior we once called instinct.

Amazing chemicals were found in each and every living cell. In chemical shorthand, two of them are known as DNA and RNA. One gives the vital orders, and the other carries the coded data to the cells. In these chemicals, every animal inherits a unique blueprint — an original genetic code assembled from the genes of its parents. The beauty of nature's children, their courage and mother love are but a few items ordained by this genetic code. Such noble qualities seem even more wondrous when we see that nature makes them possible by using a fantastic system of simple chemicals.

The scientific explanation takes nothing from the wonder we feel for the animal world. The operation of the genetic code is more inspiring than the baffling word instinct. What's more, it brings us a sense of warm pride for that two-footed fellow, Man, who solved the amazing riddle and who had, above all, the courage to change an old idea for a new one.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

DUBLIN—PRINCESS GRACE KELLY of Monaco spent at least two and a half minutes mingling with the nobility and the ordinary at the ball of which she was chairman here.

She looked ravishingly lovely in a dress of orange lace, a diamond tiara and opera-length gloves. She and Prince Rainier . . . who rules a principality in the south of France but couldn't draw flies without her . . . deigned to pass through a receiving line (or perhaps it was a received line) of eight persons before the band struck up the tune "Camelot" from the Lerner-Loewe score. The Prince and Princess danced closely and good humoredly. Then . . . before the last four bars of the chorus had been played . . . they slipped out away from the other dancers to some other private room in which they could sip champagne in the presence of a favored few who were not the average Joe and Jacques who had bought a ticket in support of the charitable cause of Les Petits Lits Blanc de France chiefly in the hope of seeing Princess Grace and her husband.

AT LEAST A COUPLE OF HUNDRED Frenchmen and their ladies were disappointed when they were barred from the ballroom—at historic but now nouveau riche—Powerscourt. United States Ambassador to Ireland, Raymond Guest, simply up and left. A more distinguished Irish legislator, Sen. McGuire, was baffled when he was prevented from entering the ballroom. After exchanging greetings with a few friends scattered in the downstairs salons he departed. A ballet performed briefly outside where it was freezing. A bar served only gin, champagne, Irish whiskey and water . . . no soda, no scotch.

The buffet chilling under a tent of blue and white stripes was gorgeous to look at before the guests demolished it at the stroke of midnight. It was a city block long with a red carpeted isle dividing two tables draped in pink cloth and Irish silver candelabra and tureens, fountains made of lobster white lace over pink. All the tables were laden with antique and clam shells painted with gold and brightened with rhinestone glitter, giant pyramids of fresh flowers in every color, pigs stuffed with pate, hams covered with wondrous designs, fish made like modern paintings and turkeys decorated with mushroom and truffles and pimiento.

When supper was served Princess Grace and Prince Rainier reappeared for the benefit of those who had tables under the marquee—a favored minority. All were free to mill around and gawk at the Princess which they did. But only one Yankee Doodle lady had the nerve to go over and speak to Her Serene Highness. That was Elizabeth Whitney Tippitt, who comes from Philadelphia where Grace comes from and was taught gym exercises by Grace's grandmother. Liz drifted over and said "hello Grace," like any Philadelphian to another Main Liner. Grace kissed Liz on the cheeks and they talked briefly about how it was in the Cradle of Liberty while everyone else simply froze and ate in more or less that order.

BEWIGGED FOOTMEN, who looked as if they might be actually gas station attendants in day-to-day life, stood behind the tables along with the chefs in their tall puffed white hats and aprons. As soon as their serene highnesses had left the gray and gold ballroom, the music changed from show tunes to rock 'n' roll.

Two who might have done it well but chose to mingle in the salons instead were two young chaps of noble descent who in my charity will remain anonymous. One wore his hair almost shoulder length and teased out to the circumference of a balloon. The other had straight hair dropping to his lapels and a flourishing moustache. Anyone who commented on his weird appearance was told, "You should have seen him last week. His hair was six inches longer, his moustache met his sideburns and he had a beard." The very thought is shuddery.

Most charity balls, whether they are held in New York or Paris or Younameit are bores and this one at Powerscourt, Dublin, was no exception.

The large contingent of French who had flown the Channel to attend the function served to prove that the myth of the French chic is strictly a myth. The tall, young, slim and beautiful created the illusion of fashion whether they were French, Irish or American and the short fat ones with too curly hair were unchic no matter what their country of origin.

The biggest joke of the night in the matter of costume was a Frenchman. He wore for a dinner jacket what appeared to be striped pink and white pajama tops with black satin lapels and how he ever gained admittance to the ball is a large mystery.

It was well worth travelling 3,000 miles to Dublin to attend the ball because, for one thing, Dublin is a marvelous city and, for another thing, it is amusing to see how many people will travel so far and pay so much in the hope of glimpsing a pretty blonde from Philadelphia.

Mars Gravity Pull Noted by Mariner 4

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. spacecraft Mariner 4 began feeling the gravitational pull of Mars at 2 p.m. Wednesday, just a week before it is scheduled to take the first close-up pictures of the mysterious planet.

The tug was noticed in slight changes in speed as the 575-pound spacecraft raced toward the climax of its 28-day voyage.

Mars' pull will divert the spacecraft behind the planet and Mariner 4 will begin radioing pictures, recorded on tape during the "fly-by," after it emerges on the far side of Mars.

Hanoi Journalist Claims Minister Initiated Trip

LONDON (UPI)—Controversy raged here today over just who initiated the trip of Britain's special envoy to Hanoi to sound out the Communist feeling on a possible cease-fire in Viet Nam.

It was unclear whether Prime Minister Harold Wilson personally, asked junior minister Harold Davies to go; or if he was invited by two North Vietnamese journalists based in London; or if he planned the trip himself and then got Wilson to agree to it.

First reports from Whitehall said Davies, a leftwinger who had visited Hanoi previously, was approached by the two journalists with an invitation from President Ho Chi-minh.

Davies consulted Wilson and was given a mandate to persuade the Communist North Vietnamese government to accept the Commonwealth peace mission.

Like Peking and Moscow, Hanoi had refused to discuss the situation with the Commonwealth group.

Prime Minister Wilson was vague Thursday when urged to explain just how the trip came about.

"In the course of one of the discussions (on the peace mission) the possibility came up of my colleague (Davies) visiting Hanoi. After consultation I felt it right, in order not to lose any opportunity of advancing this vitally important matter, that he should go," Wilson said.

Pressed to be specific about the invitation, Wilson said several members of the Commonwealth were making contact with Hanoi and "I am more concerned to get results than to gratify the curiosity" of the questioner.

The two journalitss, Cu Dinh Ba, 37, and Nguyen Van Soa, 45, of the weekly paper Cuu Quoc, claimed Thursday night Davies telephoned and wrote them, then invited them for a drink at the House of Commons.

"He said he wanted to meet our leaders and some government officials in Hanoi," Cu Dinh Ba said.

"Davies didn't mention the Commonwealth peace mission. He said he wanted the visa for a personal visit."

Opposition foreign affairs spokesman Reginald Maulding issued a statement saying:

"It seems quite astonishing that a member of the government with no connection with foreign affairs should, at his own request, visit Hanoi at this moment, when the government there has refused to see the prime minister of Britain and the former foreign secretary" (Patrick Gordon Walker).

PRINCESS WINS TEST OF AFFECTION

ROTTERDAM (Reuters).—Crown Princess Beatrix and her West German fiance, Claus von Amsberg, received a ticker-tape welcome from thousands of cheering people when they paid an official visit to Rotterdam today.

It was their third test of public popularity since the announcement that the princess, heir to Holland's throne, is to marry the German diplomat.

Thursday former resistance fighters distributed leaflets urging people to stay indoors and leave flagpoles bare.

But there were no incidents today as the couple toured the city.

They have already been given a riotous welcome in The Hague and a more reserved one in Amsterdam.

18-DAY FAST has cost Pte. David Ovall 18 pounds. The 23-year-old soldier at Eatontown, N.J., is protesting his service and seeks discharge as a conscientious objector.

Island Jubilant By Mainland Link

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Prince Edward Islanders reacted with jubilation and surprise Thursday after Prime Minister Pearson announced plans for a $148,000,000 highway and rail link between the tiny province and the mainland.

"It hit me like a bombshell," Premier Walter Shaw commented.

"The causeway's construction will mark the beginning of a new era here."

Other prominent islanders said the decision to go ahead with the long-discussed and studied project likely is the most significant in the history of this province of 104,000.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference in Ottawa that construction will start next April on a nine-mile combination causeway, tunnel and bridge between Borden, P.E.I. and Cape Tormentine, N.B. The first tenders would be called shortly.

Shortly after Mr. Pearson's press conference, newly-appointed Mines Minister J. Watson MacNaught flew here to make a second announcement to the people of this province.

Mr. MacNaught squashed a rash of specilation here that the spectacular public works project might be one forerunner of a fall federal election.

"A project of this magnitude is above politics," he told a press conference.

Tenders will be called in December for construction of the approaches to the causeway from the New Brunswick side. Actual work is expected to begin next April.

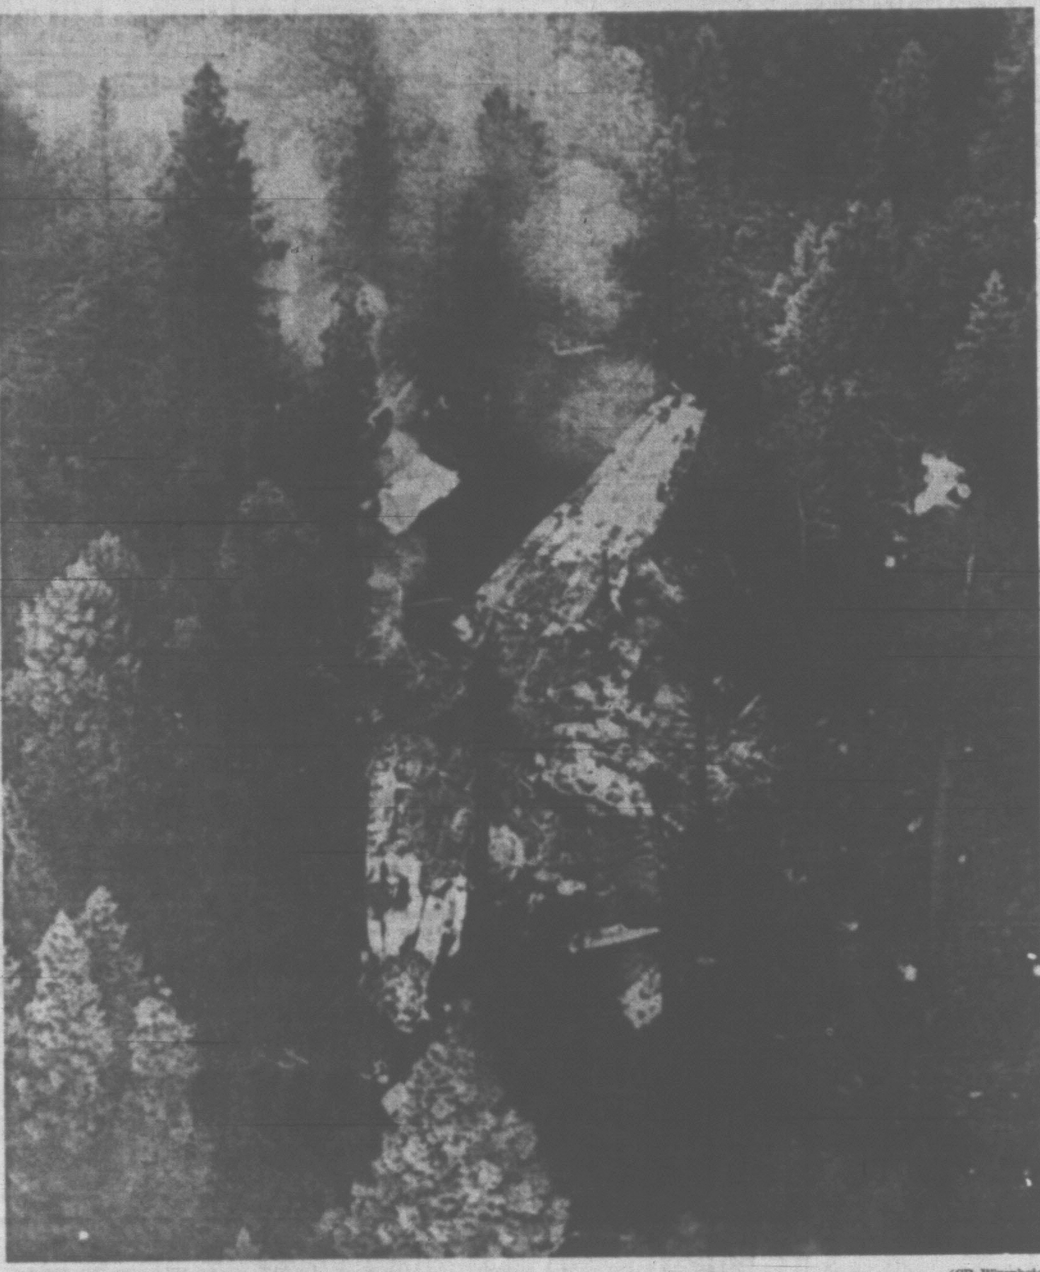
Bomb Blast Feared in Air Crash



—(CP Wirephoto)

STILL SMOLDERING this morning after crashing Thursday night killing all 52 aboard is remains of Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B aircraft. Wings of plane fell into trees after tail section fell off.

City Mother, Prospector Among Victims

Two Victoria families today mourn the loss of close relatives killed when a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane exploded and crashed near 100-Mile House Thursday afternoon.

They are:

Victoria architect Charles E. Craig, 46, and Mrs. Craig, 2524 Queenswood, whose son David, 21, was flying north on a prospecting trip.

Oyster farmer W. K. Quayle, 390 Quayle Road, whose wife Alsace Lorraine, was flying to Watson Lake to be with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Johnson-Watson, now expecting her sixth child.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig were informed of the tragedy by Canadian Pacific Airlines Thursday night.

David Craig was a field prospector with the firm of Rodstrom Yellowknife Mines Ltd., 556 Johnson Street. Born in Winnipeg, he was educated at Glenlyon School, Victoria, and at the University of Victoria where he studied arts and science.

"ALL-ROUND MAN"

"I couldn't say enough for him," said H. E. Fowler, manager of Rodstrom Mines. "He was a good all-round man who got along with everyone. I would say he had great promise'

Mr. Craig was flying to the company's Bullion Creek Mines in northern B.C. when the plane crashed.

"He was up there before last December in 70-below zero temperatures," Mr. Fowler said, "and he was keen to go back this week."

Mr. Craig joined the firm last November. He was unmarried and devoted much of his leisure time to the study of mining. His brother, James, also attended Glenlyon School, and both were keen cricketers.

ARCHITECT

Their father, a well-known city architect before retirement, received a National Design Award in 1962 for his design of a multiple - dwelling villa at 960 Humboldt for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. Quayle had originally planned to leave on the weekend for Watson Lake, but changed her mind and left Thursday so she would be in Watson Lake for the weekend.

She left Victoria at 1:20 p.m. Thursday.

FRANCE SHUNS N-COMMITTEE

PARIS (Reuters) — France has informed the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that it is not interested in an American proposal for the creation of a NATO nuclear committee, French officials said today.

The proposal was made by U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara at a meeting here of NATO defence ministers at the end of May.

Sen. Kennedy Softens Punch Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today that U.S. military action in South Viet Nam is "essential" to allow the Saigon government to carry out its political functions.

He inserted the comment in a speech that had been interpreted in some quarters before he delivered it as criticism of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policy.

Kennedy's prepared text had said that "victory in a revolutionary war is won not by escalation but by de-escalation." Many observers took this as a veiled slap at the stepped-up U.S. involvement in South Viet Nam. The New York Democrat dropped this line when he actually delivered the speech, however. (See earlier story, Page 3.)

He then softened the speech further with two other additions, saying:

"At the moment, our most prominent problem is in Viet Nam. We must realize, however, that Viet Nam has become more and more an open military conflict as well, in which military action on our part is essential just to allow the government to act politically."

Tail Section Fell Off Plane: All 52 Killed

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—RCMP investigators were working on a "bomb theory" today in the crash of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane Thursday that killed all 52 persons on board.

A senior RCMP officer, who refused to be identified, said a logger who saw the crash told police he saw the plane blow apart in the air.

The 46 passengers, including four children, and crew of six, died when the DC-6B airliner plunged into woods 30 miles southwest of this Cariboo community.

Other reports from searchers at the scene of the worst crash in CPA's history lent credence to the theory that the four-engine plane exploded in flight.

Searchers found the main cabin virtually intact and the tail section about a half-mile away. They reported both sections appeared to have plummetted straight to the ground.

A stand of 50-foot-high trees was untouched except where the fuselage crushed the timber beneath. There was no swath through the bush to indicate forward motion.

Just Time for 'May Day' Call

The pilot, Capt. John Alfred Steele, 41, of North Vancouver, had time only to repeat three quick May-Days—the international distress call—before the plane disappeared from radar screens.

CPA officials, who monitored the distress call in Vancouver, said the pilot did not identify himself or the aircraft. There were only the three staccato May-Day cries.

A CPA spokesman would say only that it was too early to determine whether a bomb in one of the plane's four luggage compartments was the cause of the crash.

"As far as the bomb is concerned, you find someone coming up with the theory in nearly every air disaster," he said.

Steve Kovacs, a B.C. Telephone Co. radio technician, drove a radio-equipped truck to the scene of the wreckage and reported that two employees of nearby Ainsworth sawmills were eyewitnesses to the crash.

Kovacs said he spoke to the men—who have not been identified—and they told him the plane "lost its tail in flight then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said ground searchers found 15 bodies inside the main cabin but they were "burned beyond recognition." Most were still strapped into their seats.

'Plane Spiralled to Earth

Airline officials said the plane, Flight 21 bound for Whitehorse, Y.T., via Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, B.C. and Watson lake, Y.T., left Vancouver at 3:30 p.m.

The May Day was received at 4:55 p.m.

Police said the logger-witness described the crash this way:

The tail blasted off and spiralled to earth. A gaping hole left in the rear of the plane allowed pressure inside to push out a number of passengers.

The fuselage and wings dropped like a stone.

Capt. Steele radioed about 15 minutes before the crash that he was changing course to avoid turbulence ahead. The plane was flying at 15,000 feet.

The weather office in Vancouver reported thunderstorms in the area, but a southbound flight made the trip earlier in the day without incident.

Meanwhile Times News Services reported that all documents and flight insurance relating to ill-fated CPA flight 21 were seized today.

Department of Transport officials impounded all flight insurance, cargo manifestos, maintenance records, and passenger lists.

Dr. Thomas How, regional DOT director, said "we've impounded all these items, and our investigators are at the scene.

"We have not yet found anything to definitely suggest sabotage," said How, "but there are many things to consider, and sabotage is one of them."

The crash was the worst in the history of CPA. In 1951 a CPA DC-4 went down over Alaska, killing 38 persons.

It was Canada's fourth worst

Trail of Murder, Abduction Ends in Capture of Pair

APPOINTED U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam replacing Gen. Maxwell Taylor is Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., former envoy to Saigon. President Johnson nominated Lodge Thursday. See story page 3.

TONOPAH, Nev. (AP)—Two Oregon murder-kidnap suspects, who had eluded police in Oregon, California and Nevada since Tuesday and who had taken nine persons as hostages in that time, surrendered to officers early today.

California highway patrol headquarters in Sacramento said police at Benton Station, on the California-Nevada border, reported that the men had surrendered.

They were taken to jail in Bridgeport, Calif.

Police said the fugitives were taken just south of the border check station at Benton. They apparently offered no resistance.

Their capture came about two hours after they had released Marie Champion, 39, wife of California's finance director, Hale Champion, and their 19-month-old daughter.

Champion, who also was taken hostage by the fleeing men, was released earlier at Tonopah after he was shot in the hip by a bystander who fired at the fugitives who had commandeered a sheriff's patrol car.

STARTED TUESDAY

The release of the Champions climaxed a crime trail that began Tuesday when a Portland, Ore., bank was robbed of $14,000.

Ex-convicts, Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, originally of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cletes Bowles, 24, an Amarillo, Tex., native, were sought for this holdup.

Later Tuesday an Oregon deputy sheriff who had halted their car was gunned down. They kidnapped six Oregon persons—a man, two women and three boys—and escaped into California in a trailer camper, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

In Sacramento, they released the six Oregon hostages and later went to the Champion home and abducted the couple and their infant daughter.

They were first spotted just outside Tonopah Thursday night when Grey and Bowles commandeered the deputy sheriff's car.

The fugitives took the car when the deputies stopped to check a car fitting the description of the Champions.

Grey and Bowles, after dumping Champion out of the car, eluded officers by holding the woman and baby at gunpoint.

STOPPED FOR FOOD

From Tonopah they drove to Coaldale Junction on U.S. 95. Bowles and Grey forced Elton Parson, owner of the Coaldale Inn, to give them food and gasoline.

Nevada deputies, armed with rifles, stood by helplessly in the darkness of the inn as the fugitives drove away.

They drove north to Mina, then reversed their course to Montgomery Pass—on the California-Nevada border—with officers pursuing at a safe dis-

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. marines made an amphibious landing on an island near their Chu Lai beachhead today and fought their way into a South Vietnamese coastal headquarters that had been overrun by the Viet Cong, a U.S. spokesman said. (See Page 3).

PM 'Stabbed Me in Back;' Dupuis Eyes Legal Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Dupuis, former federal minister without portfolio, said Thursday night he has asked his lawyers to see whether he has grounds for legal action against Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Dupuis, speaking at a press conference in Montreal, said he was surprised at a statement in Ottawa earlier in the day by Mr. Pearson, who told reporters that the Liberal party will oppose the ex-minister if he stands for re-election to Parliament.

"This relentlessness against me on the part of one who holds the highest political position in Canada surprises me and scandalizes me more than a little," Mr. Dupuis said.

"How could the prime minister make such a tendentious statement against me at the moment when I am preparing to be judged by my peers?"

Mr. Dupuis was referring to charges he faces of conspiring to "demand, accept or offer $10,000" in connection with an attempt to obtain a racetrack franchise from the Quebec government for his home riding of St. Jean - Iberville - Napierville. Earlier this week, he was ordered to stand trial at the St. Johns, Que., fall assizes on the charges.

At the press conference Thursday night, Mr. Dupuis said the prime minister "stabbed me in the back."

"How, as leader of the Liberal party, could he make such an autocratic statement within a matter of hours after the Liberal Federation of Canada, Quebec branch, adopted a resolution to put off examination of my case until the courts render a final decision?" Mr. Dupuis asked.

"If the prime minister has accusations to make against me, let him have the courage to state them publicly," he said.

RUSHED TO CRASH SCENE . . . . . . IN BID TO HELP

Mechanic Cries at Sight of Scattered Bodies

HUNDRED MILE HOUSE B.C. (CP)—"He was crying from the horribleness of it all."

This is a woman's description of her husband's reaction to seeing the trail of broken bodies at the scene of a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B crash Thursday which killed all 52 persons aboard.

The man, Bill Wolfgramm, 35, mechanic at 100 Mile House, rushed to the scene to see if he could help.

"There was no sign of life anywhere," he said today.

"The tail of the plane was half a mile away (from the fuselage) and there was a constant trail of broken and bent bodies, scattered arms and legs, leading between the two.

"All we could do before it got dark was to pick up a few bodies.

"I saw the body of a young child but I could not tell whether it was that of a boy or girl. It was so badly injured.

He said the fuselage somewhere dropped through the trees, without crushing a path.

"The scene is pretty hard to describe. It's amazing how the plane got in between the big trees.

"It's sitting flat on the ground and right between the trees.

"It is a terrible scene and one I will never forget."

Wolggramm and his wife were in a beer parlor when they heard of the tragedy. They drove over the muddy 25-mile logging road to the crash scene to offer their help.

Mrs. Wolfgramm said her husband went on ahead and when he reported to her that there was nothing they could do to help, he was crying, she said.

Steve Kovacs, a B.C. Telephone Co. radio technician, drove to the scene with a radio-equipped truck and reported that two employees of the nearby Ainsworth sawmill witnessed the actual crash.

Kovacs said he spoke to the men and they told him the four-engine plane "lost its tail in flight, then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said, from the description of the men—who were not immediately identified — "the plane just plunked I guess."

He said there were 15 bodies still inside the plane when searchers arrived but they were "burned beyond recognition."

Crews were preparing a clearing for helicopters to land to remove bodies from the rugged site, he said.

A new logging road cuts through the area about 200 yards from the wreckage.

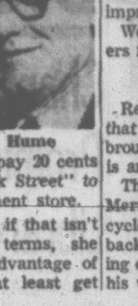
BUSINESS VIEWS

They Want a Ride for Their Money

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

A senior citizen writes to comment on a recent column and comes through with a suggestion city centre businessmen may have overlooked in their efforts to keep shoppers downtown.



Hume

The lady says that she and her friends invariably jog out to a shopping centre to make their purchases because they "absolutely hate to pay 20 cents each way from Cook Street" to the nearest department store.

With female logic, if that isn't a contradiction of terms, she says it is to the advantage of elderly people to at least get their money's worth from B.C. Hydro by tking a pleasant drive before doing their shopping.

She goes on to ask why 10-cent fares couldn't be instituted for short distances and adds this plaintive note: "So many people would benefit by this.

"It would be nice to be able to go down town again. It is such a lovely place now with the new malls and all those new improvements."

Wonder how many other readers feel the same way?

Remember the hoola-hoop, that plastic sacroiliac bender brought in from Japan? There is another one on the way.

The new brand is called the Merry Top, a circular-type tricycle which goes forward or backwards or in circles, depending on which way the rider leans his weight.

The first models, which should be here sometime this fall, are designed for youngsters three to five years old but the betting is that teenagers will soon be demanding a sturdier model to replace the skate-board.

If they do all the manufacturer says—swing left or right with a shift of the body or loop in speedy circles — they could even become popular with politicians.

A happy anniversary wish to E. L. W. Fuller, superintendent of Shell Canada Ltd., Victoria marketing plant.

This month Mr. Fuller marks his 25th anniversary with Shell.

Born in Prescott, Ont., he joined the company as a clerk in the Montreal district plant in 1940. In 1947 he was transferred to Vancouver where he became head auditor and tabulating supervisor.

Six years later, in 1953, he moved to Victoria.

Air Canada gave Canadian exporters a boost this week when it announced slashed air freight rates between Canada, the U.K. and continental Europe.

Sample rates based on a Montreal starting point are:

Fruits and vegetables, 17 cents a pound to London, Glasgow and Shannon, 19 cents a pound to Dusseldorf and Paris. The old rate was 24 cents a pound.

Meat, poultry and game down to 19 cents from 27 cents.

Tanned, dyed, finished or semi-finished leather goods down to 19 cents a pound from 27 cents and a wide variety of textile products down to 21 cents a pound from 28 cents.

Similar reductions will apply right across the country for those seeking foreign markets for their products or produce.

MARKET SUMMARIES

New York Gaining Toronto Loss Small

Brighter conditions appeared in New York and London markets today but Montreal was irregular and Toronto industrials took fractional drops.

AT NEW YORK the stock market regained its early strength and more late this afternoon.

Jones and Laughlin advanced nearly 2 points while other leading steelmakers were fractionally ahead.

Among Canadian issues, Distillers Seagrams rose ⅝ and Hudson Bay Mining ½. Aluminium Ltd. and Canadian Pacific each slipped ½, Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine ¼ each and International Nickel ⅛.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

AT TORONTO industrials took fractional drops. Losses were small but widespread. Most major indusrial groups declined.

In the main list, Toronto-Dominion Bank fell ⅝ to 60⅛ and National Trust ⅝ to 20. Bank of Nova Scotia, Dofasco and Industrial Acceptance each trimmed ⅝ to 71, 26 and 22½, respectively.

Canada Permanent Mortgage and Royal Bank clipped 1 apiece to 66 and 73. Aluminium and Bank of Montreal each lost ½ to 28½ and 60¾.

Senior base metals rose. Falconbridge rose ⅝ to 97⅜ and Cominco ⅝ to 40½. Denison was ahead ¼ to 28 but Noranda fell ¼ to 47¾.

AT MONTREAL stocks were irregular in moderate trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

In utilities Bell Telephone added ⅝ and CPR was off ½. Brinco was up ⅛.

Among banking issues Nova Scotia added ⅛.

Papers were steady with Dominion Tar up ⅛ and Great Lakes off ⅛.

Machinery issues advanced with Case up ⅛ and Massey-Ferguson ⅛.

Metals were mixed. In the base section Consolidated Mining and Smelting rose ¼ and in the primaries Aluminium lost ¼.

AT LONDON brighter conditions generally were maintained in the London Stock Market today although business slackened in places and some prices eased.

Gilt edged stocks were quiet. Dollar stocks were firmer in response to the overnight Wall Street tone.

Canadians to improve included Abitibi, Algoma, Aluminium, Consolidated Mining, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, Imperial Oil, International Nickel, Massey-Ferguson and Brazil Tractions. Falls were seen in B-A Oil, Consolidated Paper, Noranda and Trans Canada Pipe. Canadian Pacific shed a fraction.

AT VANCOUVER trading continued light until noon today with three industrials hitting new lows for the year.

In mines, Dundee was the biggest trader by far, with 40,700 shares off .03 to .64. Lighter volume was registered by Arlington, down .02 to .47; Galaxie, up 1⅛ to .50; and Peso was up .12 to 1.35.

Finance companies lost in industrials with Coronation Credit down .80 to a new low for the year of $3.90 on 200 shares. Canadian Finance was off .52 at $4.85 on 300 shares.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices continued to move narrowly in moderate trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Most activity was in oats, where sales of more than 6,000 tons to Britain and Europe were reported. Prices in both oats and barley were firm. Most trading in barley was domestic, but there was some export interest.

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in the grain futures market was slow and mixed today with prices shifting in a generally narrow range both above and below previous closes.

Hedge selling of wheat continued light and some of the demand there was believed to be for establishment of long positions. New crop corn firmed at times on the same account, dealers said.

MB & PR Boss Looks Abroad

VANCOUVER (CP) — Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited is considering purchase of additional manufacturing facilities in Europe, company chairman J. V. Clyne said Wednesday.

Mr. Clyne said in an interview the company is studying the prospects in Great Britain and the European Common Market of "pulp and paper and that sort of thing."

IMPRESSED

He said the ventures are near-term "in the sense of a year being near," but declined further comment.

Macmillan Bloedel already owns three large manufacturing plants in Britain producing paper boxes, which were purchased in 1964.

Mr. Clyne, who recently returned from a seven-week business tour of Europe, said he is impressed with the prospects for business in Continental Europe.

Arthur Mayse

A year or two ago in this corner, I listed for would-be salmon fishermen the ingredients of a low cost outfit. What I didn't set down, chiefly because I could hear in advance the snickers of my angling friends, was how to use the stuff.

During our recent spell of poking along the Island east coast, however, it was impressed on me that altogether too many salmon-hungry parties who rent a boat and shove off are unlikely to connect with a fish except by sheerest accident.

True, luck does figure heavily in the game. But there are ways to give the fickle lady an occasional nudge; and the tyro should be familiar with a few of them.

The first rule I would offer is, don't be afraid to experiment, even if to do so means tossing all advice, including mine, overside.

If conventional trolling speed brings no strikes, rev the engine or slow down. Try two ounces of lead instead of eight. Test the non-standard lure someone gave you last birthday.

One hot and glassy afternoon when the fish scorned all other enticements, I surprised myself and two fat coho with a surface-skipping dingus inherited from a Minnesota black bass fisherman.

It helps, also, to fish where the salmon are. At all camps and resorts, the proprietor or the regulars know the hotspots.

Their advice is useful. Still, it doesn't do away with the need for playing detective when you go salmon fishing.

A concentration of seagulls wheeling and plunging over a quarter-acre of ruffled water means bait-fish on the surface, and, quite possibly, coho chopping into the school from below.

Regard the mouths of coves or bays and the tide-chop off points and the eddies on either side of them as territory worth exploring. Circle small islands, and loaf down the outer edge of kelp beds. In any of these places, you may tag a salmon.

Should you get a strike, ease back and cover the area thoroughly. Fish rarely travel alone.

What not to do is toss a lure over and, without regard for location or surface signs, tow it aimlessly to and fro. That way, one rarely achieves anything except boredom and sunburn.

In our waters, it's necessary to check your rig at regular intervals, particularly since the weed that came with the tasty Japanese oysters took hold.

A tag of trailing weed or eel grass destroys lure action and warns any fish not an outright moron to keep its distance.

There's much I haven't gone into here, including the matter of tidal influence on fishy appetites, and the specialized deepwater trolling practiced in such areas as Saanich Inlet for spring salmon.

Instead, let me dredge a tale from one salmon buff's well-stocked past.

We were trolling in Porlier Pass between Galiano and Valdes islands one July evening from Dave Conover's powerboat . . . Dave, a mouse-sized but eager small boy, and me.

Tide was running strong. Deep down, sunk there by wire lines and heavy leads, Dave and I fished big white plugs for springs. The boy, we'd rigged hastily with an old cotton handline.

The tide ran. The boat plodded slowly against it. The moon showed a golden rind over a Galiano sidehill. Never a strike.

But as the moon cleared the ridgetop, we became aware that a silent, desperate battle was going on under our very noses. The snubber between junior's line and the boat transom was stretched thin as a pencil. He hauled, and in the depths his partner in the tug-of-war yielded a grudging yard of line.

The end of it, all in a wash of moonlight, was a gilded 20-pounder flopping in Dave's spangled net, and an awed youngster who couldn't quite believe his luck.

For, as I suggested earlier, luck does enter into fishing. May yours be good . . . and mine get better!

UNUSUAL PROFUSION of 75 blossoms of Regal Lily is displayed by Mrs. Keith Smith, 1010 Empress. The prolific plant amazed city florists and garden enthusiasts by jumping from 26 blossoms in 1964. Clack, Young Clash Angrily Over Special City Projects

By AB KENT
City Hall Reporter

Resignation of Victoria special projects consultant Roderick Clack was accepted today at a special meeting of city council.

The meeting flared into open accusations between the architect and city manager Dennis Young.

Aldermen passed unanimously a motion of confidence in Mr. Young, although one of them—Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman of planning and zoning committee—voted against the resignation.

Charges, countercharges and denials were fired across the table as Mayor R. B. Wilson and seven aldermen sat as committee of the whole to consider the resignation and upheaval inside city hall resulting from it.

The two members of Mr. Clack's special projects staff also resigned, but this was not dealth with. Nor was a letter from acting planner Tony de Jong, which is alleged to be critical of civic administration and may be considered later.

CONTINUING

Council was scheduled to resume its sitting this afternoon.

Mr. Clack was called into the meeting after council opened discussion. He was asked by Ald. Mooney why he resigned.

"Internal conditions were responsible for my making the decision to leave, but at the same time I was extremely sorry to do it," Mr. Clack said.

"I felt my usefulness would be handicapped," referring to conflict with the city manager.

Mr. Young came back to declare: "Mr. Clack has made a series of statements directed at my handling of municipal affairs and personal integrity.

"I wish to state that none of what he states can be substantiated . . .

'POPPYCOCK'

"I feel he must have a persecution complex if he feels he has been singled out . . . It seems like pure poppycock.

"If he can bring forward positive statements, we can deal with them.

"I think it is most reprehensible on his part to give the impression that he has been singled out . . . He's just been talking."

The manager asked whether Mr. Clack would refer to the "innuendos" so the committee could get at his meaning.

Mr. Clack said he did not intend to make innuendos, but he pointed to disagreement over McPherson Playhouse scene loft and Bastion Square urban renewal projects as specific items.

'UNTRUE'

The mayor asked which Bastion Square matter.

"The statement that the project was deliberately delayed because I wanted to do it after I return from Ottawa (where he goes on six months' loan to the federal government). This is untrue," Mr. Clack said.

"This caused us a great deal of embarrassment because we almost felt we had to send two men to Ottawa to clear it up," the mayor said.

Mr. Clack referred to a 22-item report to the city manager, made after he returned from Ottawa on a visit, when he consulted with Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

In the report he said the delay was due to an improperly made application for urban renewal assistance which was made out by the city engineer. This did not include the broad concept required, Mr. Clack said, and more information was requested.

"WRONGLY DIRECTED"

"Undue blame has been wrongly directed towards me," the architect said.

Mr. Young said the report was "not a completely factual statement of events."

He said it also indicates some conspiracy under way to prevent Mr. Clack from having anything to do with Bastion Square.

"The suggestion he was excluded from it is incorrect. He was told to work with the city engineer and with others in a consultative capacity," the manager said.

(Mr. Clack was given his present post partly as a result of a conflict between him and the engineer 18 months ago, when he had been in the engineer's department.)

Mr. Young said it also was wrong for Mr. Clack to suggest that the manager authorized him to see the authorities in Ottawa.

"INTERNATIONAL"

Mr. Clack said this seemed to be an "intentional misrepresentation."

"That's going pretty far," Mayor Wilson interjected.

Ald. Mooney said he was still not clear on some statements made by Mr. Clack. He referred to one in which Mr. Young was quoted as saying:

" 'City hall is not big enough for you and I, and I expect to stay.' This is a direct quote from Mr. Young and comments of this nature are not conducive to the best work for the city," Mr. Clack said.

Ald. Mooney asked the manager to elaborate. Mr. Young asked Mr. Clack whether he had a written statement.

"Of course you wouldn't write it," Mr. Clack said.

'SHOCKING'

"You can't substantiate that any more than you can substantiate the other statements you have made . . . Mr. Mayor, these things are shocking . . .

"You are making these statements up," the city manager flung at Mr. Clack.

"I'm not making them up," the architect returned.

"You are," Mr. Young said.

"Such statements in the heat of argument should not be made without something to back them up," said Ald. Clyde Savage.

Mr. Young was then accused by Mr. Clack of ignoring matters he was trying to get a decision on.

"I don't ignore things," the manager spluttered. "The fact you don't have a written reply does not indicate that I ignore things. This is ridiculous."

Ald. Edgelow asked if Mr. Clack was against the city manager system.

"No, I think it is an excellent system . . . "

The mayor asked if he had always carried out the city manager's instructions.

"To the best of my ability," Mr. Clack said.

Family Awaits Word On Offer of Reward In Knight Abduction

A reward may be offered for the capture of Mrs. Mary Knight's kidnappers.

Mrs. Knight's elder son, Clarence, said today the family is considering putting up money for evidence leading to the capture of his mother's abductors.

Before offering the reward the family is awaiting word from the RCMP.

The new move came following a day which turned up plenty of new leads but nothing concrete.

For the first time since she was found bound and gagged Wednesday, Mrs. Knight, 82, was able to speak to RCMP officers Thursday afternoon.

But she was sketchy about the identity of the men who dragged her from her waterfront home 1½ miles south of Ladysmith Tuesday.

'STILL IN SHOCK'

Said Insp. George M. Mckay who is leading the hunt: "The old lady is still in a state of shock.

"When seen Thursday she talked about "man" and then about "men." We think now there were possibly two men on this job."

A tape-recording was made of the conversation.

Mrs. Knight, wife of wealthy hardware store owner Jocelyn Knight, 85, is still in hospital following her 20-hour ordeal when she was buried beneath a pile of timber and junk in a tiny potting shed.

Her condition is satisfactory.

IDEA FROM TV

Police believe the kidnappers may have got the idea from watching television.

Said Insp. Mckay: "The attempt follows the pattern some of television scripts."

The kidnappers must have followed the movements of Mrs. Knight and her husband closely to time the attempt when Mrs. Knight was alone in the house.

They tied up the semi-invalid and hid her in the shed about 100 yards from the house.

$4,000 RANSOM

Later the same afternoon they phoned Mr. Knight at home and demanded $4,000 ransom.

Police believe the men were probably young and amateurish since they did not say where or when the money was to be delivered.

Gun-Toting Clowns Pav Fines of $5

Six clowns who took part in the Victoria Day Parade May 24 each were fined $5 today for unlawfully discharging a firearm in the city.

The men, who took part in a float showing bootleggers being chased by policemen, all pleaded guilty to the charge.

They are Roy Robertson, 931 Wollaston, Ronald Noel, 484 Sturdie, Walter Shumanski, 823 Wollaston, Forrest McLeod, 3498 Aloha, John W. Carr, 2812 Inlet, and Leslie Coulter, 472 Fraser.

THREE HURT

Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett said three persons were injured when wadding from blank shells struck them on the back and arms.

The blanks were fired from shotguns by the men as part of their skit on the bootlegging chase.

Ray Bryant, lawyer for the six men, said instructions were given before the parade that all guns should be fired up in the air.

He said the incidents occurred because the factory blanks were defective.

Magistrate William Ostler said the six accused were "public-spirited citizens" taking part in the parade and had no intent of breaking the law. He imposed what he termed the "minimal fine" for the offence.

ARLA RENDLE
. . . biggest challenge

Learning to understand the Cockney accent was a big challenge to Mrs. Ian Rendle of Colquitz Junior High School during a year's teaching at Loughton, Essex, England.

"It was like learning another language," she said. "It took me about four weeks to figure out what my students were saying. They seemed to have a separate set of slang terms for almost everything."

Mrs. Rendle, formerly Arla Smalley, taught at Alderton Hall elementary school, Loughton, and her students were boys and girls of nine to 10.

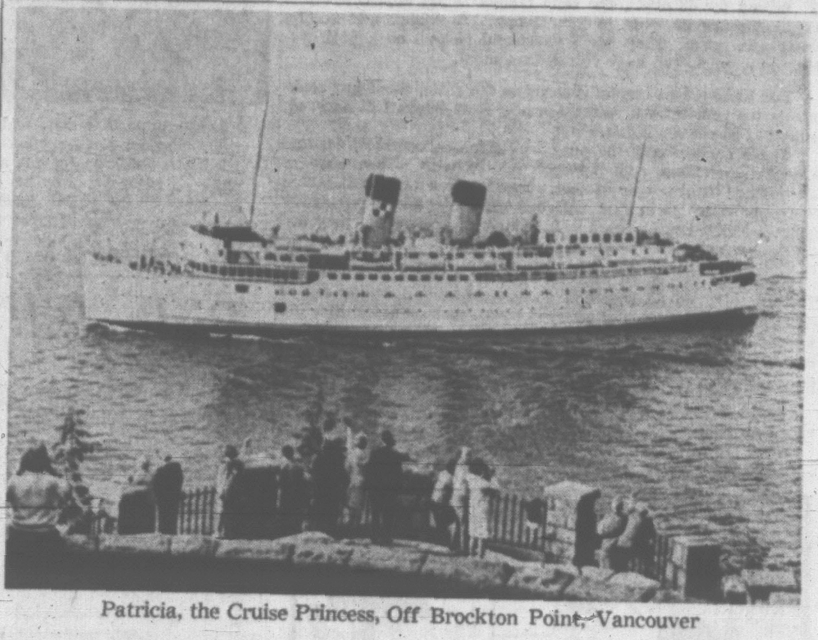
"I found they were far ahead of Canadian children at reading, but way behind them in science and mathematics. English teachers are much less supervised than we are, and the curriculum varies considerably according to individual choice.

"Most teachers encourage children to read the classics and to write stories and essays."

Were they better behaved than Victoria children?

"No," laughed Mrs. Rendle. "Kids are kids everywhere and my English charges were loaded with mischief."

While Mrs. Rendle was in England, Miss Mary Flood-Page of Alderton Hall taught on exchange at Oakland Junior High.



Patricia, the Cruise Princess, Off Brockton Point, Vancouver

VMD to Renovate Patricia For Mexican Luxury Cruise

A refit contract estimated at $340,000 for the CPR liner Princess Patricia has been awarded to Victoria Machinery Depot.

The work, which entails installation of a swimming pool, water evaporators and air conditioning units, will prepare her for a luxury cruise service, beginning in December.

The Patricia has been leased by the CPR to Princess Cruises Inc., which will ply her to four Mexican ports out of Los Angeles.

The cruises, due to begin in early December and run through April, will call at Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta, Manzanillo and Acapulco.

The 6,000-ton "pocket liner" will be entering perhaps the busiest time of her career.

For during the summer months she will continue on her Vancouver-Alaska runs, inaugurated in the summer of 1963.

Terms of the lease to the American operators, headed by Seattle businessman Stanley B. McDonald, were not disclosed by CPR.

Transmarine Navigation Corp., Los Angeles, will act as general agents in California and Transportacion Maritime Mexicana will serve her in Mexican ports.

During the two-week cruises out of Los Angeles, passengers will be able to undertake day-long shore tours at three Mexican ports.

At Acapulco they will spend two and a half days.

START AT $429

Return rates for the 14-day Mexican cruises will start at $429. Passengers will be permitted to lay over in Mexico and return later.

No autos or freight will be carried.

This will be the second major refit for the Patricia in three years.

Before her Alaska cruise career a $1 million job at Yarrows Ltd. added 100 cabins, an elevator, solarium and restaurant refinements.

The Patricia is expected to undergo refit in late September when her current season of Alaska cruises is completed. The job will take two months.

For her Mexican cruises the little liner will carry a top dance band, plus cruise director and staff.

Her crew will be the same personnel who operate her out of Vancouver.

WELL-KNOWN HERE

The trim, white-hulled vessel is no stranger to Victoria waterfront watchers.

She has wintered here several times at the CPR Belleville St. docks with other Princess ships Elaine, Marguerite and Louise.

The turbo-electric vessel, capable of 23 knots, arrived here from her builders in Scotland, June 10, 1949, and was put to work on the CPR's Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle triangle route.

POLICE MUM

U.S. Tourists Leave Town After Threats

City police today refused to give details of a complaint by two American tourists that they cut short their stay in Victoria because they were bothered by youthful hoodlums.

Deputy Chief Harry Mercer told a reporter who inquired about the incident, "I'm annoyed at your questions.

"What are you trying to do? Frighten away the tourists?

The complaint was made in a letter to city police from Mrs. A. C. Kirkman, 9910 S.W. Pembrook, Tigard, Oregon.

TEEN-AGERS

The Times learned that Mrs. Kirkman and her husband, an elderly grey-haired couple, were insulted and threatened by two husky teen-agers while walking near the Legislative Buildings on the evening of June 30.

Mrs. Kirkman said the youths called them "filthy names" and threatened to hit them. Some pedestrians came along and she and her husband quickly left the scene.

But they were frightened by the incident and left the city next morning ahead of schedule because of it.

Mrs. Kirkman complained to police about the matter because a recurrence of such incidents would harm tourism in this area and she thought police should be informed.

Deputy Chief Mercer refused to allow a reporter to see the letter. He said, "A letter to the Chief Constable is none of your business."

Ask The Times

Q. How long have people been drinking tea? Is it harmful? P.L.

A. Chinese first began drinking tea around 500 AD, says the World Book Encyclopedia.

It is not harmful to adults, but contains caffeine and tannin.

Caffeine is a stimulant which increases the blood pressure and may have a harmful effect on the nervous system if large quantities are taken.

Tannin is mildly poisonous, but will not dissolve in water unless boiled for a long time.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Early Returns Favor Sports Complex

First returns on the Times' ballot for popular preference in a 1967 Greater Victoria confederation centennial project point toward a stadium-auditorium sports complex.

Out of 59 unspoiled ballots returned to the Times since Wednesday, 25 carry votes for the sports complex, 19 are for an outdoor saltwater pool at Cadboro Bay beach, eight are for a planetarium and seven favor an English pier type of glass-domed pavilion at Clover Point.

The Times is helping centennial officials gauge public opinion on the four suggestions before a final recommendation for a joint area project is made at the end of July.

Greater Victoria centennial projects subcommittee narrowed the choice from 46 ideas.

WHICH ONE?

Here is your chance to express your view on a centennial project for Greater Victoria.

The centennial committee has narrowed down to four the number of projects still in the running.

To assist the committee in finding out the preference of the public The Times will run the following ballot daily until the end of the month when final decision will be made.

All you do is mark a cross against your choice and mail to "Times Centennial Project Ballot," 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria.

These are the four projects:

1. Planetarium ☐
2. Stadium complex with provision for immediate or future construction of indoor sports facilities ☐
3. Glass-domed pavilion at Clover Point ☐
4. Outdoor saltwater pool at Cadboro Bay ☐

Former Bapco Accountant Dies Suddenly

Frank James Boughton, 78, died suddenly at his Camrose Crescent home this morning.

Born in England, Mr. Boughton was a resident of Victoria for the past 40 years.

He was chief accountant for Bapco Paints of Victoria for 32 years until his retirement 10 years ago.

Past master of Camosun Lodge No. 60, AF and AM, GRBC, he also served as a former principal of the Camosun Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

He is survived by the widow, Margot (Mollie) Boughton, one daughter, Mrs. R. B. Anderson, of Victoria, and two grandchildren, Murray and Janice Anderson.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. in St. John's Church, Quadra Street, Canon George Biddle officiating. The service will be followed by cremation, McCall Bros. in charge.

NEW ARM has been promised six-year-old Stephanie Daniel by her mother Jeanette. Stephanie had her arm chewed off by two Alaska grey wolves when the youngster put it through a wire cage at the Idaho Falls zoo Sunday. The child was to start summer school next week. (AP Wirephoto.)

EMPTY SHELL REMAINS

55 Years of History Auctioned Off at 'Y'

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

If you walked into the old YMCA building on Blanshard Street today, your steps would echo 100 times over through its four floors.

Thursday afternoon, 55 years of history was carted out the door as hundreds of pieces of furniture were auctioned.

Office furniture, kitchen appliances, fixtures and 80 bedroom suites were sold.

Some looked "Early Depression." Some was the original equipment manhandled into position 50 years ago. Some was only 20 years old.

It's all gone now.

If furniture could talk, what colorful stories, amusing anecdotes or dramatic incidents it could have recalled after more than a half century of hosting thousands of permanent and transient guests.

The first Y residence consisted of two tents set up at the temporary camp for gold miners in the Victoria of 1859.

Young men on their way from California to the Yukon gold rush stayed there waiting for transportation.

With the building of the permanent residence in 1910, young, and later on, older men started using the facilities as a home.

The 80 bedrooms logged an average of 15,000 bed-nights a year. Most were overnight transients but many stayed on year after year. One of those was Fred Cliff who lived there 36 years.

Yet with all the service it provided as a hotel, the residence was really incidental.

The main purpose of the building was programing for boys and girls. Thousands of Victorians learned to swim in the "Y" pool. Other programs offered were adult education, public speaking, art, world affairs and languages.

WOMEN ONLY

The new YM-YWCA Building on Courtney Street will have living accommodations only for women.

Officials have found that young men today are looking for accommodation in apartments, on a sharing basis with friends. They're not interested in the old type of controlled residence anymore.

The "Y" will only provide a listing service of reliable temporary residences for those young men new to the city.

Comsat Plans Washington Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corporation announced Thursday selection of a 310-acre site near Brewster, Wash., for construction of an earth station.

The site is on a plateau known as Brewster Flat, about five miles northeast of the town of Brewster in north-central Washington. The land now is planted to winter wheat.

Comsat said the proposed station would provide communications services to Hawaii and other parts of the Pacific area as part of its global communications system.

FROM EUROPE

U.S. Withdraws Mace Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department announced Thursday that 90 Mace-A winged missiles will be withdrawn from Europe by the end of next June.

The target areas assigned to these Mace-A weapons will be covered by other systems, including more modern Pershing ballistic missiles already in Europe, the Pentagon said.

"Being in fixed positions, the Mace-A missiles are relatively vulnerable to a surprise attack," the announcement said.

"The mobile Pershing missile has greater survivability and also has better ability to penetrate enemy defences."

The Mace, an air-breathing weapon which looks something like a pilotless airplane, can hurl a nuclear or high-explosive warhead about 600 miles. The Pershing has a range of about 400 miles. Both types of missiles are set up in West Germany.

Careless Drivers

In Saanich police court Thursday:

Alexander Mitchell, 3830 Synod, drove into a ditch June 19 at Cedar Hill Road and Weatherly, fined $50.

Edward Pridham, 1544 Brook, rear-end collision June 23 at Battleford and Harriet, fined $40.

MANY STILL MISSING

About 1,250,000 German soldiers and 1,120,000 civilians are still legally missing but not proved killed during the Second World War.

Loggers Want All-Sun at All-Sooke Day

SOOKE—While most Vancouver Island loggers prayed for more rain today, the loggers at Sooke were hoping for sunshine.

On Saturday many of them will take part in the famed logging sports at All-Sooke Day.

But rain or shine, the annual event will go on.

Finishing touches were being added today as organizers prepared for the 12:30 p.m. opening.

In addition to the logging sports, there will be field events, a midway and numerous side attractions, including an all-day barbecue. Admission is $1.

Penalties Too Harsh Or Too Light—Winch

NANAIMO — Magistrate Eric Winch said here Thursday penalties prescribed for violation of some provincial government acts are in need of major revision.

The magistrate made the comment in fining an 18-year-old youth $50—the maximum—for being found in licensed premises. He noted that it was the fifth time John William Heggs had been convicted of the Liquor Act offence.

"In some instances the minimum fine appears to be too harsh, while in others, the maximum is too light," said Magistrate Winch.

He said later violations of the B.C. Truck Act and provincial "purple gas" regulations are among provincial statutes where minimum fines are high.

LADYSMITH—Sprinkler regulations have gone into force here.

As of today, residents in the area will be limited to two hours sprinkling a day.

The enforcement has been brought in to eke out the steadily dwindling water supplies.

However, town clerk James Runciman believes the present supply will last to the end of October if the present consumption is maintained.

To accommodate shift workers, sprinkling hours will alternate between 7 and 9 a.m. and 7 and 9 p.m.

Ladysmith is drawing its water from Prevost Dam.

Works foreman John Thomson anticipates switching to the higher company dam for August and September and Stocking Lake in October.

DUNCAN—In September, Duncan wil be the second place in B.C. to have an educational TV program.

Cowichan Senior Secondary School will be equippped with two television cameras, a dozen receiving sets and a video tape recorder.

The school board Thursday agreed to rent the equipment at $575 a month.

Educational TV consultant will be Jeff Tothill, a science teacher at the school.

School TV was first installed at Kamloops.

NORTH COWICHAN—Janet, a six-year-old Holstein from the herd of Ate De Wit, South Chemainus, won the Brackman-Ker prize for highest producing cow in the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association during June.

She gave 13,476-pound milk and 679-pound butterfat.

Gerry Van Jaarsveld, Somenos, took the prize for high herd average. His cows averaged 1,727-lb. milk and 68.3-lb. butterfat for the 30 days.

Mr. Jaarsveld also took the honors for highest producing two-year-old with Eileen who supplied 14,360-lb. milk and 610-lb. butterfat.

There were 62 completed records in the association during June.

DUNCAN — Trustee Gerald Patterson of Cowichan school board is taking a busman's holiday this year.

He drives a logging truck every day.

And Thursday, as chairman of the board's transportation committee, he announced he was going back east to collect one of their new buses.

Mr. Patterson and bus superintendent Dick Price will bring the buses back from Brantford, Ont.

ALBERNI — Agriculture Minister Frank Richter has been invited to make a personal inspection of claims that plant life in the Alberni Valley is dying at an abnormally high rate.

The invitation was issued Thursday by Colin Wilson of McCoy Garden Centre in a letter to the minister.

Replying to a letter from Mr. Richter, Mr. Wilson sought a study to determine whether the death rate has been produced by air pollution or some other cause.

Mr. Wilson said the minister apparently has no knowledge "of the problems and difficulties being experienced by home owners of this area."

"The loss of plant life in this Alberni Valley at present is not normal and warrants a thorough inspection by your department."

A yearling Morgan stallion, Beckridge Donfield, owned by Mrs. Jan Harkema of Salt Spring Island, will be entered Sunday, July 18, in the annual All Morgan Horse Show at Abbotsford.

The show horse recently placed first in the Pacific Northwest Morgan Horse Show at Seattle and should be a strong contender.

Other entries will include Morgan stock belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mallory of Alberni and one entry owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pallister of Victoria.

The show is sponsored by the B.C. Morgan Horse Club and the Rotary Club of Abbotsford.

ISLAND DIGEST

Chant Denies Promising Library Space

DUNCAN—Public Works Minister W. N. Chant has denied he promised library facilities in the new Duncan government building.

In a letter to Cowichan School Board Thursday, Mr. Chant said the regional library is not a provincial agency.

It is supported by the municipalities and he said no library accommodation is planend in the building now under construction.

"HE PROMISED"

Chairman Joseph Frumento said: "That's not the point. Mr. Chant promised the library."

Trustee Wilf Peck said the minister's point was sound. It would make just as much sense to build classrooms in the government building.

However, if Mr. Chant made the promise he should follow through, he said.

Trustee Nancy Bailey suggested the city of Duncan might consider a new library building as its centennial project.

Blood Clinic Sets Record

NANAIMO—A two-day blood clinic ended here Thursday night and set an all-time record.

In all, 861 pints were donated, beating the previous high by 51 pints.

Despite this Nanaimo is still 339 pints behind its target.

BOMB BLAST THEORY IN AIR TRAGEDY

So Horrible Man Cried Like a Baby

HUNDRED MILE HOUSE B.C. (CP)—"He was crying from the horribleness of it all."

This is a woman's description of her husband's reaction to seeing the trail of broken bodies at the scene of a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B crash Thursday which killed all 52 persons aboard.

The man, Bill Wolfgramm, 35, mechanic at 100 Mile House, rushed to the scene to see if he could help.

"There was no sign of life anywhere," he said today.

TRAIL OF BODIES

"The tail of the plane was half a mile away (from the fuselage) and there was a constant trail of broken and bent bodies, scattered arms and legs, leading between the two.

"All we could do before it got dark was to pick up a few bodies.

"I saw the body of a young child but I could not tell whether it was that of a boy or girl. It was so badly injured.

He said the fuselage somewhere dropped through the trees, without crushing a path.

"The scene is pretty hard to describe. It's amazing how the plane got in between the big trees.

"It's sitting flat on the ground and right between the trees.

TERRIBLE SCENE

"It is a terrible scene and one I will never forget."

Wolfgramm and his wife were in a beer parlor when they heard of the tragedy. They drove over the muddy 25-mile logging road to the crash scene to offer their help.

Mrs. Wolfgramm said her husband went on ahead and when he reported to her that there was nothing they could do to help, he was crying, she said.

EYEWITNESSES

Kovacs said he spoke to the men and they told him the four-engine plane "lost its tail in flight, then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said, from the description of the men—who were not immediately identified — "the plane just plunked I guess."

He said there were 15 bodies still inside the plane when searchers arrived but they were "burned beyond recognition."

Crews were preparing a clearing for helicopters to land to remove bodies from the rugged site, he said.

A new logging road cuts through the area about 200 yards from the wreckage.

MRS. QUAYLE
. . . second tragedy

City Mother, Prospector Among Victims

Two Victoria families today mourn the loss of close relatives killed when a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane exploded and crashed near 100-Mile House Thursday afternoon.

They are:

Victoria architect Charles E. Craig, 46, and Mrs. Craig, 2524 Queenswood, whose son David, 21, was flying north on a prospecting trip.

Oyster farmer W. K. Quayle, 390 Quayle Road, whose wife, Alsace Lorraine, was flying to Watson Lake to be with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Johnson-Watson, now expecting her sixth child.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig were informed of the tragedy by Canadian Pacific Airlines Thursday night.

David Craig was a field prospector with the firm of Rodstrom Yellowknife Mines Ltd., 556 Johnson Street. Born in Winnipeg, he was educated at Glenlyon School, Victoria, and at the University of Victoria where he studied arts and science.

"ALL-ROUND MAN"

"I couldn't say enough for him," said H. E. Fowler, manager of Rodstrom Mines. "He was a good all-round man who got along with everyone. I would say he had great promise"

Mr. Craig was flying to the company's Bullion Creek Mines in northern B.C. when the plane crashed.

"He was up there before last December in 70-below zero temperatures," Mr. Fowler said, "and he was keen to go back this week."

Mr. Craig joined the firm last November. He was unmarried and devoted much of his leisure time to the study of mining. His brother, James, also attended Glenlyon School, and both were keen cricketers.

ARCHITECT

Their father, a well-known city architect before retirement, received a National Design Award in 1962 for his design of a multiple - dwelling villa at 960 Humboldt for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mrs. Quayle had originally planned to leave on the weekend for Watson Lake, but changed her mind and left Thursday so she would be in Watson Lake for the weekend.

She left Victoria at 1:20 p.m. Thursday.

Her death is a second tragedy for the Quayle family. Her son, Gary, was killed dur-

Whale Reported In Cage

NAMU, B.C. (CP) — The world's only captive killer whale is in the bag and en route to a new home—if the bag can be moved.

Squealing and thrashing, the 20-foot mammal was driven into a special constructed pen Friday morning by his owner, Seattle aquarium operator Ted Griffin.

The pen, constructed of oil drums, nets and steel tubing, was to start the long haul to Seattle later today.

Mr. Griffin said he will hire a commercial tug to take over the towing operation after the tiny Seattle tug Robert E. Lee had trouble towing the pen Thursday.

A Namu seiner owned by Vivian Wilson was also unable to tow the pen easily.

PORT HARDY

Mr. Griffin said the first stage of towing will be to Port Hardy, on northern Vancouver Island.

"We'll get this whale to Seattle one way or another, you can bet on that," he said.

Mr. Griffin bought the whale last week for $8,000 from two Namu fishermen who trapped it with gillnets against a reef.

He is reported to have decided against a plan to use the captive as bait to trap other killer whales.

The plan was suggested by the scientists at the scene, who said the known family fidelity of whales would help in snaring a couple more of the big mammals from a pod of 20 to 30 killers which has made frequent visits to the captive's enclosure in the last few days.

STILL SMOLDERING this morning after crashing Thursday night killing all 52 aboard is remains of Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B aircraft. Wings of plane fell into trees after tail section fell off.

Tail Fell Off —All 52 Die

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—RCMP investigators are working on a "bomb theory" today in the crash of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane Thursday that killed all 52 persons on board.

A senior RCMP officer, who refused to be identified, said a logger who saw the crash told police he saw the plane blow apart in the air.

The 46 passengers, including four children, and crew of six, died when the DC-6B airliner plunged into woods 30 miles southwest of this Cariboo community.

Other reports from searchers at the scene of the worst crash in CPA's history lent credence to the theory that the four-engine plane exploded in flight.

Searchers found the main cabin virtually intact and the tail section about a half-mile away. They reported both sections appeared to have plummetted straight to the ground.

A stand of 50-foot-high trees was untouched except where the fuselage crushed the timber beneath. There was no swath through the bush to indicate forward motion.

Just Time for 'May Day' Call

The pilot, Capt. John Alfred Steele, 41, of North Vancouver, had time only to repeat three quick May-Days—the international distress call—before the plane disappeared from radar screens.

CPA officials, who monitored the distress call in Vancouver, said the pilot did not identify himself or the aircraft. There were only the three staccato May-Day cries.

A CPA spokesman would say only that it was too early to determine whether a bomb in one of the plane's four luggage compartments was the cause of the crash.

"As far as the bomb is concerned, you find someone coming up with the theory in nearly every air disaster," he said.

Steve Kovacs, a B.C. Telephone Co. radio technician, drove a radio-equipped truck to the scene of the wreckage and reported that two employees of nearby Ainsworth sawmills were eyewitnesses to the crash.

Kovacs said he spoke to the men—who have not been identified—and they told him the plane "lost its tail in flight then twisted and curled like a whirlwind on the way down."

He said ground searchers found 15 bodies inside the main cabin but they were "burned beyond recognition." Most were still strapped into their seats.

'Plane Spiralled to Earth

Airline officials said the plane, Flight 21 bound for Whitehorse, Y.T., via Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, B.C. and Watson lake, Y.T., left Vancouver at 3:30 p.m.

The May Day was received at 4:55 p.m.

Police said the logger-witness described the crash this way: The tail blasted off and spiralled to earth. A gaping hole left in the rear of the plane allowed pressure inside to push out a number of passengers.

The fuselage and wings dropped like a stone.

Capt. Steele radioed about 15 minutes before the crash that he was changing course to avoid turbulence ahead. The plane was flying at 15,000 feet.

The weather office in Vancouver reported thunderstorms in the area, but a southbound flight made the trip earlier in the day without incident.

Department of Transport officials impounded all flight insurance, cargo manifestos, maintenance records, and passenger lists.

Dr. Thomas How, regional DOT director, said "we've impounded all these items, and our investigators are at the scene.

"We have not yet found anything to definitely suggest sabotage," said How, "but there are many things to consider, and sabotage is one of them."

The crash was the worst in the history of CPA. In 1951 a CPA DC-4 went down over Alaska, killing 38 persons.

It was Canada's fourth worst

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP)—A morgue on wheels was set up here today for the bodies of 52 persons who died in Thursday's Canadian Pacific Airlines crash.

A large transport refrigerator truck driven to within three-quarters of a mile of the wreckage was being used to house the bodies as they were recovered.

Officials said the truck would return to this Cariboo town, the nearest community, after all or most of the bodies had been found.

More Troops Planned for Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson disclosed today that mounting casualties and stepped up combat activity are expected to require an increase in U.S. troop strength in Viet Nam beyond the recently set goal of 75,000.

At a news conference in his White House office the president also denounced as "irresponsible, inaccurate, and untrue" speculation that policy differences were behind the resignation of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as U.S. Ambassador to Saigon.

Police Chief Shot Dead In U.S.

LYNDONVILLE, Vt. (UPI)—The police chief of this northern Vermont community was shot to death today. A barber was seized for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Chief Alexander Fontecha, 45, died from two shotgun blasts, authorities said. The barber was seized a short time later in his shop.

Trail of Murder, Abduction Ends in Capture of Pair

TONOPAH, Nev. (AP)—Two Oregon murder-kidnap suspects, who had eluded police in Oregon, California and Nevada since Tuesday and who had taken nine persons as hostages in that time, surrendered to officers early today.

California highway patrol headquarters in Sacramento said police at Benton Station, on the California-Nevada border, reported that the men had surrendered.

They were taken to jail in Bridgeport, Calif.

Police said the fugitives were taken just south of the border check station at Benton. They apparently offered no resistance.

Their capture came about two hours after they had released Marie Champion, 39, wife of California's finance director, Hale Champion, and their 19-month-old daughter.

Champion, who also was taken hostage by the fleeing men, was released earlier at Tonopah after he was shot in the hip by a bystander who fired at the fugitives who had commandeered a sheriff's patrol car.

STARTED TUESDAY

The release of the Champions climaxed a crime trail that began Tuesday when a Portland, Ore., bank was robbed of $14,000.

Ex-convicts, Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, originally of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cletes Bowles, 24, an Amarillo, Tex., native, were sought for this holdup.

Later Tuesday an Oregon deputy sheriff who had halted their car was gunned down. They kidnapped six Oregon persons—a man, two women and three boys—and escaped into California in a trailer camper, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

In Sacramento, they released the six Oregon hostages and later went to the Champion home and abducted the couple and their infant daughter.

They were first spotted just outside Tonopah Thursday night when Grey and Bowles commandeered the deputy sheriff's car.

The fugitives took the car when the deputies stopped to check a car fitting the description of the Champions.

Grey and Bowles, after dumping Champion out of the car, eluded officers by holding the woman and baby at gunpoint.

STOPPED FOR FOOD

From Tonopah they drove to Coaldale Junction on U.S. 95. Bowles and Grey forced Elton Parson, owner of the Coaldale Inn, to give them food and gasoline.

Nevada deputies, armed with rifles, stood by helplessly in the darkness of the inn as the fugitives drove away.

McNAB NOT ON PLANE

He Cancelled Reservation

Times News Services

Max McNab, general manager of the Western Hockey League Vancouver Canucks, had a reservation on a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B which exploded and crashed Thursday, killing all 52 persons aboard.

McNab had been asked by the Prince George junior hockey club to participate in a hockey school at that city.

McNab's reservation for the flight was made three weeks ago, but he said the coliseum issue in Vancouver and city's bid for a National Hockey League franchise resulted in his cancelling the reservation.

He was at a lacrosse game when he heard the news.

Some of the 52 persons who died in the wreckage of the Canadian Pacific Airlines Flight 21 nearly missed the plane.

CPA officials said Thursday night there was a last-minute rush to board the plane which left Vancouver at 3:30 p.m. (PDT) for northern British Columbia and the Yukon.

It crashed less than 90 minutes later some 170 miles northeast of here.

WAS ON TOUR

Clement Livingstone King of Toronto was an accountant; senior partner in the firm of Deloitte, Plender, Haskings and Sells. He was on a tour of his company's B.C. offices.

Keith Eadie was en route back to Prince George, where he was general manager of Northwood Pulp Company.

G. (Grampa) Whimp was another prospector going back north to the upper Liard River area. His home was listed as Watson Lake.

At Ottawa Prime Minister Pearson said today he was "profoundly shocked and saddened" by Thursday night's crash.

The prime minister said in a statement that "our dismay when such accidents happen is intensified by the fact that the safety record maintained by Canada's air industry is among the best in the world."

He said he was extending deepest sympathy to the families of the victims.

Air Board Reinstates 3 Licences

OTTAWA (CP) — The Air Transport Board announced Thursday three licences which were suspended this year have been reinstated.

The licences affected are:

Can-Am Aircraft Co. Ltd., a charter and specialty commercial service based at Winnipeg;

Skyhaven, Inc., a non-scheduled charter service to transport persons and goods from Bellingham, Wash., to points in British Columbia;

Ontario Central Airlines Ltd., a charter service based at Fort Frances, Ont.

The board also announced an extension and cancellation of two other licences.

Cancellation of its contract service at Edmonton was requested by Gunnar - Nesbitt Aviation Ltd., which has disposed of its aircraft.

Wien Alaska Airlines Inc., of Fairbanks, Alaska, has its temporary licence to carry local traffic between Juneau, Alaska, and Whitehorse in the Yukon extended to Dec. 31, 1965 or the date of the completion of the Canada-U.S. bilateral air agreement negotiations, whichever is first. The company has a regular scheduled service between Fairbanks and Whitehorse.

Thant Asks For Truce

LONDON (Reuters) — United Nations' secretary-general U Thant called tonight for the end of all fighting in Viet Nam and the reconvening of the 1954 Indochina conference.

He spoke at London airport on his way back to New York after talks on Viet Nam with British Prime Minister Wilson and Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart.

Thant said:

"In my view, the first step toward the restoration of peace and stability in Viet Nam is cease all hostile military activities.

"That is a first prerequisite.

"The second is to reconvene the Geneva conference of 1954.

"Then we have to be very clear about the objects. In my view, the Geneva agreement of 1954 is very sensible and very realistic and still valid after 11 years."

HOME GARDEN

Your Reward: Gay Colors In the Fall

Jack

The pansy is probably the most popular plant in the home garden. The present range of plain colors and bicolors with their varied markings give wonderful effects with little care.

These are cool-weather plants. They show their aversion for the warmer days of summer by diminishing the quantity of bloom as though they would take a well-earned holiday.

During this comparatively brief resting period the gardener can do much to improve the plants, ensuring a magnificent display throughout the fall.

CUT BACK

Examination of the plants will show long growths made since spring. These growths may now be cut back to within two or three inches of soil level, being sure that sufficient leaves remain on the plants to manufacture food.

The last few flowers should be removed and put into little bowls and vases for those pleasant, fragrant posies to dot around windowsills and coffee tables.

When the plants have been trimmed make a mixture of sand and screened compost or very old manure and dress the bed or border, working the mixture close to the crown of each plant with the fingers.

Follow this with a thorough watering, and additional watering when necessary in the weeks to come.

The reward of color from late August until winter's cold forces another period of rest will be worth the effort.

aviation disaster — behind a Nov. 29, 1963, crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines now Air Canada DC-8 near St. Therese, Que., which killed 111 persons, on Aug. 11, 1957, crash of a Maritime Central Airways DC-4 at Issoudon, Que., taking 97 lives and a Dec. 9, 1956, crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star near Chilliwack, B.C., in which 62 died.

Three forest towers in the area spotted a plume of smoke and ordered B.C. forest service pilot Slim Sherk to fly his light plane over the area, about 5:05 p.m.

"I could see black smoke curling up into the sky 30 miles away," he said.

NO SUSPICION

"I had no suspicion it was anything but a forest fire."

As he flew closer:

"I could see it was a plane on fire. There was the smoke of magnesium burning. I have seen it burning before in plane crashes.

"The fuselage was smoke and raw flames. The wings were collapsing from the heat but the plane was relatively intact except for the tail section.

"There were bodies and debris all over. The tail section wasn't there. It appeared as though the plane dove straight into the bush. There was no trail of broken trees.

"I counted 20 or 24 bodies until I couldn't find anymore."

Sherk radioed the forest service and flew over the site until a ground party came in.

"I carry rolls of toilet paper in the plane to lay down trails to fires for the ground crews to follow—I laid trails to the bodies so they could find them."

The tail stabilizer was a quarter of a mile from the main wreckage.

WINGS STILL ON

"As far as I could see," Sherk said, "apparently the tail end exploded. It was blown over a wide area. The wings were still on. I couldn't see the bodies in the front compartment because of the smoke and flames."

His fuel running low, Sherk returned to Williams Lake, refuelled, and went back to circling the wreckage to guide in a rescue plane with RCAF para-rescue teams. Early today almost all the bodies had been identified.

The CPA crew came from the Vancouver area except for steward Ernest Wenzel Soural, 31, born in Hohenstadt, Germany, and one of the two stewardesses. Her name was withheld until relatives could be notified.

Capt. Steele, a wartime RCAF pilot, had been with CPA since 1950. First Officer Warner Murray Wells, 29, was born in Toronto and had been with CPA since 1959. Second Officer Stanley E. Clarke, 26, joined the airline last November.

Stewardess Sue Heinrich, 22, had just completed her first year of service.

Cigarettes, Cash Taken From Machine

A thief who broke into the Texaco Service Station at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill overnight Thursday got away with cigarettes from a vending machine and an undetermined amount of cash.

The break-in was discovered by Saanich police at 3 a.m. today.

B.C. Ministers Criticize Link to 'Potato Patch'

B.C. cabinet ministers today aimed bitter remarks at Ottawa for discrimination in the federal government's plan to build a $148 million link between Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

None opposed the link but said Ottawa should be as generous to B.C.'s transportation problems.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell called the federal plan a "political boondoggle to a potato patch" and said similar help for Vancouver Island would produce a better return to the nation.

He said the federal government now should give annually "a hefty operating grant" to the B.C. Ferry Authority because the Victoria and Nanaimo links with Vancouver form an integral part of the Trans-Canada Highway. The authority's proposed Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert run also should receive federal money because it would connect with the Alaska State Ferries, making it an international route.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi also claimed the offer showed discrimination.

"If they can do it for P.E.I. they can do something for B.C. for a change," he said. "All provinces should be treated the same."

He said the City of Vancouver should ask for a substantial Ottawa grant to help with construction of a desired new Second Narrows crossing.

'FEW PEOPLE'

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said it was surprising to see such a large sum go for a project to an area of so few people. He questioned whether it might not have been more economical to provide a ferry service.

"There seems to be a great cleavage between east and west when it comes to federal help for communication problems," said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Campbell said:

"I think Vancouver Island residents wouldn't deny any part of Canada this kind of help, but there seems to be a great deal of inequality between the treatment of P.E.I. and here."

"Anything done for the Island which would contribute to the economy would return more to the national economy than this political boondoggle to a potato patch.

"The federal government should make a hefty operating subsidy to the ferries—they already gave $3.8 million to the ferry between P.E.I. and New Brunswick."

'HOMING' SPY ROCKET DEVELOPED

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada and Britain are working together to perfect an automated missile-like "spy" that can zoom over enemy lines, snap pictures and return to base with vital fighting information.

Defence Production Minister C. M. (Bud) Drury said today the nuclear-age peeping Tom will be ready for production this year. It is built by Canadair in Montreal.

It's called the airborne surveillance drone system or, just drone, for short.

The drone is fired from a mobile launcher, zooms over the enemy lines, photographs the terrain and military equipment with its two cameras and then shoots back to base like a homing pigeon.

When comes the time it should come down to earth, the engine cuts off and a parachute floats it safely to earth.

tance for fear that the suspects would harm their hostages.

Crossing the border, Grey and Bowles stopped at Benton and telephoned the Nevada highway patrol and announced they were releasing Mrs. Champion and Katherine Marie.

Nevada officers took Mrs. Champion back to Tonopah, where Champion had undergone surgery at the Nye County Hospital.

In addition to the Champion kidnapping, Boles and Grey are suspected of gunning down deputy Carlton E. Smith, 33; and Kidnapping Mrs. David Corbin, 33, her son, Clinton, 12, and later abducted an Oregon couple and two boys and got away in the trailer camper.

Fidel Plants Trees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro planted 1,136 pine trees in the hills of Oriente Province, Havana radio reported Friday. Some 800 Cuban youths whose trip to Algeria was cancelled after the governmental overthrow there are working in Oriente to plant 1,000,000 trees, and Castro joined them Thursday, the Miami-monitored broadcast said.

Loggers Want All-Sun at All-Sooke Day

SOOKE—While most Vancouver Island loggers prayed for more rain today, the loggers at Sooke were hoping for sunshine.

On Saturday many of them will take part in the famed logging sports at All-Sooke Day.

But rain or shine, the annual event will go on.

Finishing touches were being added today as organizers prepared for the 12:30 p.m. opening.

In addition to the logging sports, there will be field events, a midway and numerous side attractions, including an all-day barbecue. Admission is $1.

PM 'Stabbed Me in Back;' Dupuis Eyes Legal Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Dupuis, former federal minister without portfolio, said Thursday night he has asked his lawyers to see whether he has grounds for legal action against Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Dupuis, speaking at a press conference in Montreal, said he was surprised at a statement in Ottawa earlier in the day by Mr. Pearson, who told reporters that the Liberal party will oppose the ex-minister if he stands for re-election to Parliament.

"This relentlessness against me on the part of one who holds the highest political position in Canada surprises me and scandalizes me more than a little," Mr. Dupuis said.

"How could the prime minister make such a tendentious statement against me at the moment when I am preparing to be judged by my peers?"

Mr. Dupuis was referring to charges he faces of conspiring to "demand, accept or offer $10,000" in connection with an attempt to obtain a racetrack franchise from the Quebec government for his home riding of St. Jean - Iberville - Napierville. Earlier this week, he was ordered to stand trial at the St. Johns, Que., fall assizes on the charges.

At the press conference Thursday night, Mr. Dupuis said the prime minister "stabbed me in the back."

"How, as leader of the Liberal party, could he make such an autocratic statement within a matter of hours after the Liberal Federation of Canada, Quebec branch, adopted a resolution to put off examination of my case until the courts render a final decision?" Mr. Dupuis asked.

"If the prime minister has accusations to make against me, let him have the courage to state them publicly," he said.

FRANCE SHUNS N-COMMITTEE

PARIS (Reuters) — France has informed the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that it is not interested in an American proposal for the creation of a NATO nuclear committee, French officials said today.

The proposal was made by U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara at a meeting here of NATO defence ministers at the end of May.

Chant Denies Promising Library Space

DUNCAN—Public Works Minister W. N. Chant has denied he promised library facilities in the new Duncan government building.

In a letter to Cowichan School Board Thursday, Mr. Chant said the regional library is not a provincial agency.

It is supported by the municipalities and he said no library accommodation is planend in the building now under construction.

"HE PROMISED"

Chairman Joseph Frumento said: "That's not the point. Mr. Chant promised the library."

Trustee Wilf Peck said the minister's point was sound. It would make just as much sense to build classrooms in the government building.

However, if Mr. Chant made the promise he should follow through, he said.

Trustee Nancy Bailey suggested the city of Duncan might consider a new library building as its centennial project.

Sen. Kennedy Softens Punch Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said today that U.S. military action in South Viet Nam is "essential" to allow the Saigon government to carry out its political functions.

He inserted the comment in a speech that had been interpreted in some quarters before he delivered it as criticism of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policy.

Kennedy's prepared text had said that "victory in a revolutionary war is won not by escalation but by de-escalation." Many observers took this as a veiled slap at the stepped-up U.S. involvement in South Viet Nam. The New York Democrat dropped this line when he actually delivered the speech, however. (See earlier story, Page 3.)

He then softened the speech further with two other additions, saying:

"At the moment, our most prominent problem is in Viet Nam. We must realize, however, that Viet Nam has become more and more an open military conflict as well, in which military action on our part is essential just to allow the government to act politically."

final round to share second place with Brian Huggett of Wales, who closed with a 70.

Alone at 288 was Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina after a final round 72.

Tony Lema, the defending champion, fell victim to the stormy conditions that plagued the par 73, 7,037 yard Royal Birkdale course on the morning round, and he had to settle for a fifth place tie at 289 with a final round 74.

Jack Nicklaus closed well with a 73 after a disastrous 77 morning round and finished at 294, one stroke better than Arnold Palmer, who soared to 79 in the afternoon after starting the final round just two strokes behind the leader.

Tied with Lema at 289 were Bernard Hunt of England and Kel Nagle of Australia. Bruce Devlin of Australia, just one stroke off the pace at the start of the final round, closed with a 75 for 290. Sebastian Miguel of Spain also had 290.

Nicklaus, the 3-1 favorite, dropped out of contention when he shot a 77 in the morning round despite an eagle and a birdie on the final two holes.

WIRE BRIEFS

Queen Grieved

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen today sent a telegram of sympathy to Governor-General Vanier of Canada after Thursday night's plane crash in B.C., in which 52 persons were killed.

Women Are Hostages

TAYLOR, Ark. (UPI)—Two men robbed the Taylor branch of the First National Bank of Magnolia, Ark., today and carried off two fighting, screaming women bank employees as hostages.

Police Probe Ends

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer George Murray said today he has completed a report on his investigation into possible criminal activities by some members of the Vancouver city police department. He said his report will be in police commission hands later today.

Blood Clinic Sets Record

NANAIMO—A two-day blood clinic ended here Thursday night and set an all-time record.

In all, 861 pints were donated, beating the previous high by 51 pints.

Despite this Nanaimo is still 339 pints behind its target.
